

VEGETABLES COMING IN

During the Week California Vegetables and Fruit Arrive Here.

The few days of rain of last week was very beneficial to the farmers and gardeners throughout the whole county, and the vegetation has taken on an extra growth during the past few days.

The farmers are jubilant over the prospects of their crops, and say that if no more late frosts occur the crop throughout the county will be the largest for years.

The heavy frosts of last week in some section of the county hurt some of the early fruit, but the strawberry crop will be large, also the cherry crop. Never before was there a better prospect for a large fruit yield.

Many of the farmers of Clackamas County are now planting their corn.

Early potatoes are large enough to cultivate and are in excellent condition.

Fall rye is heading, and the early sown winter wheat is in fine condition and is in the first joint. The spring grain that has been sown is growing rapidly, and there is every prospect for a good crop of hay as the meadows are looking fine.

During the past week the local merchants have depended mostly on California vegetables, but say by next week the gardeners and farmers of the county will bring in enough vegetables to supply the local markets.

The price of wheat hay has gone from $11 to $14 during the week and also grain hay from $9@10 to $12 and $15.

Cattle remain scarce and firm in prices as usual for good, fat quality. Steers are not in demand at any price.

OSWEGO CASE SATURDAY.

Opponents of Incorporation Will Raise Question of Constitutionality.

Whether or not the state legislature has the power to delegate authority to municipalities to incorporate is a question that will be raised Saturday when the county court will hold a special session for the purpose of hearing argument upon the petition filed two months ago by a majority of the citizens of Oswego asking for the incorporation of that town under the legislative enactment of 1893. The county court may, under the terms of this act, set a date and call an election of the people of the boundaries affected by the petition, for a vote on the question as to whether they desire to incorporate.

The Oregon Iron & Steel Company's holdings in Oswego amount to many thousands of dollars and this company is opposed to the movement. Their attorneys will raise a point as to the constitutionality of the law. The question is largely whether the legislature could delegate its power to in-district it is proposed to incorporate, corporate cities to the people of the Several years ago, but since the passage of the act of 1893, the constitution was amended, taking the power of incorporation out of the hands of the legislature and giving it to the people direct, and the question now arises whether the constitution is retroactive and will validate the law of 1893. Attorneys U'Ren & Schusel appear for the petitioners, and the people opposed are represented by Hedges & Griffin, J. U. Campbell and several Portland attorneys.

TRIED TO ENTER HOUSE.

Tramp Attempts to Break into Woodfin Home.

Friday night an attempt was made to enter the house of Mrs. Woodfin, whose son, Abby Woodfin, came home about 11:30 o'clock and was followed by a strange man. The boy says that the same man called at the house and wanted to sell soap and a few minutes later returned and asked for some pins. He was evidently trying to secure some information about the place and was seen talking to Mrs. Woodfin's little girls during the day. Young Woodfin says he left the rear doors and windows unlocked and saw the tramp pass around the back of the house, but the man was evidently bluffed by the sight of a gun standing in the corner and endeavored to eject an entrance by the front door, but his keys would not work as the door was bolted on the inside. About 2 o'clock Saturday morning the Woodfins aroused one of their neighbors but a search failed to reveal the whereabouts of the tramp.

Another attempt was made Saturday night by unknown men to enter the home of Mr. and Mrs. Woodfin, at Eleventh and J. Q. Adams streets. A hole was cut in the front door but the robbers failed to effect an entrance and the police force was called to the scene, but the supposed burglars had departed. Mr. Woodfin and his oldest son are working in the mills at night. People of that locality are preparing to give midnight providers a warm reception.

DAIRY EXPERT IS COMING.

E. H. Webster, Chief of Government Division, to Visit Oregon.

Last December, E. H. Webster, Chief of the Dairy Division of the Department of Agriculture, visited Oregon. At that time he assured State Food and Dairy Commissioner W. B. Boney that he would visit the Beaver State again in the month of June. He said he was particularly impressed with the state and its possibilities as a dairying community and he hoped to be able during the summer to pay this section another visit. Mr. Bailey yesterday in a letter reminded Mr. Webster of his promise and especially urged him to give the dairymen of this state the benefit of a visit from him next month as he had promised.

It is the belief of Oregon's Dairy Commissioner that a visit from Mr. Webster would do more towards stimulating and promoting the dairy industry in this state than any other program that could be devised and he will use his best endeavor to bring this prominent dairy expert to the Coast this summer. If Mr. Webster finds it convenient to fulfill his promise, says the Oregonian, Mr. Bailey will arrange a series of meetings to be addressed by the head of the dairy department at the National Capital.

The Building of a Drug Business. Square Dealing.

Why is it that this store deserves and wins your preference? Here is the answer in a nutshell. Because we give you a square deal in everything you buy—because we look at Drug Store keeping from your standpoint. You find that out every time you trade here.

We believe in doing things a little bit better than ordinary, and it is by doing things a little bit better than ordinary that our business building is accomplished.

There's a difference between the ordinary and better-than-ordinary store, just as there is a difference between the "cheap" drug store and the "fair priced" drug store. The "cheap" store or the ordinary store is a dangerous store to patronize, especially if it is a drug store. Your doctor knows that, and your doctor also knows that this store is a better than the ordinary drug store—that it is reliable—that we will sell only drugs and medicines that are pure and fresh, and at the same time we sell everything at a fair price.
