Burmeister & Andresen,
OREGON CITY JEWELERS

Mrs. Robert A. Miller, of Oregon City, is visiting at the home of her brother, Dr. L. F. Griffith, near the city, and gave an address on "An Afternoon with Shakespeare," before the Woman's Club, in the afternoon.—Saturday's Salem Statesman.

John Moeheke, formerly of Shubel, but now a big wheat, farmer of Suver, Polk county, was visiting relatives in the county during the week. He has 130 acres sown in wheat, but says that the continued cold rains have given the stalks a sickly appearance.

Joseph Martin, accompanied by his sons, W. D. and G. W., returned from Odessa, Wash., Monday. It is about 400 miles to Odessa, and after paying three cents a mile fare to reach there, found that the wages were $1 per day less and the hours longer than for the same work in Portland. They only remained for a short time, when they concluded it was better to return home. J. G. Pillsbury accompanied them there, and also returned with them. The Portland Flouring Mills Company is building a large mill at that place.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS

Born, at Mark's Prairie, two miles from Barlow, Sunday, May 25th, to Mr. and Mrs. C. Koehner, a son.

Rev. W. S. Holt, D. D., synodical missionary of Oregon, will fill the pulpit of the Presbyterian church next Sunday.

The alleged divine healer, Schraden, was in the city Saturday evening, and after catching a few "suckers," boarded the overland train for Salem.

The Oregon Telephone & Telegraph Company have scattered a lot of new poles along upper Seventh street, which will be used for stringing wires.

C. W. Bagby, of the Cliff House, has leased the building, adjoining the post-office, and fitted it up for a restaurant, to be run in connection with the hotel.

Mrs. Ellen O. Read, wife of Rev. J. C. Read, died at her home in East Portland last Saturday. She was 47 years old, and until recently a well known resident of Oregon City. Beside her husband, she left a son and a daughter.

For a week or longer C. K. Spaulding has had men chopping and sawing logs across the river on the Beach place, just east of town. During the past day or two he has had a crew of 10 or a dozen men engaged with a donkey engine putting the logs into the river. They are balm logs and will be rafted to Oregon City for the use of the pulp mills at that place.—Corvallis Gazette.

The body of Jonathan Tice, who was accidentally killed in a logging camp on Gray's river, Wash., last week, was taken to his old home at Canby last Friday for burial. A donkey engine was used in the camp to haul logs, and Tice's job was to drive the steel dogs into the logs. He had fastened the dog into a log that was evidently decayed, and it struck him on the back of the head, crushed into the skull and caused his death. Mr. Tice was about 40 years old, unmarried, and was a scion of one of the old families of Canby.

Deputy County Surveyor John W. Meldrum was thrown from vehicle last Saturday evening on Main street, opposite the residence of J. E. Hedges, and sustained some painful injuries. His horses became frightened and ran away, resulting in throwing Mr. Meldrum violently to the ground. He was stunned for awhile, and received some severe bruises, which will keep him near home for a few days.

Dr. E. A. Sommer has purchased a team of blooded dark bays from Henry Hughes, that are fine roadsters. He also has received a powerful x-ray machine of the latest make, which he has installed in his office. The motive power is secured by attaching the apparatus to an electric light socket, and the machine can be transferred to another building or anywhere, if needed for examining bone injuries. The apparatus shows the form and marks of the bones distinctly.

County Surveyor Ernest Rands has a bush of rhododendrons growing in his father's yard, now in full bloom, that is a thing of rare beauty and fragrance. The small bush was transplanted from the mountains in the vicinity of the Santiam about seven years ago. At first the plant was sickly, but it has now attained an unusually thrifty growth, and the blossoms are very large. It is extremely difficult to get the rhododendrons to grow on the lowlands, although they thrive in the mountain districts among the rocks.

Solar Circle, Women of Woodcraft, have elected the following new officers: Past guardian, Flora E. Morris; guardian, May Dolan; advisor, Amelia Shadle; magician, Dora Winkle; attendant, Lula Marshall; inside sentinel, Miss Grace Marshall; outside sentinel, Mary Carothers; captain of guard, Augusta Lutz; musician, Miss Echo Samson; manager, Miss Florence Patty. Delegates to the Woodmen convention, which meets on the third Monday in June: Rachel Scripture, Lenora Walker, Mary E. Barlow, Carrie L. Parker, Hattie Farr, May Taylor, Flora E. Morris.

Dr. J. W. Powell, of the city council committee on health and police, states that the quarantine on the James and Russell families, who had the smallpox, has been raised. The two cases in the Runyan family, near the Cliff House, have almost recovered, and the quarantine will be raised in a day or two. No new cases have developed in the city, and from present indications, the proposed pest house is hardly likely to be needed, unless some new cases break out. Mrs. Heisman, near Union Hall, is very low with the smallpox, and the case is more aggravated from the fact that she gave birth to a child, since becoming afflicted with the disease.

There was a smash-up collision between two trolley cars on the Portland-Oregon City line, about 100 yards this side of Meldrum station Sunday evening, badly wrecking both cars, and severely injuring three persons. The accident occurred on a curve when both cars were going at a good rate of speed, and the accident is said to have resulted on account of a misunderstanding as to which switch to pass on. The injured are: Jesse Keck, motorman, both legs crushed, one amputated; Mrs. L. R. Rathbun, leg broken. Thomas Kelly, of Seattle, badly bruised and cut. Dr. Sommer was called and accompanied the sufferers to a hospital in Portland. All will recover.

The large walnut tree at the rear of Major Thomas Charman's recent residence, was cut down Monday to make room for the removal of the house to an adjoining lot. The tree faced the suspension bridge, and attracted considerable attention on account of its size and wide spreading branches. At the time the tree was planted, the late Arthur Warner was the business partner of Major Charman. These two, assisted by Mr. Kiser, planted the tree in 1855, in commemoration of the birth of Mr. Warner's oldest son. Sol Garde has purchased 33 feet off the Chase property, to make room to place the Charman dwelling, and give additional ground for the proposed brick building to front on Main street.
