Letter From Bend, Oregon.
Bend is located on the Deschutes river in the timber. The land to the east is mostly prairie; to the west, all timber to the Willamette Valley. Unlike the falls at Oregon City, which makes one plunge and is gone, the Deschutes has about a dozen falls, so that the water can be used a number of times. Railroads have been talked of, but so far fail to materialize. I think that the first road out of here will be an electric one from here to Eugene. The country is building up fast, ditches are being constructed all over the country and there is some good government land subject to homestead.

Chautauqua in Session.

The eleventh annual assembly of the Willamette Valley Chautauqua Association convened at Gladstone Park Tuesday and will continue until Sunday, July 24th. Never before have so many availed themselves of the camping privileges of the park, the spacious grounds being almost filled with tents. Thousands of people come up to attend the evening programs from Portland and other nearby towns who are too busy to leave their business and camp at Gladstone. Many from this city have tents on the grounds and thoroughly enjoy the outing thus secured.

Everything so far promises success to the Chautauqua management. It being expected that during the big days of the session, the auditorium will be crowded to its utmost capacity. At all times during the assembly large crowds attend the lectures and classes. The Chautauqua and its work is becoming better known each year and the beautiful park where the exercises are held is becoming more and more a favorite camping spot. This year many improvements have been added to the grounds to increase the comfort and convenience of those attending. A roomy grandstand has been erected on the baseball diamond for the accommodation of spectators at the games.

The session opened on Tuesday with two lectures by Dr. Stanley L. Krebs, who delivers popular talks on psychology. He spoke again on the same subject Wednesday afternoon, and Wednesday night Mrs. Walter Reed of Portland presented her excellent concert of Portland musicians of the rank. The music was splendid and the crowd large. The spectators frequently manifested their appreciation.

Thursday was Grand Army Day and in the afternoon Rev. George W. White of San Francisco delivered his lecture on "The Black Napoleon." In the evening Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson lectured on "America's Mighty Mission." Today he will again lecture on the subject, "America, Mistress of the Seas," and tonight Dr. Thomas McClary, of Minneapolis will give his lecture, "The Mission of Mirth."

The baseball tournament is being eagerly watched by the supporters of the teams and large crowds of fans assemble every day to witness the games. Tuesday the Willamettes of Portland defeated the Oregon City Colts by 5 to 4 after a hotly contested game. Wednesday the Chemawa Indians won from the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 15 to 10.

The attractions for the remainder of the season are great and will undoubtedly increase the already large attendance. This (Friday) afternoon, Capt. Hobson will lecture on "America, Mistress of the Seas." Dr. McClary, of Minneapolis, will lecture tonight.

Tomorrow is "Woman's Day." Mrs. Eva Eva Emery Dye, of this city, will make an introductory address. Mgr. Marion A. White, of Chicago, will lecture.

The Cantata "Queen Esther," will be given tomorrow night. This will attract all music lovers, as the high character of Professor Robinson's productions is well known.

The programs for next week are all worthy of special mention, but Friday, the 22nd, will undoubtedly be one of the "big" days of the season, as it is set apart as "Pioneer Day." In addition to the excellent program prepared for the afternoon, there will be a special attraction in the evening—Dr. Hillis, the famous preacher, of Brooklyn, will lecture

Funeral of P. F. Morey.

The funeral of Mr. P. F. Morey, a short notice of whose death appeared in the Courier last week, occurred at the family home below the city Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services were held at the house, Rev. T. L. Elliot of the Portland Unitarian church officiating. The steamer N. R. Lang, belonging to the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company, was run down to the Morey home near Oswego, taking a large number from this city to attend the last rites. At the conclusion of the services, the remains were brought to this city by boat, when they were placed on the car and taken to the crematory near Sellwood, where the body was incinerated. The pall bearers were: Franklin F. Griffith, James P. Lovett, Clyde G. Huntley, Henry Schade, A. M. Ellsworth and F. S. Kelly.

No resident of the county was better known in this city than was Mr. Morey, who was universally esteemed for his many excellent qualities. As a financier he ranked high in the state. He it was who organized the Portland General Electric Company and was for a long time its president. He was among the first to suggest and organize the Bull Run waterworks, as well as the Portland Hydraulic Elevator Company, which has proved successful.

Mr. Morey was born in Calais, Maine, of English-Scottish ancestry. He was the fifth of a family of seven children and received his education at his birthplace. He learned the trade of machinist and worked in Bangor and Portland, Maine. He later became a mechanical engineer, being connected with H. P. Gregory & Co., of Oakland, Cal., from which city he came to Oregon City. He was a promoter of big enterprises and was largely successful. In 1891 he represented Multnomah county in the state legislature.
