MATTER OF ESTATE SET-TLED.

Judge Ryan Decided the Question Monday.

In the matter of the estate of John H. Green, deceased, Judge Ryan on Mon-day, after having had the matter of confirmation of the sale under advisement, confirmed the sale.

The property in the estate that was sold is on the Clackamas river, near Springwater, and is valuable particularly for water power. The sale was made for $11,000 to Fred. S. Morris, some time ago, and at the time of sale hy an unar ago, and at the time of sale, by an unex-pected appearance of the Portland General General Electric Co., the price went up from about $600, the appraised valua-tion, to the amount stated above, and some of the heirs of John L Green obected to the sale through their attorneys, Geo. E. Chamberlain, governor elect, and Geo. Cameron of Portland. The principal objection urged was that citation had never been served upon one citation had never been served upon one of the heirs, Caroline Green. There were other minor objections, but the court held it to be the only question of moment in the case. It was urged in opposition, that Caroline Green, by her appearance and motion, made a general appearance and was in court for all purposes, and the Court held with the latter contention and decided that by the waiver of citation all irregularity prior to the order of sale was cured and the sale valldated

The attorneys for Fred. S. Morris were William T. Muir of Pertland, and Franklin Gritfith.

Death of Ross Parker.

Ross Parker, of Clackamas, who has been suffering for quite awhile from ab-scess, died Monday evening at his home in Clackamas. The widowed mother, whose only means of support is now gone, alone remains to mourn the loss. No young man in Clackamas was more highly respected than was Ross. Few young men possessed the faculty of making more friends than he, and all are of the substantial kind. The loss of this young man, only a little past 20, is a blow to the whole community, as his influence was always for good, and his life a source of kindly deeds. I bought five bottles and felt so much bet-ter after taking them that I kept on until I am as well as ever in my life, and to Dr. Fierce all the praise is due. I cannot say enough in favor of his medicines. Before I began taking your medicines I only weighed one hundred and twenty pounds. I now weigh one hundred and twenty pounds. The horses started, and two or three men attempted to stop them, but on seeing the dangar of get-ting dragged under the horses' hoofs, wisely drew off. By this time the horses had gained considerable momentum and were about to have things their own way when little Tom, the Chinaman, rushed out of the store, and running with ath-letic speed caught the bridle, and after repeated jerks and pulls with both hands stopped the frightened steeds. After stopping them Tom delivered a very acrimonious discourse to them, which we would disclose to our readers if we could, but unfortunately it was in new 1 c. China. The horses seemed to comprehend it, however, for they immediately dropped their heads and looked the very picture of shame itself.

1wo Measures Laid Over by the City Council.

The city council met Wedneeday evening, and notwithstanding the extreme oppressiveness of the heat the entire nembership was present. The principal subject of interest was the matter of granting the franchise for the electric line up Water street, con-necting with the proposed line from Eagle creek. The petition seeking the franchise was prepared by Charles La-tourette, who is one of the main promoters of the undertaking. This petition aroused considerable actimoniou. debate on the part of Councilmen Kelly and Koerner, and was finally laid over till next Wednesday night, when the council will have more time for consideration. The next question of interest was the matter of sale of the lot owned by the city near the sash and door factory. A. W, Cheney presented terms for the purchase of the property, which met with heated discussion and considerable op-position on the part of several council-men. This matter was also deferred till next week, when final settlement will be had.
