Dr. M. C. Strickland has installed the latest-improved static battery, more elegant in its appointments, than a brand new Chickering piano. Rev. W. G. Eliot and a Courier-Herald reporter, tried the electric shampoo apparatus, that is what the laymen call it, but physicians use it as a treatment for nervousness. The currents circulate through the hair and scalp at a lively rate, and the effect is exhilarating. There is also an X-ray machine attached to the battery, and a generator of ozone, absolutely pure air, to say nothing of other attachments. The elaborate battery is operated with an electric motor.

Register C. B. Moores, of the local land office, has been awarded another decision in his favor in his tax contest with Clackamas county. The supreme court affirmed the decision of Judge McBride in the matter of the Minthorn tax sale of certain property. Mr. Moores contended that the property had been illegally assessed, and therefore the county had no legal authority to sell the same. The decision by the supreme court is to the effect that where a tax sale has been made under an illegal assessment, the owner of the property is entitled to a decree restraining the county from asserting its title under a purchase at such sale, but this injunction will not extend to forbidding the county from asserting its right, if it has any, to assess a valid tax against the property and collect. Taxes must be legal, otherwise county may not enforce payment. Clackamas county appealed from the decision of the lower court and lost.
