On The Hill

A Sunday Tramp Around Oregon City and What one Sees.

Thriving Villages, Prosperous Farmers and Happy Homes.

On Sunday last it was the good fortune of the editor of the Oregon City Courier to spend a half a day tramping around the outskirts of the beautiful little city of Oregon City. One does not know what a lovely place this is, until he gets back on the hills near Elyville and looks down on the smoke and bustle and quite beauty of the city that lies at his feet. Elyville is more than a mile south west of Oregon City and some eight hundred feet above Main street. It is a prosperous village with stores and blacksmith and wagon shops and many neat and comfortable homes. It takes its name from the Ely family several of whom yet live within its limits. George Ely has a very large and prosperous general store at Elyville, has his own water works and one of the most comfortable and pleasant homes on the hill. From Elyville or from its immediate environments you can get the finest view of Mt Hood to be had within the vicinity of Oregon City. The grand old mountain lifts its snow clad peak into the sky and seems to lower miles above all of the surrounding country and the remainder of the Cascade range. The snow on its crest glistens in the sunshine and it is indeed a magnificent land mark.

From Elyville across to Mt Pleasant is only half a mile by the way of the Rose farm or the Holmes park. One of the substantial industries of Elyville is the chicken farm of C. W. Morrow. He has some of the finest birds to be found in the state of Oregon, Plymouth rocks, barred and white. Splendid specimens. He has taken many of the first premiums for chickens both in Oregon and Washington during the past several years. Many of his finest specimens are valued at from $5 to $10.

W. B. Stafford, one of the substantial citizens of Mt. Pleasant is engaged largely in the truck farming industry as well as raising pork and chickens, eggs and turkeys for market. He finds the business pays very well and he has a neat and well kept farm, although we did not find him at home.

Among the many industries around Elyville is the dairy business. There are some half dozen dairy farms among which is the farm of J. M. Warnack. Mr. Warnack keeps twenty-five cows. He sells all of his milk in Oregon City and at this time is not able to supply the demand made upon him by his many customers but hopes to do so by the first of next month.

The dairy business is very profitable and Mr. Warnack is doing well as are all of the milk farmers in that neighborhood. The Mt Pleasant neighborhood seems to be especially adapted to dairy farming and poultry industry.

One of the most striking features of the Mt. Pleasant neighborhood is the Homes' Rose Farm and park. It is an old time place grown old and wild with flowers and evergreens. It is one of the many beautiful sights around Oregon City.

Returning home by way of the Mt Pleasant hill we found a delightful walk and a beautiful winding road in perfect condition at this season of the year.

We also passed the poultry farm of Attorney C. W. C. wing. Located on a "hill side" where drainage was perfect and several hundred finely bred hens, are doing duty and making fine money for their owner. Mr. C. wing takes especial delight in his chickens and eggs for the market. Half dozen other chicken farms were passed enroute.

The improvements of Jackson street under Contractor, J. C. Bitner is rapidly nearing completion and when finished it will be the most slightly street on the hill in Oregon City. The work has been well done and while the cost has been very considerable in time it will amply pay for itself. Fifth street is also being improved by a new coat of metal which will be crushed by a stone crusher and will be the best street in the city this winter.

It would occur to us that at least one street on the hill ought to be improved each season until they are all improved, then Oregon City will indeed be a nice little city.

Had An Excellent Meeting at Salem Last Week.

Will Meet at Hood River and Attend The Louisiana Fair at St. Louis Next Year.

The Oregon Press Association of which the writer is a member, met at Salem last week in its regular annual session. The Press Association is made up of Representatives of the press from all the newspapers of Oregon. Daily and Weekly, Monthly and Quarterly Trade, Religious and Political. It was a good bunch of fellows with their wives, daughters and sweethearts who attended this meeting, nearly a hundred in all.

The meeting itself was devoted to the reading of interesting papers and the delivery of addresses on the various subjects which interest newspaper men in the successful development of the newspaper business. The papers read and the addresses delivered were all first-class in every particular and very instructive to any one who is at all interested in the subject matter.

The newspaper men of Oregon are up-to-date. They are keeping step with the profession in other states. Officers were elected for next year and Hood River the great strawberry and fruit growing section of the Pacific Northwest was selected as the place of meeting. The time of meeting will either be in June during the strawberry picking season, or in October during the annual fair. In addition to attending the meeting at Hood River a car load of delegates will attend the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis as representatives of this state to the World's Congress of Newspaper men. They will also go as boomers of the Lewis and Clark Fair which is to be held at Portland in 1905.

There were quite a number of distinguished visitors who attended the daily sessions of the Press Club. Among them was Mrs. Dunningway, of Portland, a sister of Hon. Harvey Scott, and a half sister to Mrs. Clinton Latourette, of this city. She was 69 years old on the day of the first session of the Association. She is one of the best known women on the Pacific coast and has devoted much of her life work to the propagation of the Women Suffragist idea and is still at work on that theory. She made an address to the meeting which was able, instructive and very well received indeed.

