MAY WIPE OUT RHEUMATISM

SAYS HOME-MADE TREATMENT CURES DREAD DISEASE.

TELLS HOW TO MIX THIS

Shake the Ingredients Well in the Bottle and Take a Teaspoon-Full Dose After Meals.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scranton (Pa.) Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, everyday drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. Today nearly every newspaper in the country, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that any one can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as every one knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles, causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and backache. He also warns people in a leading New York paper against the indiscriminate use of many patent medicines.

EAT WHAT YOU WANT

Science Has Now Found the True Way to Cure Indigestion.

A few years ago, when a sufferer from indigestion went to a stomach specialist, the result was a rigid diet list that almost meant starvation.

But the first thing to do in the case of indigestion or stomach weakness is to strengthen the muscular walls of the stomach and intestines, so that they will care for the food that is eaten. In no other way can this be done as well as by taking a M-I-o-n-a tablet before each meal.

RELIGIOUS THOUGHT.

Gems Gleaned From the Teachings of All Denominations.

The costliest article in the universe is character. You cannot have character unless you are willing to give the universe to have it.—Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young, Presbyterian, Pittsburg.

Confession of Sins.

It is better for us to confess our sins. When we come into God's presence, our manhood will fly; we haven't enough of it left to stand a severe test.—Rev. Dr. MacLaurin, Congregationalist, Brooklyn.

Christianity's Gibraltar.

The character of Christ is the Gibraltar of Christianity, is the rock-against which all forces in opposition have dashed themselves, like waves, into foam.—Rev. A. B. Shrader, Lutheran, Carthage, Ill.

Value of Life.

History shows that the real value of life comes from the growth of the soul. This is the testimony of the rich as well as the poor. No life is strong which does not grow in moral attainment.—Rev. J. M. Taylor, Presbyterian, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Power of Christ's Love.

No angel from heaven has a plummet that can reach the depth of human sorrow and human sympathy, and no archangel has a wing that can reach the height of the love of Christ for a redeemed being.—Rev. C. B. Galloway, Methodist, Montgomery, Ala.

That Which Counts Most.

Mental quickness counts, natural shrewdness counts, a retentive memory counts, physical strength counts, the sheer power of endurance counts; but the thing that counts the most, I say, is character.—Rev. W. H. Huntington, Episcopalian, New York.

Great Battles.

The greatest battles are not physical, but moral. They are not fought out on the field of blood, but within the human heart. The greatest battle ever fought was that between Jesus and the devil. This conflict was inevitable.—Rev. H. H. Proctor, Congregationalist, Atlanta, Ga.

Twin Demons.

Envy and jealousy are twin demons that haunt and hurt life. Selfish and stupid desire to get ahead may induce a spirit destructive of the tranquillity of life. Be contented, not complacent, and learn to rightly value your present estate.—Rev. T. E. Potterton, Universalist, Chicago.

Love of Home.

Oh, young men and women, let me kindly in your hearts afresh the love of home. There is nothing that will serve to put you right with God and man quicker than the thought of a godly mother and her prayers and ambitions for your life.—Rev. Dr. Lon G. Broughton, Baptist, Atlanta, Ga.

The Scripture Mirror.

The Holy Scripture is a mirror in which we see vividly reflected the exalted virtues of some and the moral deformities of others. The admirable conduct of the saints inspires us to imitate their virtues, while the crimes of those who have fallen serve as beacon lights warning us to shun the rocks on which they have split.—Cardinal Gibbons, Roman Catholic, Baltimore.

A Man's Conscience.

Not until a man's conscience has been touched and he sees himself to be a sinner can you look for a great change. He may be forced by coercive means, but may be compelled by public sentiment, he may be shamed by the finger of scorn pointing to him, but he cannot be a power for good and right till he has seen the vision himself.—Rev. W. A. Bartlett, Congregationalist, Chicago.

God's "Home, Sweet Home."

