Crushed and Mangled
Earl Davenport Meets With Horrible Accident.
Was Working for the Southern Pacific Company on New Steel Bridge.

Earl Davenport, a very worthy young man of Gladstone, was horribly crushed and mangled at the dinner hour on Friday on the new steel bridge across the Clackamas river being built by the Southern Pacific Railroad Company. The young man was in the employ of the Company and it was the noon hour. All of the hands had locked off to eat their lunch. Young Davenport was sitting on the machinery quietly eating when some meddling boys started up the donkey engine which furnishes the power for the carrier. The young man was thrown backward and caught between the cogs and the machine. His back was broken, the vertebra in places being ground into small bits of bone. He was hurriedly brought to Oregon City and taken to Dr. Sommer's office where his wounds were dressed as best they could be. The Southern Pacific sent a special car up and took him to their hospital in Portland, where he is now. He is doing as well as could be expected considering the nature of his wounds. His recovery however, is very doubtful. No blame attaches to the Company as it was an accident from which there was no escape.

Raised From the Dead.
C. W. Landis, "Porter" for the Oriental Hotel, Chianate, Kan., says: "I know what it was to suffer with neuralgia indeed I did, and I got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liment and I was 'raised from the dead.' I tried to get some more, but before I had 'hipped' of my bottle, I was cured entirely. I am tellin' de truth too." 25c, 50c and $1 at Charman & Co's.

BONE FOOD
Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have. Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads. Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

"Big Joe" Grimes is Dead.
Joe Grimes, probably the largest man in the world, died at the home of his parents in Cincinnati last Friday, the results of a peculiar accident. While riding in a cab his great weight broke through the bottom and one of his legs was washed, the wound refusing to heal, ultimately causing his death. He weighed 754 pounds and was 34 years of age. He was six feet, four inches in height, and his body and limbs were in ponderous proportions. He was an expert bicyclist and was for a number of years a bicycle drummer. Recently he has been in the show business. A coffin had to be made to order before his remains could be laid to rest.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, but by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Sall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one one hundred dollar for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.
The Irish Agricultural Organization Society.
Although the grange is not an organization that has found a footing on foreign soil, nevertheless its principles are not unlike those of the Irish Agricultural Organization society of Ireland, as described by the Hon. Horace Plunkett in a recent number of the Review of Reviews. While Mr. Plunkett's ideas of the grange movement in this country are not altogether correct, his account of the similar movement in Ireland is interesting. He says:
"We have a grange movement which is headed by a central society known as the Irish Agricultural Organization society, composed of men of all creeds, classes and politics and existing for the sole purpose of teaching the farmers to organize their industry in all its branches upon these business principles which we are discussing. The organization society is heading a great movement which remains absolutely nonpolitical and is producing the best possible business results. The movement has only been in existence for a dozen years, and yet at the moment the associations which are organized under it embrace roughly some 75,000 farmers, who are shareholders members of over 700 associations. As the shareholders are, generally speaking, heads of families, it is safe to say that over 300,000 persons, or about one-sixth of the entire farming community, have thus become interested in the movement, and it is going ahead at an unprecedented and rapidly accelerating rate of progress. They build and equip creameries; everything that the farmer wants in his industry they purchase in a large, wholesale way and pay particular attention to quality as well as to price. Some of the associations, called agricultural banks, aim at getting cheap credit for farmers through mutual security, thus enabling them to add to the working capital available for sound, practical development of their industry."
When the day shall come, if it ever does, that the beneficent principles and purposes of the Order of Patrons of Husbandry shall find their way across the sea in the organization above described their principles would find easy root and congenial soil. Does it not open up a vision of what our noble fraternal Order may yet be when its influence shall be worldwide?

Some Grange "Don'ts."
Don't be tardy at grange.
Don't depend upon others to keep your grange going.
Don't expect the grange to make you a fortune nor save your soul, but be eternally grateful if it but blocks your path to perdition or penury.
Don't get disheartened because your ideals are not attained, but recollect that you have not yet passed over where improvement is out of order.
Don't draw yourselves within your shell like a tortoise and then wonder why every farmer in the land does not become a member of the only farmers' organization national in extent and character.
Don't allow your neighbor to justify his course in not supporting this movement for the betterment and advancement of his occupation because he has never been invited to do so.—National Stockman.

A Ten Acre United States Map.
One of the novel sights at the St. Louis exposition next year will be the great ten acre map of the United States. It will also be very instructive. Colonel J. H. Brigham, past master of the national grange, as chairman of the government board has devised the exhibit and has secured the use of a sunny slope of ten acres of ground near the government building, which will be laid off like a map of the United States. Every state and territory will be clearly defined, and the boundary line will be a pathway, so the visitor can walk around each state. The products of each state will be growing upon its miniature representative. Among the numerous "sights and scenes" of the great exposition this will be one of the most original and attractive.

What the Grange Does.
The grange opens the door of opportunity to young and old in the country. It develops talents and powers; it trains ability; it fits its members for greater usefulness. It is not to be judged by what it cannot do, but by what it is doing and can do. It has room for growth and usefulness. Better still, it is growing in the strength that is measured by numbers and increasing in usefulness.—Grange Bulletin.

State Master E. B. Norris and State Senator H. S. Ambler, who compose the legislative committee of the New York state grange, have issued an earnest appeal to the Patrons of the state for active work in opposition to the 1,000 ton barge canal bill.

The grange is a character builder, a home maker, an educator and a social benefactor. It is very closely connected with the home, the church and the school, the four forming an inestimable influence for good in any community.

Mr. E. A. Callahan, who died recently in Albany, was a grange speaker and entertainer of much ability. His services were always in demand at state grange meetings and on other occasions.
