The installation of officers of Maple Lane Grange took place last Saturday afternoon. The officers were installed by C. C. Borland, of Oswego, the County Deputy, and the attendance was large. During the lecturer's hour a fine program was given, and Mrs. Mary S. Howard, of Multnomah State Secretary, made an interesting talk.

George Safford, of Oswego, was granted a liquor license by the County Court Friday, upon a petition signed by a large number of the residents of Oswego. A remonstrance was presented, but was ineffectual, for the reason that it embraced only a comparatively small number of the residents of the place.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Evans entertained a number of their Eastern Star friends on New Year's eve. The affair was very pleasant. Progressive whist was the evening's amusement, the prizes being won by Mrs. John H. Walker and Andrew Robertson. The house was beautifully decorated with holly, trailing moss and red bells. At midnight a delicious luncheon was served in the diningroom by the hostess.

Miss Bachmann in Illinois. Pekin, Illinois, Jan. 1. Editor of the Courier—Having extended my stay in Illinois six months, I enclose 75 cents in stamps for which please extend my subscription to your valuable paper for that time, as I think I cannot get along without it. It is like a message from home.

I have secured a position as a teacher in the Pekin schools, and enjoy the work very much. Pekin is a pretty town with a population of 10,000 inhabitants. It is the county seat of Tazewell county.

I am from Clackamas, Oregon, from which place I departed in October and expect to return in June. Although I enjoy my visit and have about become accustomed to the climate, I certainly miss the mountains and their pretty streams, the grand old firs, the beautiful green ferns, moss, flowers, etc. Also Oregon apples and "Oregon mist".

Some of my friends show considerable surprise when looking over my collection of postals, and see by some of them that many of Oregon's public buildings as well as beautiful residences, compare so favorably with those of the middle states.

My address prior to this time was Lincoln, Illinois. Please send paper 1101 S. Sumner St., Pekin, Ill.

Wishing the Courier a happy and prosperous New Year, I am, Yours truly, Anna Bachmann

Surveyors' Instruments Attached. The surveying instruments of H. H. Johnson, consisting of a Berger transit, valued at $175, and a Burt solar compass, valued at $50, were attached Tuesday to force the payment of a promissory note for $154 given by Johnson October 19, 1903, to J. W. Cole. Johnson gave a chattel mortgage on these instruments and Deputy Sheriff Baker took them into his care, but they were later released on payment of the note.

JUVENILE FAIR IS NEW PROJECT

11 dependent men were escorted by guard on the morning of the next day to the city and county limits, and liberated at the Golf Links station of the Oregon City car line, with instructions not to return.

Whereas, The territory adjoining for some two or three miles in a southerly direction, including Oak Grove and vicinity, is dotted with homes occupied by suburban residents, whose business pursuits in Portland or elsewhere take them from home much of their time.

Whereas, Our homes are therefore occupied during such time only by our wives and children, who are without police or other protection;

Whereas, These unhappy men, by force of circumstances, must become a prey upon our community, and, unless they can find immediate work, are driven to the extreme where they must either beg, steal or starve; and,

Whereas, A most serious condition is thereby created, and the possibility exists of its being greatly intensified through the continuation of this policy, and the unloading upon us of still larger numbers;

Resolved, By the members of the Oak Grove Improvement Association, that we hereby call the attention of the officials of Clackamas county to this very serious condition, under which these undesirable citizens and characters are being dumped upon a defenseless community, to the immediate peril of our homes and families; and we hereby urge them to devise some means, if any legal remedy exists, to make use of it and to prevent the further carrying out of this outrageous imposition upon a peaceful section of the county.

That copies of this resolution be forwarded to the Sheriff and County Judge of this county, as well as the daily press.

Whereas, These two measures have long been advocated by the Grange, therefore be it

Resolved, That we ask our State legislative committee to present to each candidate for United States Senator and member of Congress, a pledge substantially as follows:

Will you, if elected, work in all legitimate ways to secure the passage of laws providing for a system of Postal Savings Banks, and for a Parcels Post? Yes, or no.

As an evidence of good faith, will you, during your campaign, endorse these measures publicly? Yes, or no.

The session was an enjoyable and profitable one and at noon the ladies of Maple Lane Grange served the bountiful supper that they so well know how to prepare.

In the afternoon an interesting program was rendered, and brief speeches were made by several well known and prominent members of the Patrons of Husbandry.

Highland Grange. Highland Grange, No. 261, met at its hall January 4, with the master, J. E. Peck, in the chair.

During the morning session the Grange business was transacted and three applications for membership were taken in. At noon dinner was announced, and enjoyed by members and visitors, and this was followed by the afternoon session, which was open to visitors.

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Nora Miller: Master, J. E. Peck; overseer, J. Schram; lecturer, Ada Stephens; steward, Vernon Larkins; assistant steward, Elbert Larkins; chaplain, Lizzie Ringo; treasurer, Jessie Mayfield; secretary, C. N. Larkins; gatekeeper, Frank Ringo; Cores, Bortha Kandle; Pomona, Vena Mayfield; Flora, Stella Larkins; lady assistant steward, Ellen Schram.