Ex-governor Geer and Hon. George C. Brownell each attended the meeting and received the courtesies of the publishers. They were invited to the restaurant, introduced and each made a nice, pleasing address to the convention of editors.

The country between Oregon City and Salem is one of the finest countries in the world. It is worth going miles to see. At this season of the year when all nature is at its best it is especially attractive. The Southern Pacific Railroad winds along the banks of the beautiful Willamette river through fertile valleys, past beautiful homes and thriving villages, where peace and plenty were manifested on every side.

Salem itself is a lovely little city with its 10,000 people, public buildings and lovely homes. On the east the main divide of the Cascade mountains marks the sky line and the coast range fading away in the hazy sun light of an October day marks the western horizon. The citizens of Salem not only have a good town but they are thoroughly alive to that fact. They believe in their town and swear by it. It is growing to a marvelous rate and there is no reason in the world why one of these days Salem should not be a town of 100,000 people or more.

While in the city of Salem the editors and their wives and sweethearts were handsomely treated by the citizens of that progressive city. They were taken over the city in a trolley car and shown all of the public institutions and places of interest. On Friday night they were tendered a grand ball at the armory and everything was done that could be done to make their stay within the city pleasant and profitable. They will long remember Salem and her good people.

During the same time the Press Convention was in session in Salem the W. C. T. U. of the state of Oregon was also holding a meeting in that town. By one of those strange coincidences which happen once in a while the badges for the delegates to each meeting were almost identical, each being printed on white satin ribbon in gold ink. A party of delegates of which the writer was one while walking around town and viewing the lovely prospect of the beautiful city were mistaken for a party of delegates to the W. C. T. U. This was somewhat embarrassing but we let it go at that, but at the same time this was mixing things up not a little on us.

Oregon Society Sons of Revolution

Will Give Away Prizes.

To the School Children of Oregon

The following letter from the Oregon Society of the Sons of Revolution will be of interest to all of the teachers and school children of the state of Oregon. Much interest will be taken in the contest and it is to be hoped that some Clackamas county girl or boy can win the prize:

PORTLAND, Or., Oct. 1, 1903.

The Oregon Society of Sons of the American Revolution has several times in the past offered prizes to the school children of the state for essays on subjects connected with Revolutionary History. The results in the past have encouraged the Society to renew the offer at this time. Prizes of $25, $15 and $10, respectively, will therefore be awarded for the three best essays in the order of merit, written by students in the public schools of Oregon, on any of the following subjects:

1. The Aronson of Public Opinion; the Word of Samuel Adams, Thomas Paine, John Dickinson and Patrick Henry.
2. Lexington and Concord.
3. The Battle of King's Mountain.
4. Virginia's Part in the American Revolution.

Essays are limited in length to 3,000 words; must be written on one side of the paper in the student's own handwriting and must be accompanied by the certificate of the principal of the school attended by the author, to the effect that the author is a bona fide student in the school and has been in attendance therein not less than four weeks during the school year of 1903-4. Essays must be forwarded to the chairman of the committee in charge, Wallace McCamant, 34 Concord Building, Portland, Ore., so as to reach him not later than February 1st, 1904. In awarding the prizes the committee will be governed by these three considerations:

1. Historical accuracy.
2. Manner of treatment.
3. Orthography, grammar, syntax and punctuation.

Any additional information which may be desired will be cheerfully furnished by any member of the committee. The essay which is awarded the first prize will be published in full, with the name of the author, in the public press.

DEMOCRATIC

Large Meeting of The Central Committee of Clackamas County.

A STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC TICKET WILL BE PUT IN THE FIELD FOR THE JUNE ELECTION

Encouraging Reports Received From Almost Every Part of the County.

The Democrats of Clackamas county are a live to their work. The party is enthusiastic and harmonious. On last Saturday at 10:30 o'clock the members of the County Central Democratic committee of Clackamas county gathered in Red Men's hall of this city together with a large and representative gathering of a Democrats from all parts of the county. The meeting was called to order by County Chairman R. B. Beattie and its purposes stated by him. The purpose of the meeting was to counsel and consult and determine upon what the party should do in the future. To fill up any vacancies which might exist in the committee and perform any routine work that might come before the meeting. Speeches were made by almost every Democrat present, good will was manifested and a strong Democratic spirit and feeling was reported from every district in the county.

WILL NAME A STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Judge C. N. Waite, of Canby introduced a resolution which was passed by almost an unanimous vote that the Democratic party of Clackamas county would nominate and run a straight Democratic ticket for county officials and district officials for the June Election in 1904. This programme seemed to meet with the hearty approval of every body and appears to be the eminently proper thing to do.

Nominations for county officials will not be made until after the beginning of the year. A good ticket of the best material in the county will be selected and with a good clean ticket, an excellent platform and the right issues the ticket, it is confidently believed will be elected.

Democrats were in attendance on the meeting from all parts of the county and the same good report was received from everywhere.

Next year is recognized as being a big year in the politics of this county as we will have two elections, one in June for county officials and one in November for the election of President.
