Dangerous Criminals Are Arrested

George Willis, William Mills and Hugh Carpenter Are Behind the Bars.

Caught in the act of trying to pass raised post office money orders, with a quantity of materials in their pockets to be used in erasing the figures from the original orders, with acids and a complete outfit with which they plied their calling, William Mills, George Willis and Hugh Carpenter were arrested here Saturday night and lodged in jail on the charge of raising post office money orders.

Their guilt was so plain as to be glaring. Their capture was due to the vigilance of Tom P. Randall, postmaster.

About ten days ago Randall received word from the department that money order raisers were working in this part of the country and warning him to keep a sharp lookout for the crooks. On Thanksgiving Day he notified nearly every business house in Oregon City of the work being done by the crooks and asked them to keep a lookout and if any one tried to cash money orders to notify the police.

On Saturday the three men showed up. They kept still until after the post office had closed for the day and then started out to work their graft. They at once began to run up signs of obstruction. Warned beforehand the merchants refused to cash the orders, and a remark fell by one of the merchants put the crooks on their guard. About 8 o'clock they entered the saloon of George Young on Main street, and a little later Officers Nobilit and Shaw found them there and placed them under arrest.

When arrested they had a complete outfit for raising money orders, including acids and stamps on them.

The manner in which they work is simple. Buying a money order in one town, Portland, for example, they would then come to Oregon City and raise the order to what ever amount they desired, go to a store, purchase a small bill of goods and present the order in payment. Nine times out of ten if the store keeper had not been previously warned he would have cashed the order.

It is said that the men have been operating this graft for several months past and have gotten away with a considerable amount of money.

On Monday United States Deputy Marshall Roberts came to Oregon City and took the three men to Portland, where they will be tried in the United States Court.

The Salvation Army.

The Red Crusade meeting was a success in every sense of the word, 16 was forward to be prayed with. The opera house meeting was well attended, both in the afternoon and evening. The collections were good during all these meetings. From the result of these meetings, 9 members was made for the Army. Major Dubbin and his helpers were well pleased with the people of Oregon City. Meetings continue every night save Monday, at 8 o'clock and all day Sundays. We hope all Christians will pray for us that many shall turn to the Lord this winter. You are invited to come and help us.

Pope Pius X is

Democratic

The following interview with Father Hillebrand which appeared in the Evening Telegram being of very great local interest is reproduced in full:

"Notwithstanding his exalted position as Pope of the Catholic church, Pius X is one of the most Democratic and kind of all the Popes the church has ever had," said the Rev. Father Hillebrand, pastor of St. John's Catholic church, in this city, who returned Wednesday evening from a five months' trip to Europe. "While in Rome I was granted an audience with him, and had occasion to notice this characteristic. About 140 persons were granted audience with him at the time I saw him. Among this number was an old Italian priest, who knelt and wanted to kiss his foot, but Pius raised him, saying: 'I am not so as you.'

"On another occasion about 15,000 people thronged the Vatican gardens on a visit to the Pope, but instead of being borne through them in his chair, he walked among them in very democratic fashion. My impressions of him are that he is a most affable, simple and kind man. While before him I addressed him in Latin, telling him where I came from and at the mention of my far-off home his face lighted up with interest. He also bestowed upon me the apostolic benediction, and granted me permission to invoke the same upon my friends and relatives, and upon my congregation in this city. He also presented me with a medal bearing a picture of his face upon one side and upon the other the face of the blessed Virgin."

While away Father Hillebrand visited his old home in Briton, Westphalia, Germany, where his father still lives at the advanced age of 87 years. A photograph of him shows that he is still hale and hearty. He is the great grandfather of about 20 children. Father Hillebrand states that he was astonished by the great strides taken by Germany in all lines of advancement since he was first in that country, 18 years ago. In his own town at that time there was only one railroad, with the station four miles from the city, but today the place is the center of four great railroad systems. In all respects commerce, transportation facilities and all, Germany has made great strides of late years. While in Europe Father Hillebrand visited Holland, Belgium, Italy and Austria, as well as covering about all Germany. Among the beautiful cities that he visited were Milan, Lucerne, Vienna, Munich, Innsbruck, in the Tyrol, and Rome.

He was most impressed with Rome, which he spent ten days, but he states that to do justice to the place and to see all the sights for travel would require about six months. He found that although in some respects Rome is an ancient city, in others it is essentially modern, it having many tall buildings built very much as are our modern American structures. These average five and six stories in height. Electric cars also run up and down the streets as in American cities. The ancient nature of the city is disclosed, however, by the fact that the streets are very narrow. He found the people of the city most polite. On the average about 10,000 tourists from different parts of the world visit the Eternal City every day in the year. One hears all language spoken on the streets.

The Vatican was visited, and Father Hillebrand was much impressed with the beauty of the classical statuary and many works of art found there. The Vatican library he describes as a huge affair, it being about 300 meters in length and 60 meters wide. Along both sides and in the center are piles upon piles of books and manuscripts. The museum and art gallery are filled with masterpieces by famous painters.

