

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Surgical Doctor

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

WINE OF CARDUI

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

A committee of Texas planters is here earnestly inquiring what they shall do to be saved from the terrible boll weevil which seems bent on the destruction of their great state. During the last ten years it has destroyed a vast area of cotton in Texas, having advanced from Matamorras in 1894 northeastward to the Red River and the Sabine. The suggestion of Professor Riley eight years ago that a broad belt be established along the Rio Grande in which the cotton plant should be prohibited was not adopted and the destructive pest has advanced about fifty miles a year ever since. Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture now calls on the planters of Louisiana and Mississippi to prohibit the growth of cotton within 50 miles of the Mississippi river. This remedy should not be impossible to realize any more than the burning of buildings to prevent the spread of fire, because the growth of rice as a substitute for food has made immense progress in both Texas and Louisiana, and because variety cropping has been found very profitable wherever adopted.

Dr. O. F. Cook, of the Agricultural Department arrived in New Orleans from Guatemala on Tuesday bringing with him eighty-nine beer bottles full of the mysterious ants which kill the boll weevil and protect the cotton in Central America. Some anxious Texan has applied for a writ of injunction to prevent the introduction of these ants to Texas, holding that the antidote would be worse than the bac.

Your correspondent this morning called on Professor Galloway, Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department, and Doctor H. J. Webber of the Laboratory of Plant Breeding, and they said "This anxious Texan is off his base. This ant which Cook found in Guatemala is not a vegetarian. It is insectivorous, and seems to prey only on the this weevil. It will not eat any part of the cotton plant. Cook found cotton growing there successfully in spite of the boll weevil, and thought he had discovered a grade of cotton immune to its depredations. After careful inspection, however, he found that those little ants protected the cotton by killing the weevil. The ants are fond of the sweet liquid found in the nectaries of the cotton plant. After the weevil gets in its work no nectar is forthcoming. Consequently these police ants watch for the weevil and kill him by stinging him to death so that the plants will bear their delicious food.

"It is not intended," continued Dr. Galloway, "to release these ants upon the crops of Texas; we are merely going to experiment with them and see if they will do what we hope they will do. We shall take a coop, like that one yonder, open on all sides, evenly enclose it in mosquito netting, invert it over a boll weevil infested cotton plant, put three or four of the ants inside, and see what happens. We know some things and guess other things. We know that the boll weevil will eat nothing but the cotton boll, and if he cannot get that food, he starves to death. We know that in Guatemala this ant will kill the weevil for reasons of his own. Will he do it here under other conditions, and will he survive the Gulf States' winter? This we shall find out. Something radical must be done. If no preventive is found this weevil will advance to the Atlantic leaving desolation in its path. Old weevils generally die as cold weather comes on, but they have provided for a continuance of their species in the larval, pupal and adult stages. The few that live till spring, breed to beat the band. One female will produce a progeny of 13,000,000 in a season—an unlucky number for cotton planters. If cotton is planted very early it stands a good chance of getting out of the way before the weevils get in the way, and if every planter carefully cuts and burns all his old cotton plants and corn stalks, it will tremendously reduce the danger by destroying places of hibernation."

The Bureau of Agriculture has seventy-five men in Texas investigating the ravages of the boll weevil and trying to find a preventive. Even if Dr. Cook's ants should fail, it is hoped that a cotton plant will be found that is distasteful to the weevil. He is an epicure and demands the present boll, as far as is known, but by interbreeding and artificial selection, there have already been found cotton plants that are immune to certain diseases. The Bureau of Plant Industry and the Division of Entomology are working together at the agricultural laboratory established at Victoria in Texas where a large force is endeavoring to solve this serious problem along the lines of Darwin's evolution of species. A serious cotton disease in the Carolinas has been stayed by the government's interbreeding strains of sea-island and upland cotton that have proved to be resistant to it. The average boll weevil is about one-sixth of an inch long, and if he were sharded, would closely resemble in personal appearance the Cimex lectularius who, like the Guatemalan ant, is carnivorous, and does not hesitate to keep awake in any odd thing that is called a bed, provided it is otherwise inhabited.