The following literary programme was well rendered: Song, Mrs. Nora Miller; recitation, Mable Clark; reading, Mrs. Schram; instrumental music, Frank Ringo, Jessie Mayfield and Vernon Larkins; recitation, Altha Stevens; song, Ruby and Elsie Schram; recitation, Mrs. Peck; recitation, Leona Gard; recitation, Nettie Stevens; recitation, G. R. Miller; song, Robert Glinther. All the numbers received an ovation.

The question, "How Can We Make Our Grange More Interesting and Beneficial?" was discussed. A contest between the ladies and gentlemen was arranged for the February meeting, and also an oyster dinner. The losing side in the contest is to pay a forfeit.

Harding Grange. The new year began for Harding Grange on January 4th with the largest and most enthusiastic meeting that has been held for a long time. Sixty-five members were present, and each one of them seemed to have taken a New Year's resolution to be a good, live, sociable Granger for the occasion, and let us hope, for the season.

Brother J. D. Chitwood, of Damascus, deputy master, was present to install the officers and he carried the ceremony through in his usual impressive manner. The first degrees were conferred on one and the last degrees on three. It took two of the long tables to seat the crowd at dinner time, and the hum of a jolly conversation nearly raised the ceiling.

The new officers took hold as though they meant business. The retiring master, George A. Kohl, made an excellent address, in which he reviewed the work of the Grange for the past two years, and said the prospects are bright for greater success in the near future.

The new master, Mr. Samuel E. Gerbes, is a young man well qualified for the position, and he pledged his best efforts for Grange success.

The lecturer's hour was a long one and crowded with recitations, songs, reading and essays, humorous and otherwise. So many took part in the discussions that the old stand-by had to watch for a chance to get a word in edge-ways.

A goodly number of names were secured to the initiative petition being circulated by the State Grange committee.

Granges that got ahead of us in points for January, in the contest, will have to hustle.

DUMP HOBOS ON CLACKAMAS. Oak Grove People File Protest and Ask for Police Protection.

The Oak Grove Improvement Association at its last meeting passed the resolutions given below: It appears that they should present their complaint to the city of Portland, from which place the riff-raff is sent. The county can hardly be expected to provide police protection in minor cases to separate localities.

Whereas, It is reported in the daily press that the police of the city of Portland arrested on December 29th as many as 11 unemployed men of varied races, all of whom were described as vagrants and hoboes, without visible means of support;

Whereas, in conformity with the very questionable policy in vogue, these dependent men were escorted by guard on the morning of the next day to the city and county limits, and liberated at the Golf Links station of the Oregon City car line, with instructions not to return.

CLARK REPLIES TO MR JUNKEN which the manager had invested about $500; also, the accounts were something like the one Mr. R. A. Junken now owes, of parties this bookkeeper had allowed to go uncollected, and also like the $25 McGlashan drew out of the company funds without any legal authority, and still retains and, further, there were several outstanding claims against the company that this expert bookkeeper had nothing to show the existence, and which were not known to exist until presented for payment and, further, no hearty co-operation was given by either of the outgoing employees to the new management; in fact, rather the reverse.

As to Mr. Myers holding the trade Mr. McGlashan had built up, we wonder how this valiant defender knows all this, as he has been out of the city since Mr. Myers took charge, and probably is not aware that Mr. Myers' sales have shown no depreciation over Mr. McGlashan's, and probably he does not remember stating, on his trip from Oregon City, to a reliable party "that the Co-operative store was about down," or words to that effect. Possibly, he believed when he left Oregon City that all business would immediately come to a standstill, but, like most egotists, he can probably find how much he effected the business in leaving Oregon City if he will stick a pin in a millpond and look at the hole it leaves when withdrawn.

As to Mr. McGlashan's claims as to having built up a good business and leaving it in good condition, the facts are that the actual invoice value of the stock was about $2,500, and that when all claims of all creditors were in, it showed something over $2,000 under his administration, with large amounts coming due, with all cash drawn out; and, also, our expert bookkeeper showed money in the bank, while, in fact, there was an overdraft and less than nine in the bank. That was the actual condition of affairs. While, if necessary, it can be shown by affidavits of four men, besides this writer, that the reports of profits and payment of all claims were just as herein set out, and if that is good condition, then he left it in good condition.

If Mr. R. Junken thinks the mere assertion that a statement is false, it will carry weight with anyone, he is mistaken. The facts herein stated are what is shown by the books, and by the reports of the manager, of which Mr. Junken had no knowledge from the board, and if he can take the affair and make any different showing we will be pleased to have him do so. The writer will be glad to retract the statements here made, if untrue, and make due amends, if it can be shown that there is any mistake in any of these matters.

In the interview published it was the intention of the writer to cast no reflections, and present a general publication of our feelings toward the former management, but, as the parties have insisted in jumping into print, they will have to abide by the results.

There are other matters that might be interesting reading, but apologies to the editor and public for this extensive statement are due from the writer, who does not profess to know all about or anything about groceries, nor does he believe a man of Mr. R. A. Junken's limited abilities can learn all about it in a few months.

J. F. CLARK.
