Money in Dairying.

Dairying is as profitable here as it is anywhere in the country. A case in point is furnished by a Multnomah farmer. Year before last, counting the calves and hogs which were fattened on the skim-milk, he realized a profit per cow of $52.38. He weaned the calves. Last year, when he allowed the calves to suck, he made a profit of $42.26 per cow, from 10 cows, six of them being heifers. Both years he fed $8.50 of mill feed per cow, which must, in each instance, be deducted from the profit, leaving net $337.00 for last year. The labor required per week, which includes two milkings daily, and butter-making twice, is 20 hours, say, two days' work. Isn't that pretty good wages for 104 days of work? He claims that the profit could be much increased by raising a mixture of peas and oats—one half bushel of peas, one and half bushel of oats per acre—which would be as good as bran when chopped, for milch cows. On good land, the yield would be 40 bushels per acre. This costs to thresh 2 cents a bushel and to chop, every 10th bushel. Furthermore, pea vines and oat straw mixed form excellent hay.
