CLOUDS ARE LIFTING.

The business holiday season is about to come to an end. The financial situation is rapidly adjusting it-self and we confidently expect to be soon sailing along on the prosperity wave that broke so suddenly. There will be caution for a time; men will be disposed to retrench, labor will not be in such great demand, but with the coming summer months devel-opment will andobutedly move for-

Let us have a care that we do not precipitate more trouble, A month ago we were not disposed to hurry up debtors in the payment of their accounts. We must now understand that there has been little opportunity during the last month to accumulate means to meet existing obligations and great indulgence should be shown debtors. Our people can nearly al-ways be relied upon to exercise sound judgment when it is called for. Let us be sure that we live up to our reputation in this matter.

would be taken care of locally, Sympathy will not be with the miners in the Goldfield difficutly, unless there is "another side" that the public has not yet heard. A peculiar money condition has prevailed throughout the country and the loyal citizenship has philosophically ac-cepted a substitute medium of ex-change in place of gold. It is report-ed that the Goldfield miners refused to acquiesce in this necessary re-course, that they refused to operate the mines unless the mine-owners pay in a manner at present impracticable and that they also refused to let others operate the mines. It is also said that the mines are suffering almost irreparable damage by reason of the inactivity and that the

It is probably a truth, and most unfortunately so, that labor organizations throughout the country are inclined to extend to a local organicale at izations throughout the country are inclined to extend to a local organization sympathy and aid in its disputes with employers, whether the local organization be right or wrong. The cause of labor to become, as it should be, an ornament among the institutions of our country, must intrench itself behind the bulwarks of equity and fair dealing. In fact on this one condition organized labor will stand or fall. Organized labor will stand or fall. Organized labor will scheve a lasting triumph if it denounce the stand of the Goldfield miners and demand that they bear miners and demand that they bear their share of the burden that has come upon the whole people of the

KING OSCAR IS DEAD.

Sweden's Ruler Passes Away at an Advanced Age. STOCKHOLM, Dec. 8.—Oscar II, King of Sweden, died at 9:10 o'clock this morning. The death of the venerable monarch occurred in the royal apartments of the palace, where, sur-rounded by the members of his family, including the aged Queen, Sophia, and the Crown Prince, Oscar Gustave, the high Ministers of state, the inevit-able end had been awaited, while outlong after the announcement came of of allegiance and the new monarch accepted the homage of the state officials. The last hours of the expiring monarch were passed in unconscious-ness, and up to the end he gave no sign of recognizing those about him. The Queen was grief-stricken because be could not bid her farewell.

King Oscar has long been one of the most interesting figures of European royalty, his descent from Na-poleon's great field marshal, Bernadotte, his gigantic stature and his family connections with many of the other great houses of Europe combining to give him an interesting personality. His truly democratic habits have made him idolized by his subjects, who have regarded him more as a father than a monarch.

It was King Oscar's devotion to the cause of peace that attracted the at-tention of both the United States and Great Britian when the two countries were framing the Olney-Pauncefote general treaty of arbitration, and the document named King Oscar as final arbitrator should those representing the two countries fall to agree.

Nicxan had then de liberately placed the muzzle of the weapon in his mouth and touched the trigger, and his head was frightfully mangled, the chicken house spattered with his brains and blood.

ROAD MEETING DRAWS CROWD. People of Oak Grove Meet and Discuss the Situation.

County roads enlisted the attention of the people of Oak Grove Friday night at a meeting in the schoolhouse that was well attended. Among the speakers were County Judge Dimick, Ex-County Commissioner Richard Scott, Ex-County Superintendent Harvey G. Starkweather and B. Lee Paget, secretary of the Portland Trust Company of Oregon. Mr. Paget's home is in Oak Grove, although his business is in Portland, and he hurled a series of questions calculated to bring him enlightenment on the vexed question. County Assessor Nelson vas an interested spectator.

The Oak Grove district is a large one and conforms to the present limits of the voting precinct, and this condition is not altogether satisfactory to the people of the village, many of whom desire to eliminate such properties as Richard Scott's farm, the Golf Links, and the Southern Pa cific tracks, placing them in the Har-mony district.
