A MISFIT.

George W. Grace.

The nominee for state senator on the citizens ticket was born in Coles county, Ill., February 26, 1854, and moved when a boy with his father to Missouri. After receiving a common school education, he attended the state school of mines and metallurgy one term, and came to Oregon in the spring of 1880. He ran a government survey party for four years for J. W. Meldrum; then in partnership with Mr. Meldrum, went into the stock business and while riding on the range, 60 miles from mail communications.

Mr. Grace was surprised one day by being notified that he had been nominated and elected county surveyor of Lake county, but not desiring the office, he did not qualify, and soon after moved to this county and bought a farm on the Clackamas river, where he farmed for three years, after which he engaged in the general merchandise business, and has been interested in that business ever since.

In 1896 he was elected sheriff on the populist ticket, defeating Eli Maddock by nearly 1000 majority, but, not desiring a second term, refused to allow his name to go before the convention. He was afterward elected councilman from Oregon City No. 3, his name being placed on both tickets, and served one year and resigned on account of removal to Ward No. 1, where he still resides.

Search Clackamas county from north to south from east to west, and it would be difficult to find a man enjoying the well-merited esteem of his fellowmen to a greater extent than George W. Grace.