The ruins of Rome were found to be a fascinating study. The ancient palaces and temples point out the ancient splendor of the city, and above all the ruins of the Roman Forum, where the Senate used to meet, and the ancient Coliseum, where the gladiators fought, are still, after the lapse of so many centuries, in a fairly good state of preservation. These ruins were all most interesting, and Father Hillebrand says that the Roman palaces built during the Middle Ages were constructed of material taken from the ruins of the ancient Roman buildings.

Above all sights in Rome in which Father Hillebrand was most interested were the churches, which are, in fact filled with treasures of art. The church of Maria Margiori, St. Peter's dome, and, above all, the incomparable Sistine Chapel, decorated by the almost divine hand of Raphael, are indescribable in their beauty and value from the artistic point of view.

The beautiful lakes of Lucerne were visited, and their beauty made a deep impression on Father Hillebrand. The scenery of the Rhine was also viewed, but, strange as it may seem, the scenes along the Grand Canon of the Colorado river in Arizona, seen while crossing the American Continent, is held by him to be grander and more impressive than anything he saw in Europe in the way of natural wonders. The immensity of the coloring he describes as wonderful.

Father Hillebrand tells the tale of all travelers that he is glad to be back to his home again, and his congregation are pleased to have him return to them. A number met him at the train Wednesday evening, and it is probable that a reception will be given him by the members of his church to welcome him home.

Grangers Meet

at New Era.

The main feature of the meeting of Warner Grange on Saturday was the fair which was strictly a neighborhood affair. The display was not large, nor could it be what it might have been had the fair been held earlier. Earnest efforts will be made by the neighborhood next year to make such an exhibit of its products as it is fully capable of making, so that it will be a matter of pride to every member of Warner Grange. To that end the favor will be asked of using the camping grounds and the fair will be held a month earlier. Live stock will then be shown. The exhibit of potatoes emphasized the strong point of the New Era farmers, the growing of spuds.

The fair was on the whole a sort of informal, hurried affair, and the awards of the three judges, Mrs. E. M. Haines, Judge T. F. Ryan and I. LeMahien, should not be taken too seriously. Here are the results:

William Gardner—red cabbage, carrots, Early Rose potatoes, 1st prize; celery, white cabbages, unions, 2nd prize.

Raymond Rees—Rutabaga, 2nd prize. Albina Olds—Glass of jelly, butter, canned cherries, 1st prize.

J. Burgoyne—Northern spy and K of Tompkins Co apples, 1st prize.

A. W. France—Barley, 1st prize. Barney Frederick—Unthreshed oats, going to husks, to the acre, white, cabbage, bag of peas, 1st prize; bag of vetch, 2nd prize.

George Randall—Hops, 1st prize; and other fine display of agricultural products.

George Lazelle—Ensilage, chestnuts quince, 1st prize; corn and cornstalks 2nd prize, also a varied display of seeds including China peas, unexcelled for soup. White and Banded Plymouth Rock rooster, 1st prize; pullets, 2nd prize.

John Olds—Kale, 1st prize. R. J. Brown—Burbank and Beauty of Briton potatoes, two white Leghorn roosters, 1st prize.

R. S. Cole—Banded Plymouth Rock rooster, 2nd prize; pullets 1st prize.

Ladies of Warner Grange, combined patchwork quilt, 1st prize.

The exhibit of rugs, mats, cushions, pillow shams, shopping bags, table spreads, and latted tidies was of such uniform excellence that it is difficult to say, except one be a specialist, which one article, in individual merit, exceeded the others as a production of art.

A. W. France had on exhibition a copper coffee pot, ugly in design, which is from 150 to 200 years old. It is no doubt valuable.

J. Burgoyne displayed a bronze medal bestowed on him for King Apples by the Pan-American exhibition at Buffalo in 1901.

Judge T. F. Ryan took the first and second degrees as a member of the grange.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Oregon City's
New Post Office

Oregon City's new post office is one of the handsomest, most commodious and most convenient in the state. The Old-fellows have spared no expense in fitting up the new place and putting in new fixtures. Everything is spick, span new. There are more than 500 combination boxes, opening just the same as a combination safe opens, and a man who has a box does not have to leave without his mail no matter if he does forget his key.

There are no call boxes, and the clerks will be relieved from much of the labor entailed by delivering call box mail. Of the half a thousand boxes nearly all have been taken. Besides the regulation combination boxes, which are fully twice the size of the regulation government boxes which were in the old office, there are enough extra large boxes for people who get a very heavy mail, such as banks, newspapers, etc.

The new post office was ready for occupancy Tuesday, and Tuesday night the office was moved into its new quarters. There was plenty of work for the postmaster and his force of clerks when it came to showing each person the combination to his box and teaching him to work the combination. The combination, in the main, are very simple, however, and it does not take one of average intelligence long to learn them.
