

SORE LUNGS

When your lungs are sore and inflamed from coughing, is the time when the germs of PNEUMONIA, PLEURISY and CONSUMPTION find lodgment and multiply.

FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR

stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs. It contains no harsh expectorants that strain and irritate the lungs, or opiates that cause constipation, a condition that retards recovery from a cold. FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR is a safe and never failing remedy for all throat and lung troubles.

The Doctors Said He Had Consumption—A Marvelous Cure.
L. M. Ruggles, Reasoner, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption and I got no better until I used FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR. It helped me right from the start and stopped the spitting of blood and the pain in my lungs and today I am sound and well."

HELLO!

What Does All This Mean?

Republican Discard of a Pronounced Type.

"The Cincinnati Commercial Tribune is one of the leading Republican papers of the Middle West. It is able and fairly edited. Here is some very plain talk in it about President Roosevelt and the coming election. It looks like there are breakers ahead."

"Impressed by what seems to be the false security in which the Republican party is resting, lulled to repose by the overwhelming triumphs of 1896 and 1900, it would be treason to the organization if attention was not called to the actual conditions inside and outside the party's lines."

In the words of the immortal Lincoln, "With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right," simply and solely to advance the interests of the party and to keep it upon the broad road of success; for the sake of the millions of voters who seek no reward but the establishment of their principles in the Republic and who have valiantly supported the nominees of the party; we call upon our leaders throughout the Union to awake, to arouse themselves and to prepare for the closely contested conflict that will be waged next year. They owe it to the Republican party to do this. They owe it to themselves to see that no mistake is made, no chances taken that will invite defeat."

Political tides are measured in Washington until waves of public sentiment have submerged other parts of the country. The desires and wishes of the people have little effect upon the atmosphere of Senate or House until a cold wave or a hot blast has destroyed a Legislature or a cyclone has torn up a score of congressional districts. The soothing, soporific treatment of continued re-election and the pleasurable occupation of voting appropriations and distributing Federal patronage are apt to prove a fatal anesthetic and result too frequently in sleeping death, even to eminent men. The heroes of the Republican party knew no such flowery beds of ease.

Charles Sumner voiced the noble sentiments of the patriotic sons of Massachusetts, not the silly babble of Washington office-seekers.

Thaddeus Stevens stood for the veteran Republicans of Pennsylvania, enunciating their thoughts and putting their ideas in party nominations and platforms, and was not to be silenced by patronage from any Government department.

Bluff Ben Wade was ever to the front, filled with the enthusiasm of his Ohio people for the party of liberty and loyalty, and was not made deaf by Democratic thunder nor rendered speechless by awe of Presidential office or any occupant of the White House.

Oliver P. Morton, of Indiana, had the courage of his convictions, with a force and vigor that knew no limit, kept himself in line with the yeomanry of the party and made his state a power in the land.

These are among the founders of the party, and following them came that glorious galaxy of popular Republican leaders, the gifted Conkling, the able Blaine, the calm and eloquent Garfield, the wise McKinley, each and all of them free from subservience, ready at all times to plead the cause of the masses of the party and to stand boldly and firmly for that which they deemed right, regardless of opposition. The power of these men was in their unswerving devotion to the interests of the party, their close touch with and quickness and fidelity that tribunes of the people find their boldness in asserting those sentiments, regardless of fear or favor.

These great men believed that the power of the party rested with the people, and they spoke for the party and for the people. They were neither supplicants for patronage nor sycophants to tempo any power. They pointed out clearly the dangers to the party, regardless of personal consequences. They upheld their opinions with the firmness and fidelity that tribunes of the people should always possess.

Surely there are men in the Republican party today as faithful and sincere as those who have gone before.

Why are they silent in this time of danger?

Do they not hear the murmurs of party discontent in New York, Rhode Island, in Massachusetts, in Indiana, in Kentucky, in the South and in the West?

Do they not know of the steadily growing Republican anxiety as to the result of the Presidential election and the fear for New York and other states?

Can they not perceive the massing of the Democratic forces for the battle and the approaching union of their discordant factions? Why this sluggish supine ness, this lethargic slumber? Why this faltering speech, these hesitating tongues and these ominous whispers of faint hopes of success when New York is mentioned? Why this paralysis of independence when some plain, blunt man wishes to discuss a Presidential nominee?

If the leaders forget, the voters will remember, the relief in the New York delegation when Mr. Roosevelt was transferred from the theater of state politics to the broader and stronger structure of the national stage.

The anxiety then displayed to relieve their state by bestowing Mr. Roosevelt on the nation is not forgotten by the hundreds of delegates and thousands of Republicans who attended the Philadelphia convention. Is the Republican party in New York in better condition today than it was in 1900? No! A thousand times, no! and every thinking man is aware of it.

The Republican party cannot count upon the New York Democrats in 1904 who supported McKinley in 1900.

Have the New York antagonists to Mr. Roosevelt which were so openly discussed at the last national convention ceased to exist? Is Mr. Roosevelt now stronger before the people of New York than he was when voted out of the Governorship of that great state by New York's sons at the national convention? The Republican party wants no surmises, no guesses, no gambles upon these vital points.

The Republican party demands a leader who can carry New York and secure to the party the electoral vote of that state.

There are veterans who can do it; there are tried and trusted men who can make it a certainty. There would be no question if our candidate should be Northern Ohio's son, who stands so firmly for the rights of labor and works so constantly for the expansion of trade and commerce, who is faithful to every promise and loyal to every friend. He could carry New York and doubt would never enter the contest.