If we miss everything else in this world of good things, let us not fail to have a home in heaven. How blessed it will be when the toils and struggles of life are over to sit down and rest in our mansions beyond the skies—to see God and entertain angels, to sit down in palaces with patriarchs and prophets; to talk with the great saints of the ages, and, last but not least, to be forever with loved ones who have gone on before. It is the privilege of us all. Jesus stands offering the passport. The tide of salvation is constantly rising. There is no bar that can resist it. God help us to catch it, that it may bear us on its bosom across the breakers and land us at last at "home, sweet home."—Rev. Dr. H. S. Hensen, Baptist, Boston.

The Universe's Supreme Potency.

Personality, beloved, is a great thing in the compelling forces. It is a thing that arrests the attention of God. And the one thing in this world God Almighty pays sincere and glorious attention to is a single human soul. I do not hesitate to believe, neither do I hesitate to assert, that when a child comes to God he gets more of God's smile and more of God's attention than all the might of the physical universe that fills the spaces infinite. Why? Why, because, God being personality, personality has a touch of himself. Personality is the supreme potency of the universe. Was there a will first? Aye. Was there love first? Aye. And a thought first? Aye. What is that? That is personality. God has all the faculties that unite to make a beginning of things. When you have personality, you can originate a man. When you have personality, you can originate life. When you have personality, you can frame theologues, astronomes and geologies and geometries. All of that you can do with personality. Without personality you can do nothing. And God is personality, who stands at the threshold of the universe. Before the ordinary machinery of the universe God existed, God Almighty's personality was here.—Rev. William A. Quayle, Methodist, Chicago.

A Significant Prayer.
"May the Lord help you make Buckle's Arnica Salve known to all," writes J. G. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "It quickly took the pain out of a felon for me and cured it in a wonderfully short time." Best on earth for sores, burns and wounds. 25c. at Howell & Jones' drug store.

HEALTHY CHICKS.

They Are Insured by Vigorous Parents and Careful Incubation.

Now is the time to make preparations for the hatching campaign of next winter, and for that reason the following hints from Reliable Poultry Journal are timely:

To secure best results in hatching you only sound, vigorous, fully matured breeding stock that is well housed and properly fed and cared for. It should be remembered that carelessness in saving eggs for hatching may result in chicks dead in the shell, for anything that tends to weaken the germ is liable to result in the death of the embryo at some stage of incubation. Eggs for hatching had best be kept at a temperature between 40 and 50 degrees F., neither above nor below. Exposure to too low a temperature is liable to injure the germ, and prolonged exposure to a temperature above 65 or 70 is almost certain to injuriously affect the egg contents, particularly the yolk, and to weaken the germ. Eggs for hatching should be as fresh as possible. The longer they are kept the weaker the germ becomes. Under favorable conditions they may be safely kept from two to four weeks, but as a rule three weeks should be the extreme limit. Careless or improper incubation may also result in chicks dead in the shell. Overheating or prolonged exposure to a temperature of 104 or above is liable to seriously injure the egg content and result in death of the embryo before hatching. The cellar is all right if you keep it well airtight.

Turkey Food Formula.
In answer to many letters regarding the formula given in the Syracuse Post-Standard by Mrs. Floyd Gates of Jamesville, N. Y., last winter, by which she was able to raise turkeys successfully, the formula is again published: Wood charcoal, one pound; sodium chloride, two pounds; sodium bicarbonate, two pounds; sodium sulphate, one pound; calcium sulphide, one pound. Have each ingredient in powder; then mix together thoroughly and give a small handful in the food every morning, increasing the amount as the birds grow.

Head Shaking Cockerels.
Some cockerels shake their heads from pure nervousness, others because of irritation from vermin or other cause and still others because of excessively large combs. Irritation from frosting of combs and wattles will cause birds to shake their heads vigorously. Frosted combs when first discovered should be rubbed thoroughly with snow or bathed in very cold water. This treatment should be followed by an application of ungaineine of 2 or 2 per cent carburetted vaniline.

A Good Colony House.
The colony house shown in the illustration is of the type now in use by the West Virginia experiment station. It is said to be one of the most satisfactory colony houses yet devised, and its simplicity is not the least of its advantages. Another strong point in its favor is that, while it is adapted to use in the warmer sections of the country, it is also thoroughly satisfactory for high latitudes. No poultryman will go far afield by making some of his colony houses on the plan of the West Virginia building herewith shown.
