WITH THE DOCTOR.

THE EDITO ₹ RIDES AROUND TOWN AND TAKES NOTES.

Some Curiosity Shops Visited and Some Secrets Divulgea.

Dr. Strickland is from Virginia, the editor of the Cou ier is from Kentucky and all of his people came from Virginia and between the two there is some affinity of manners and speech and hab-its. It was not a good morning on last unday as the clouds hong low and the Oregon mist drifted down and permeated and crept into everything around and about. But the doctor said to the Courier man come "Jedge" come take a ride with me, I have a nice rig, good hor e from "Stonev Vangl an's stable" a fine buggy and we will see some scenery and possibly some sunshine on the hills. I will spree to get you back in time to cat as soon as Brother Beaven The hext step was to have our incorporation papers properly placed on file. One copy was accordingly filed with the secretary of the state, costing $2.50, one with the county clerk costing $1 and one with the secretary of our grange.

A committee was then appointed to solicit aid in our undertaking. The resolt of their activity is shown in the following:

The bext step was to have our incorporation in the buggy and we will see some scenery and possibly some sunshine on the hills. I will egree to get you back in time to cat as soon as Brother Beaven has let his crowd loose. You're a Baptist 'Jedge' sin't you? So am I, but I'm not practicing it very much out here. They keep me too busy," Well I went with the doctor. Of course all doctors are very much alike. Looks don't count. When you want a doctor you want one When you want a doctor you want one bad and you don't stop to inquire from which school he graduated. Doctors are not like lawyers. The doctors bury their dead, the lawyers put their mistakes on record. The doctors don't like one another. The lawers do because they know a good "fa it" when they see

> Well, the editor and the doctor went well, the editor and the doctor went out riding to call on some of the doctor's subjects. A fine "rig" from Stoney's stable; a prancing steed "bred in old Kentucky" a fine set of harness and the lines in the doctor's hands and we were off. We drifted down to Main street, climbed up the Seventh street hill, crossed over to Fifth street and proceed-ed along in elegant style until we reached a clump of three year old yellow fir where the cows were quietly fill-ing themselves with the succulent grass and there the loctor made his first stop. Not a soul in sight and the editor was much puzzled. The cowbells were tinkling and we thought that possibly our ling and we thought that possibly our friend had been turned into a "cow doctor." "Not so," he said "Jedge" hold the horse and my coat while I run up this bluff and 'bluff' these people out of about $5." We held the horse for thirty minutes and ruminated and speculated upon the ins and outs of the medical profession. The doctor came back after awhile and we asked him what he got for stopping in that kind of a place and what kid he had been treating. "Emwhat kid he had been treating. "Emigrants from Wast.ington to California. They pay cash in advance. Little child sick, getting well. They live in the brush there you see, and I will came back tomorrow and the next day. We will get them away this weer." will get toem away this week.'

SUMMONS

SUM and is a fine old man. Speaks three or four languages and is a good old German cit zen.

From Clackamas Heights we drifted down to the habitation of David L. Close. We hitched our horse and went in. It appears that the doctor is a great chicken man and that he will only eat the eggs and fry the pullets from the game variety. He has farmed some out to Mr Close, and Mr. Close is not as "Close" a co-poration as his name would indicate. David Close is the bridge inspector of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. He watches one bridge and several other fellows. His home which nestles upon the banks of the swiftly flowing Clackamas river, is a palace in its way and his good partner is not so "Close" as "David." The bridge watchman offered the Judge and the Doctor a good libation to the "Gods" but as the doctor never takes a drink and the Judge only once in a while, we had to content ourselves with cigars and "sich" like. David has dogs and guns and is general beadquarters for the disciples of Izaak Waiton and the nimrods who happens to wander his way. By the way, he is a good Democrat and so is the doctor, never voted anything else and his old "daddy" now long gone hence would come back to this mundane sphere to haunt him if he should get out of line and vote for a Republican. The doctor pointed out to us a naunted house. The best looking house we saw. It stands down on the branch of the Abernethy. It is built of brick and the windows are all out and it is within a mile of Oregon City and yet they tell us that in this place the ghost play hid and seek and hold high carnival every night. What an elegant place it would be to open up a Keeley Cure establishment. On this drive we saw fifty people and "nary" Republican. They all looked like Democrate to us. If they all vote
