W. W. Richardson, who owns a big farm, adjoining the town of Pomeroy, Wash., was visiting his uncle, R. D. Wilson, for a couple of days during the week. While here Mr. Richardson purchased an electric plant in Portland to be operated at Pomeroy.

T. J. Bohna, one of the best known farmers of Damascus precinct, was in the city Friday, and renewed his subscription to the Courier-Herald and Weekly Oregonian. He also ordered the two papers sent to his sons, Ernest and Walter Bohna, who are in the stock business, near Juntura, Malheur county. Mr. Bohna sells his milk product at Vetsch's creamery, near Borings, and gets satisfactory returns. He states that the Portland City & Oregon Railway Company's surveyors have run out two lines through the Damascus country in the direction of the upper Clackamas, and are running one line out on a survey in the direction of Gresham.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Kesselring, of Macksburg, went to Portland Monday, where the latter remained for two or three days to visit her niece, Mrs. Al Wing. Mr. Kesselring paid his taxes here Monday, and found them about 15 per cent higher than formerly.

Mr. Kesselring has quit raising wheat, and is making a specialty of the dairy business. He bought a cream separator for $110, and the cream from six cows now brings him an average revenue of $23.65 per month, after letting the calves suckle the four fresh cows. Besides he has the skim milk left for feeding purposes. He now sells the cream at Kauffmann's creamery. Last year he milked 14 cows and sold 1755 rolls of butter made at home for 25 cents per roll. He also sold some milk at the creamery on which he realized at the rate of 30 to 35 cents per roll for the butter in the form of butter fat. He also sold $100 worth of calves, besides keeping the heifer calves for future use. Mr. Kesselring says that dairying pays.

The seven o'clock closing does not apply to Saturday evenings.

The celebrated Barlow minstrels will play at Shively's on next Friday evening, March 14. Don't fail to see this.

The Parkplace school district held a bond and improvement election last Saturday afternoon. There was a lively contest, and it resulted in a victory for the improvement of the school building. It was voted to issue not over $5,000 in bonds to pay off the standing indebtedness of the district and to build an addition to the school building. The Parkplace district is growing steadily, and more room is urgently needed for the school children.

Frank C. Baird, a well known resident of this city, formerly in the employ of the Portland General Electric Company, who went to Arizona some six months ago on account of failing health, died at Mesa, March 3rd, of consumption, aged 40 years. It is a busy, bustling time in the sheriff's office, and Sheriff Cooke, Deputies Jack, and Henry Cooke and the clerks, Misses Ina Chase and Lulu Hankins, are all kept busy early and late, receiving taxes. There is a rush among a goodly number of the taxpayers to pay up before March 15th to get the benefit of the 3 per cent discount. Under the new assessment law regulations the sheriff is required to fill out a record of each separate parcel of property, thus entailing much more work than formerly. The sheriff and deputies are now compelled to work of evenings and Sundays to get through with the routine office work.

The persons who favored building an addition to the Barclay school building, were voted down at the district taxpayers' meeting held Monday night. It developed that there were original plans in the clerk's office for an addition to the Eastham building, but the matter of erecting additional rooms was left in the hands of the board of directors, to report at the next annual meeting. It was recommended that if more room is needed, the board could rent a couple of apartments for that purpose. The facts were brought out the number of children in the district had not appreciably increased and the enrollment was not larger than formerly. It was suggested that if the unnecessary 11th grade were dispensed with, there would be more room for the pupils.

Sensational Accusations at the Regular Council Meeting.

The city council didn't do much except routine business Wednesday night but there was a committee of the whole after session that was fraught with sensational developments. It was boldly charged the mayor and police were not only permitting slot machine gambling, but half the saloons were running wide open brace games as well; and it was further hinted that some of the ministers of the city indirectly winked at this condition. Mr. Koerner wanted a monthly fine imposed on the slot machine vendors, as public sentiment appeared to be in their favor. Huntley wanted the gambling joints included in the monthly fine. Mr. Story told about a crowd of about 20 gamblers who were going in and out of the saloons and making noise on the sidewalks. Chief Burns stated that he did not know of any such occurrence, and one councilman retorted with the statement that the police never knew anything that was going on. Chief Burns acknowledged that there was gambling in the city and lots of it, but the operators of games were local gamblers. He was willing to make arrests, if anyone would swear out complaints. Koerner told him it was his duty to enforce the ordinances without complaints being made. Complaint also was made that minors were being sold whiskey, and on last Sunday a boy 14 years old was carried from the back room of a saloon to a doctor's office for treatment. Attention was also called to the fact that four years ago gambling and the slot machines were suppressed.

Mayor Dimick was not present at this gathering having left the council chamber before the adjournment of the regular meeting. The remonstrators killed the proposed improvements of Center and Washington streets, between Seventh and Fifth. The matter of the engine house at Ely was referred to the finance committee, and the band stand proposal was laid over.

SAMUEL ENGLE DEAD.

A Prominent Early Pioneer of Clackamas County.

Samuel Engle, a pioneer of 1846, one of the best known of early Clackamas county pioneers, died at his home at Molalla last Saturday morning of heart failure. He had been very ill for several weeks. He was 71 years, one month one day old. Mr. Engle was born in St. Clair county, Ill. He came to Oregon in 1845, where he continued to live up to the time of his demise with the exception of a trip to the California gold mines in 1849, and summer trips to Eastern Oregon. He came to Oregon with his father, William Engle, who located one of the first donation land claims on Molalla prairie, where Engle made his home until his demise.

The funeral was held at the Dart cemetery Sunday afternoon, Rev. Butler, of Marquam, conducting the services. It was the largest attended funeral that ever took place in that section. In 1854, the deceased was married to Nancy H. Dunaway, who survives him. She also is a native of Illinois, and is a pioneer of 1852. He left the following children: Emma Engle, Alice Harless, Annie Everhart, Clarence, Albert, W. H. and D. Engle, all residents of Molalla.

Mr. Engle was a prominent democrat of the old school, but was never a candidate for office. He was held in the highest esteem by a wide circle of friends.

Max Ramsby, David Canfield and J. U. Campbell were among the Oregon City people who attended the funeral.

Albert Harrington Found Dead.

Albert Harrington, a pioneer of 1852, was found dead in his barn at Highland Wednesday evening. He had been plowing all day, and soon after coming in with his horses, was discovered lying at the rear of his horses by his son. The son had left him at the stable 15 minutes before, and when he returned his father was dead. The deceased was born Feb. 10th, 1819, and lived at Highland almost continually since 1852. He left a wife, a daughter, Mrs. J. M. Heckart, and a son, Amos Harrington. The funeral will be held at Highland on Friday at 2 p. m. Mr. Harrington had been a member of the grange for 20 years. He had no enemies, and was highly respected; was noted for his good deeds.
