CENTRAL COM. TEE.

Chairman, John J. Cooke. Secretary, Elmer Dixon.

ALBERT TOZIER, of Portland, President of the National Press Association, spoke on "Lewis & Clarke Centennial" at Charleston on "Oregon day," April 26.

The missionary who works only for "what there is in it" is a failure: he is not a missionary but a fraud. It is not too much to say that the remarkable growth of the Grange in this county is due to the missionary zeal of Mrs. Mary S. Howard and Dr. J. S. Casto.

"Honest" John Myers, who was president and manager of the Commercial and Savings Bank, which failed in the latter part of 1896, has practically kept his promise to pay depositors and creditors of the defunct East Side bank.

The Oregonian has had the opportunity of adding a like testimonial to the honesty of George E. Chamberlain, democratic candidate for governor of the state of Oregon.

WILL BUY THE OFFICE.

There are two facts that stand forth undeniable and undeniable in the present campaign. These two facts are:

George E. Chamberlain was nominated for governor by the democracy without the use of a dollar on his part. The nomination came to him unsolicited.

W. J. Furnish was nominated by the republican party only after the expenditure of a large amount of money. He fought fiercely to win the battle and won it, not alone on his personality.

It is pertinent to remark that in securing the office of sheriff of Umatilla county it is a fact that Mr. Furnish expended each time $2500. Upon the basis of his expenditures at that time, with 34 counties in the state of Oregon, it would cost him $85,000 to be elected governor of Oregon. Mr. Furnish expended in the campaigns for the two elections in which he stood as a candidate for sheriff, $5000. He made $100,000 out of the office. The question that is now before the voters of Oregon is this: If Mr. Furnish's system of political operations, as indicated by the Umatilla experiences, called for an investment of $5000 to secure a return of $100,000, and if he put into the state campaign in the same proportion and receives the same proportional return, will he not then expend $85,000 in his state campaign and receive a return of $1,700,000?

This problem in political mathematics is one over which 100,000 voters of Oregon are now pondering. It is quite interesting to the student of public affairs, and will doubtless exert some influence upon the result on June 24.

It is the independent voter that will elect George E. Chamberlain, and his associates upon the state ticket. No demand that he must vote for a yellow dog will swing in line the man who has determined that he will rebuke money as a dictator over free expression of the will of the elector.

STATE OFFICIALS' SALARIES.

Table listing salaries for state officials: Governor $4000, Superintendent of public instruction 2400, Clerk of the office, superintendent of public instruction 2000, Treasurer 4000, Clerk, treasurer's office 1500, Secretary of state 3000, Clerk, office secretary of state 4000, State printer 2400, Operating state printing office 20,000.

Table listing salaries for county officials: Asst. county clerk 44,800, Sheriff 1500, Coroner 1500, County clerk 1500, Assessor 1500, Treasurer 1500, Surveyor 1500, Justice of the peace 1500.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Sidney Smyth, the contractor, formerly of Oregon City, is one of the nominees on the citizens ticket in Portland for senator. He is a republican of the Richard Scott sort.

Many democrats don't seem to be aware of the fact that we have a straight democratic ticket in the state and every democrat will have an opportunity to vote for democrats for state offices. The chances are that Oregon will have a democratic governor after June 2.

Many republicans prefer to vote for a straight democrat for governor instead of a "warmed over" democrat with a sack. They are right, too.

This paper does not approve of mud-slinging, personal abuse or vilification and will not permit its columns to be used for such purposes during the present campaign. Correspondents will kindly refrain from getting "personal."

Vote for the initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution of the state and take the lawmaking power out of the hands of the politicians.

The Oregonian and Telegram are the only papers in Portland supporting Furnish for governor. The Salem Journal is also one of the many republican papers supporting Chamberlain.

It transpired that there exists in Furnish's home (Umatilla county) an anti-Furnish republican organization, which already has enrolled more than 300 voters, the number being increased every day. The men who are at the head of the movement are in each instance those who have been loyal republicans, who have voted with their party upon every occasion, and who do not yield to anyone in devotion to the principles of the party.

Hon. George E. Chamberlain will speak in Oregon City next Friday evening, May 16. His date at Canby has been cancelled and he has been billed for Molalla the same day, May 16, at 2:30.

The State Candidates.

James K. Weatherford, of Albany, congressional nominee in the first district, was born in Missouri in 1850, and came to Oregon in 1874. He attended the Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis, graduating in 1878, after which he was elected county school superintendent of Lincoln county. He has served several times in the Oregon legislature, and was at one time speaker of the house.

W. F. Butcher, of Baker City, congressional nominee in the second district, was born in the state of Virginia, in 1858. He came to Oregon in 1885, settling in Pendleton, where he soon became recognized as an able lawyer. In 1890 he moved to Baker City, where he has since resided. He was a candidate for presidential elector in 1892 but in that year the republicans carried the state for Harrison. Mr. Butcher is a good lawyer, and a stomp speaker of ability.