If the party should choose the soldier, the statesman, the eloquent orator, the Republican voters would rally as one man to his support and no shadow would darken the campaign.

His magnificent defense of the judiciary against the attacks of Tom L. Johnson in the last Ohio campaign called forth the highest encomiums from the New York journals and marked his legal acquirements as of the highest order and the widest range. These are Ohio chiefs, but each state in the Union can furnish some man whose name will unite the party in New York and give strength all through the republic.

Hale or Frye, of Maine; the veteran Hoar, of Massachusetts; Allison, of Iowa; Spooner, of Wisconsin; Cannon, of Illinois; and a score of younger men could be mentioned who would insure New York. Indiana has many sons who could bring triumph to our cause, and their nomination would be equivalent to an election.

The situation is plainly stated. Facts are stubborn things that often block a pathway. If, in view of all these facts, the party says it shall be Roosevelt, then so say all of us."

LOGAN.

Logan Lodge No. 832, M. B. A., has elected the following officers for 1904: President, O. D. Robbins; vice president, Geo. Spees; secretary, S. L. Wilson; treasurer, L. E. Robbins; chaplain, Rhoda Kirchem; conductor, Fred Moser, Sr.; watchman, F. P. Wilson; sentry, Wm. Sprague.

We are hustlers in Logan; we have our potatoes dug already.

Willard W. Austen, well known in Clackamas county and a pioneer resident of Logan, writes to Fred Brown from Grant county that he is married and thinks of going to Montana.

Rev. Roeder, of the German church, expects to have a revival meeting soon.

Howard Gill is home from Portland while his parents are gone East.

Henry Babler's youngest child came near being seriously injured by swallowing lye.

Mrs. Trullinger is very ill again.

THE STAMP OF TRUTH.

Oregon City Residents Know It Well.

There is the stamp of truth on a statement endorsed by people we know, by our neighbors. The following experience of a citizen is but one case of scores right here at home.

B. Meredith, the Portland brick mason, contractor and builder, who lives at 561 21st street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are one of the best remedies I ever used and I cheerfully recommend them to anyone suffering with kidney trouble. I was bothered for years with attacks of kidney complaint, and no medicine gave me permanent relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. I was so well pleased with it that when my wife had a severe attack a short time ago and could hardly get around to do her work, I had her take Doan's Kidney Pills. In two or three days they straightened her up in fine shape. We both endorse the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills and have nothing but the highest terms of praise for such a valuable remedy."

Plenty more proof like this from Oregon City people. Call at G. G. Huntley's drug store and ask what his customers report.

Beaver Lake.

Here I am, Mr. Editor, to say a few words for the welfare of Beaver Lake and its people.

Mrs. M. A. Nicholson, who has been sojourning in Eastern Oregon the past year, returned home Monday last. We welcome her smiling face.

A number of our young folks attended the dance at Mr. Bowman's last Saturday, ye scribe in the lot; the light fantastic was tripped till a late hour. All reported it a decided success.

George Groshong, a well known young man of this section, has his new residence completed, which adds much to the looks of his farm and gives evidence that he is prospering.

La grippe and bad colds seem to be the ruling element.

Frank Holt, one of our enterprising young bachelors, has gone into the goat business.

Orlan Thomas is busy building a new wood shed.

Rhys Gayin's new residence is nearing completion.

Notice of Special School Meeting.

Notice is hereby given to the legal voters of School District No. 82 of Clackamas County, State of Oregon, that a special school meeting for said district will be held in the county court room in the county court house in Oregon City, to begin at the hour of 7:30 o'clock P. M. on Monday, being the 28th day of December, 1903.

This meeting is called for general purposes, and for the purpose of levying a tax upon each and every dollar of the assessable property, both real and personal, within the district, to raise a fund for payment of general expenses and interest on bonds of the district for the ensuing year.

Dated this 18th day of Dec., 1903.

W. C. CARLE,
Chairman Board of Directors.

C. O. T. WILLIAMS,
District Clerk.

Miss Hattie Ringo is about to start for Tulare county, Calif., to visit her brother Bert. First she will sojourn at Stockton to visit friends there.

Paine's Celery Compound

Cures

DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, AND STOMACH TROUBLES.

The tortures and evils of dyspepsia and indigestion are experienced by thousands at this time. The dyspeptic's train of evils may be enumerated as follows: feelings of dizziness, languor, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache, distension of the stomach, loss of flesh, difficult breathing, and the action of the heart is seriously affected.

All forms of dyspepsia are quickly banished by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. The use of this marvelous medicine allays the inflammation of the nerves centered about the stomach; it opens up the sewers of the body and removes all waste matter; it cleanses the blood; it makes new nerve fibre; it restores digestive power, and promotes bodily strength and activity. Mr. Fred. Ross, Clarendon, Iowa, briefly writes about his happy experience with Paine's Celery Compound as follows:—

"It gives me great pleasure to testify to the merits of Paine's Celery Compound. I can candidly and honestly say it is the best medicine in the world. Two years ago I was suffering from indigestion and nervousness, and was so run down that I could hardly walk without help. I used two bottles of Paine's Celery Compound and got better almost from the first dose, and have had no use for medicine since. I was completely cured."

His First Complaint

"The writer regrets the necessity of lodging complaint concerning your usual excellent service, but in a friendly spirit begs to submit the following: Yesterday you sold me lower nine, car three, on the Pioneer Limited. But you neglected to advise me that it would be necessary to have the porter waken me in the morning, and as there was so little motion to the car I overslept. I have covered a large era on some of the other famous trains of the United States and this is the first complaint of this character I have made. I trust you will see to it in the future that passengers are advised."