Oregon Development League.

A convention for the purpose of organizing an Oregon Development League will be called to order promptly at 10 o'clock A. M. Tuesday, August 2, for two days' session, at the Marquam Grand Theatre, Portland, Oregon, under the auspices of the Portland Commercial Club, which will have for its purpose the development and upbuilding of the state of Oregon.

REPRESENTATION.

Every editor in Oregon is a delegate at large. The Governor, United States Senators and Congressmen are also delegates at large and are expected to be present.

The Mayor of each and every city and town in the State, as well as the County Judge of each and every county, is urged to name ten delegates.

The president or executive officer of every commercial, industrial, agricultural, horticultural, livestock, dairy, irrigation, mining or other similar organization having for its purpose the development of any industry is urged to name ten delegates, and to add himself and secretary to the delegation, as active workers are especially desired.

In order to secure the best results, every element of boom should be eliminated. Exact reports as to what individual growers have accomplished are what is desired. Plain and direct statements are wanted giving actual results as to cultivation, growth and marketing of all agricultural products, fruit and livestock, accompanied by the name of the grower and location of the land—generalities, no matter how delightfully put, are of little value.

If you haven't a business organization in your community, or some other body through which you can be represented, organize at once, and if your meeting is only large enough to select the delegates, name yourselves and come, for it is the willing workers who are to do most for Oregon.

Be sure to bring your wives, daughters, sisters and sweethearts, for while the men are busy engaged in the convention, the Woman's Club of Portland will look after the comfort of the women of Oregon.

The Oregon Water Power and Railway Company have tendered the use of four large cars for a trip to Canemah Park, beyond Oregon City—one of the most delightful trolley rides in America. A committee from the Woman's Club of Portland will have charge of this party, and it will be restricted to the wives, daughters, sisters and other ladies accompanying delegates to the Convention. These special cars will leave from the corner of First and Alder streets exactly at 3 P. M. Tuesday, August 2.

For Wednesday, August 3, a grand trolley ride over the city with ten open cars, jointly supplied by the courtesy of the City and Suburban Railway Company and the Portland Railway Company—these cars will start from Third and Yamhill streets exactly at 3 in the afternoon. This will give the delegates a splendid opportunity to see the city thoroughly and afford ample room for the ladies who accompany them, as those who reside in Portland or near this city will not care to participate. Two residents of Portland thoroughly familiar with all interesting points, will go upon each car.

An informal reception for ladies and gentlemen will be given by the Portland Commercial Club at its rooms on the eighth floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building, Tuesday evening, from 8 to 11 o'clock. During both days of the Convention and at all hours, the rooms and especially the tower of the Commercial Club, will be open for the use of the delegates. Portland and its environs from this elevation is thought by many to be the most delightful bird's-eye view of a city to be obtained anywhere in this country.

Immediately upon choosing delegates, please notify your local papers and send notice to the Portland Commercial Club. A program of brief but explicit speeches on various subjects will be arranged in advance, and every possible effort will be made to have this Convention result in bringing the Oregon people together and in forming plans which will result to the benefit of every portion of this great State.

Very Respectfully,
PORTLAND COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Lodge Night.

Every night is lodge night and every day is lodge day with the great Flto Shows and at each performance new candidates are initiated into the many mysteries of the secret order composed of the animal actors, who take part in the many difficult acts presented at each performance.

Can you imagine anything funnier or more ludicrous than a herd of African Elephants, ranging in size from the gigantic mama, sixteen feet in height, to the little baby scarcely three feet high, all mixed up together in one joyous half hour of fun?

Well, such is the case with the elephant members of this secret organization, and the many ridiculous things the candidate is compelled to do, and the gauntlet he is compelled to run during his initiation, reminds all human lodge members-of the night they went through the trying ordeal of the first degree.

This magnificent herd of elephants, known as Herr Litzen's funny Dutch elephants, and conceded to be the funniest elephants in the world, will be seen for the first time in Oregon City on Tuesday, July 28.
