The Celebration.

The Fourth of July celebration at Oregon City was a success, despite the rain, and everything passed off better than was expected. The parade started at 10 o'clock, with Marshal Cooke and aides, liberty car, Goddess Veda Williams and maids, Misses Edith Albright, Edith Cheney, Lizzie Walker and Mollie Heinz, in carriage, W. O. W. and Parkplace bands, G. A. R., Co. A of O. N. G., and floats.

P. L. Traglio won first prize for battleship Oregon, and M. Michaels second. H. W. Jackson took automobile prize, and O. F. Williams first for decorated rig.

The exercises were held on courthouse steps, with Hon. C. B. Moores as master of ceremonies, Mrs. L. W. Griffin reader and Hon. A. S. Dresser as speaker, Miss Harding as soloist and chorus. The sports began after noon with the following results:

Fishing boat race—Albee & Baxter, 1st; Kelly & Noblitt 2d, Tomkins & Humphrey 3d.

Log-rolling contest—Ross Spencer 1st and C. C. Spencer 2d.

Swimming race—C. C. Spencer 1st, W. Sargent 2d.

Walking greased pole—C. C. Spencer. Fat man's race—W. M. Shank.

Sack race—Chester Moore.

Wheelbarrow race—George Brown.

Boys race—C. Moores 1st, and Fred Green 2d.

100-yard dash—Dave Mathews 1st.

Hose contest—Columbia H. & L. and Hose Co. No. 3 tied for first in 56½ seconds; Fountain Hose Co. third, in 58½; Cataract Hose Co. 4th, in 67½. The Cataracts made best run, but failed to get nozzle on till after water was got.

The Japanese acrobats and the "Slide for Life" were interesting features.

P. L. Traglio also won first prize for his float in Portland in the afternoon, but received a second because he was from Oregon City.

Part of the fireworks were not delivered, and this exhibition was somewhat sly of the intended demonstration.
