The Three "L's" For Willie's Boss.

Pa says: "The milk of human kindness as dispensed by some people tastes strongly of the can." I've noticed that some rich men squeeze a dollar so hard, when they take one out to spend it, they must make the eagle sick. If I ever get a rich father I think I'll establish a school on "How to Live and Let Live." This store is run on the "Live and Let Live" plan all right. Everything is marked in plain figures and sold on a very small margin of profit at the lowest prices possible, quality always considered. My boss believes that quality is of first importance in selecting things to eat and drink. All grocers claim to sell the best, but when you get anything at this store you know you've got the best and that's some comfort these busy times.

Yours, WILLIE.

Latest styles in millinery at Miss Goldsmith's on March 27 and 28.

Don't forget to attend the grand millinery opening at Mrs. H. T. Sladen's on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 24 and 25. Prices to suit your pocketbook.

Miss Anna Fisher, who has been visiting with friends near Woodburn, has returned to her home in this city and resumed her position as head lady clerk in L. Adams' store.

W. G. Langford, who was badly hurt last week, is slowly improving. His wife, who has been confined to her bed for the past three weeks with typhoid pneumonia, is also improving.

Joseph Stuart, formerly of this city, but now of Seaside, Or., recently underwent a serious surgical operation at the hospital in Astoria, and the latest reports are that he is getting along nicely.

Miss Goldsmith invites you to her millinery display on March 27 and 28.

I. Sinsheimer, of New York City, who has been visiting with his daughter, Mrs. Edwin T. Fields, of this city, has gone to Portland, where he will visit with his son for a week before leaving for his home in the East.

Roswell L. Holman went to Stafford Wednesday morning, returning the same evening, and conducted the funeral of the late Benjamin Athey, the old Clackamas county pioneer, who died at his Stafford home Sunday.

Our merchants are getting their windows trimmed up with fresh spring goods, in very attractive style. Price Brothers' windows are full of spring suggestions and show great decorative talent.

Matthew Dooney, one of the prominent farmers of New Era precinct, was in Oregon City on business Monday. Mr. Dooney has farmed in Clackamas county for the past 20 years, and is among the best known farmers in the county.

Miss Goldsmith, the leading milliner, will have a grand millinery display on Friday and Saturday, March 27 and 28.

Sam Roake, who is now residing at Clackamas, was in Oregon City on Monday. Mr. Roake, who purchased four acres near Clackamas Station, is having three acres put in strawberries, and is also to erect a large green house and raise carnations for the market.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Andrews, who have just returned from their honeymoon to Seattle and Bellingham, Wash., were in Oregon City, Saturday and Sunday visiting with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews have gone to housekeeping in Portland, where Mr. Andrews has purchased a modern cottage.

Mrs. H. T. Sladen will have a grand millinery opening at her millinery parlors near the depot on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 24 and 25, and invites all of the ladies of Oregon City to call and inspect her fine line of millinery. All of the newest shapes have been received. Particular attention will be given to the patrons on these days.

Miss Mary Conyers, who returned from New York several months ago, where she was taking voice culture, for the past two years, was in Oregon City on business Friday, and returned to her home in Clatskanie Saturday morning. Miss Conyers is having much success in her work as instructor, and has charge of the Freyriary choir of her home town.

Miss Nora Conyers, sister of Miss Conyers, and who has many friends of this city, has, with her brother George, purchased the Clatskanie Chief from Mr. Blackwood, formerly editor of the paper, and who has gone to Astoria, where he has embarked in the newspaper business.

C. A. Casseday, wife and little daughter, of Carus, were in Oregon City, Saturday, and returned to their home Saturday evening, accompanied by their son Carl, who is attending Barclay high school in this city, and who spent Sunday with his parents. Mr. Casseday said that the farmers made good use of their time during the clear spell, and many of them have finished putting in their grain, but he has about three more acres to put in, which will probably be put in corn, as a great deal of this is raised by him each year. He has all of his oats sown.

Mrs. W. A. Shewman, Jr., and little son, Alon Watson Shewman, who are visiting over on the Sound, will arrive in Oregon City next week, where they will make their future home. Mr. Shewman arrived here Feb. 7, from Portland and took charge of the Oregon City Courier, and with his family will occupy the home of Mrs. Matilda Chairman on Seventh and Jefferson street.

W. F. Mueller, one of the well-known farmers of the county, was in Oregon City Friday and Saturday on business. Mr. Mueller has been a resident of Clackamas since 1883, having come to the state of Oregon from Illinois in 1879. He came with his parents from Germany when he was about 15 years of age. Mr. Mueller is farming on the Fred Lindau place of 100 acres, 100 acres being under the plow, and is considered to be one of the best farms in that district. He is also running a dairy in connection. Besides all of his grain, Mr. Mueller is raising fruit of all kinds. Mr. Lindau and family left Clackamas about five years ago for Connell, Wash., and about a year ago went to Cuba, where Mr. Lindau has bought property near Havana, consisting of 40 acres, and is raising oranges, pineapples and bananas, and he and his family are delighted with their new home. "The children," writes Mr. Lindau, "have been placed in the schools and can speak the Spanish language fluently." Mr. Lindau, in speaking of the climate, says "it is perfect," and hasn't the desire to return to his native state.