Judge B. F. Bonham, of Salem, candidate for supreme judge, was born near Knoxville, Tenn., October 8, 1828. He studied law, and obtained a good English education, after which he struck out for Oregon, arriving in Marion county in 1853. He served in the territorial and state legislatures, and in 1870 he was elected to the bench of the third judicial district, and ex-officio to the supreme bench. From 1874 until 1876 he was chief justice of the supreme court. Upon his retirement from the bench, in 1876, he continued his law practice in Salem until 1885, when he was appointed consul-general to Calcutta, where he served until 1888.

D. W. Sears, of Independence, nominated for secretary of state, was born in Iowa in 1851, and came to Oregon while still a boy. His family settled in Polk county, where Mr. Sears still lives. He served as county clerk from 1884 until 1888, and later acted as chairman of the democratic state central committee. He is interested in a number of business enterprises in Polk county.

Col. James H. Haley, of Pendleton, was born in Nebraska City, in what was then the territory of Nebraska, on January 20, 1855, and resided with his parents, Jonathan and Rachel Haley, in Nebraska until the spring of 1862, when the entire family emigrated to Oregon, crossing the plains by teams and arriving in The Dalles in October of the same year. He served eight years in the state senate of Oregon, and is the author of the irrigation law of that state, which bears his name. During his legislative career, he ranked as one of the ablest members of the senate, and the legislation of the state between the years 1888 and 1895 was entirely satisfactory to the counties represented by him. He was a delegate to the national democratic convention in Kansas City in 1898. He was admitted to the bar in 1895, and is one of the prominent attorneys in the state.

Henry Blackman, of Heppner, was born in New York City on September 11, 1848, came to San Francisco in 1850, and crossed the Nicaragua canal by steamer. He came to Oregon on May 11, 1880, and located at Heppner. Mr. Blackman was elected mayor of Heppner in 1887, during his absence from the city and served four consecutive terms. In 1890 he was elected state senator of Grant, Harney and Morrow counties, in an overwhelming republican district. In 1892 he was elected a delegate to the national convention, was placed on the national committee, and was appointed by President Cleveland in 1894 as collector of internal revenue of the district of Oregon, comprising the states of Oregon, Washington and Alaska territory.

W. A. Wann, democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction at the June election in Oregon, was born in Meigs county, East Tennessee, in 1870. His parents moved to Oregon in 1875, locating on a farm in Polk county. In 1880 he entered the Mount Hood Normal School as assistant teacher, and during the first year took the professional work, passed the state examination and received his degree with the class of 1891. Since that time he has been a regular teacher in the Normal school. He has been in charge of the records as secretary of the faculty since 1894.

James E. Godfrey, of Salem, the democratic nominee for state printer, was born August 2, 1856, in Polk county, Oregon, on the donation land claim of his father, Robert Godfrey, a native of Birmingham, England, who settled on the same in the early '50's, in the hills northwest of Eola, and about one mile west of Salem. His mother arrived in Oregon with the immigration of 1853, being a daughter of Mordecai Lane, a cousin of Gen. Joseph Lane. About the age of seven years, his parents removed to Salem, where he attended the public school until he attained the age of 14 years, when he commenced the printing trade, to assist in the support of a widowed mother and family of three children, of which he was the oldest—his father having died in the meantime. In 1876 he began work in the state printing office during the administration of Mart V. Brown, and has continued on this work under each successive administration since, and almost continuously, with the exception of one year at Albany, where he was associated with the late C. W. Watts in the book and job printing business, and two years at two different times a member of the firm of Ross E. Moores & Co., of Salem. Mr. Godfrey has occupied every position on the state printing, from compositor to acting state printer, and was foreman for Frank O. Baker during that gentleman's first term of office.

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizer.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right.

All they need is a little fertilizer—a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.

A MINISTER'S BUSY WIFE.

Pe-ru-na a Prompt and Permanent Cure for Nervousness.

Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty, Galesburg, Ill.

Mrs. Anna B. Fleharty, recent superintendent of the W. C. T. U. headquarters, at Galesburg, Ill., was for ten years one of the leading women there. Her husband, when living, was first President of the Nebraska Wesleyan University, at Lincoln, Neb.

In a letter written from 401 Sixty-Seventh street, W., Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Fleharty says the following in regard to Peruna: "Having lived a very active life as wife and working partner of a busy minister, my health failed me a few years ago. I lost my husband about the same time, and gradually I seemed to lose health and spirit. My daughter is a confirmed invalid, and we both felt great need of an invigorator.

"One of my neighbors advised me to try Peruna. A bottle was immediately secured and a great change took place in my daughter's, as well as in my own health. Our appetites improved very greatly, the digestion seemed much helped, and restful sleep soon improved us, so that we seemed like new women.

"I would not be without Peruna for ten times its cost."—MRS. ANNA B. FLEHARTY.

Peruna never fails to prevent nervous prostration if taken in time. "Summer Catarrh," a book written by Dr. Hartman on the subject of the nervous disturbances peculiar to summer, sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

THE MORNING TUB cannot be enjoyed in a basin of limited capacity nor where the water supply and temperature is uncertain by reason of defective plumbing or heating apparatus. To have both put in thorough working order will not prove expensive if the work is done by F. C. GADKE.
