A dinner that will long be remembered was the one given on last Friday by Albert Buckles and his good wife in commemoration of the arrival of his father, William Buckles, in Oregon. It was in fact a family reunion, and there gathered at the Buckles' home in Willamette Falls to enjoy the good things of the day and the pleasures of the reunion, in addition to William Buckles, three of his sisters whom he had not seen for more than thirty years. Some twelve years ago Albert Buckles came to Oregon and during more recent years he has lived at Willamette Falls and has been an employee of the Willamette Pulp and Paper Co., in the supply of wood to their mills. Many years before his father's sisters had come to this "land of promise" and when the old gentleman arrived they gathered the family together and had a pleasant family reunion. The dinner was superb and was served at mid day. It was a most pleasant occasion and was enjoyed to the utmost by those who had the privilege of being present.

Race Question Solved.

Representative Gilbert utilized a story which is a great favorite south of Mason and Dixon's line last week in explaining to the members of the House the difference between a Democrat and a Republican in the manner of treating negroes. He related the story as follows:

"A few days ago a colored man from my country was in Boston hunting for employment. He failed to find anything to do, and was compelled to beg for something to eat. A knock at the front door of a fine house brought a well dressed man to the door, who said in reply to a request for a handout.

"My dear sir, I am sorry, but I can not give you anything to eat."

"The negro called at a number of houses, and was received with the same politeness, but got nothing to eat. In despair he approached one more house, promising himself that he would lie and die rather than push his search for food further in case the master turned him away. The door opened with a jerk, and before he had finished his appeal for food the white master of the house exclaimed:

"You black rascal! what do you mean by coming to my front door? Hustle around to the kitchen and get your breakfast."

"Thank the Lord! I've found a man from God's country at last," the negro soliloquized, as he ate heartily of corn-bread and pork."