CHARLES SPANGLER MEETS WITH ACCIDENT.

Charles Spangler, a well-known farmer and miller of Carus, met with an accident which nearly proved fatal at his home last Sunday night. Mr. Spangler had gone to the barn to feed his cattle, and was in the act of throwing down the hay from a loft about 13 feet high, and in trying to descend by means of a rope ladder missed his footing and fell to the ground below. It was some time before Mr. Spangler was able to reach his home, and his wife on hearing a faint knock at the door, was horrified to find her husband covered with blood. Everything was done to relieve his sufferings, and Dr. Sommer was summoned from Oregon City, who found that Mr. Spangler's head was crushed, and he also received a severe scalp wound besides being badly bruised about the body. For several days his condition was critical, but it is now thought that the patient is on the road to recovery.

THE CHURCH

LOYALTY FIRST PRINCIPLE

THE CHURCH, ITS NATURE AND PURPOSE.

"I speak concerning Christ and the church." Ephesians 5:32.

Among the various institutions in the world today I doubt if there is another so little understood as the Church.

In the early days of Christianity, this was not so. People knew what the Church was and where to find it. Today large numbers in Christian lands neither know nor care.

The multiplicity of churches has led to uncertainty, and uncertainty to indifference until large numbers of men and women possessing more or less Christian character have assumed an attitude of stolid indifference toward the "Churches." They have come to look upon joining the church as they do on joining a club, as a matter of taste, with no obligation to do so beyond their own wishes.

In new testament times no one claimed to be a Christian who did not belong to the church. It could hardly be otherwise when we consider the nature and purpose of the society founded by Jesus Christ.

There is a great truth in the Bible known as the Church truth. Namely, that it has ever been God's will and pleasure to save men and give them grace not only by working in their personal religion but also by bringing them into a spiritual society or church. Admission to the society has always been by an ordinance provided by God. He has always revealed His will to this society, and through it to the world. The members of the society have always been regarded as God's people. And this is spite of the fact, that the membership of the society has always been of a mixed character, made up of bad and good.

Look, for instance, at the Church during the earthly life of the Lord Jesus. Those who made up its membership were not all that might have been.

Peter denied Him. Thomas doubted the resurrection, Judas betrayed Him. All the Apostles were carried away on one occasion with ambition as to which of them should be greatest.

Later on, when the Church was founded in the great cities of the Roman empire, Corinth, Ephesus, Philippi, we find the same mixture of good and bad. The Apostles address the church members as "Saints," but find it necessary to reprove and exhort and threaten them for their misdeeds.

Jesus, himself, said His Kingdom would be like a field having good wheat and tares growing together. And this mixed character of the Church was necessarily so, because the church was intended to be a school of christian character. People were taken in just as they were that by the Grace of God they might be made over into "new characters."

It is important that we keep this in mind, because at different times some have left the church and organized private societies on the plea that the church contained faulty members. In doing so they mistook the very nature and purpose of the church.

The church is not intended only for those who come respectably dressed in robes of righteousness, but also for those who come in rags. The church is a divine society with a message and a mission to men. It is the extension on earth of the life and work of Jesus. It is furnished with all the means of grace necessary to insure the soul's complete deliverance from sin and growth in goodness. "Till Christ is formed within." It provides an atmosphere and an environment favorable to the development of Christian character. It is the "Temple," "Family," and "Flock of God." His authorized and accredited representative.

The church was designed to provide a society made up of those who had so far caught the spirit of Jesus and were so far in sympathy with His aims that He could safely leave His work in their hands. They were by no means perfect people, as we have seen, but one thing characterized them all: they to some extent grasped His idea of a kingdom of righteousness to the building up of which they were willing to devote their lives. They received and accepted from Jesus the commission to carry the Gospel to every creature. The Church is therefore of necessity a missionary society.

This being the nature and purpose of the Church, it follows that every believer in Jesus ought to be loyal to it, ought to love it and labor for it. And certainly no one is at liberty to leave it. No matter if it is impure, though the tares are thick among the wheat. Still as long as God loves it every Christian man and woman should love it. As long as God has not left it, men and women should not, unless they wish to appear wiser and holier than God. In His last great prayer for His disciples, Jesus prayed that they all might be one, that the world might believe on Him. The greatest wrong in Christendom, the greatest hindrance to the work of Christ is a divided christianity.

"Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it. That He might present it to Himself a glorious church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing but that it should be holy and without blemish." Ephesians 5:25-7.

Prof. H. A. Howell, of Havana, Cuba, Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"As long ago as I can remember my mother was a faithful user near-writer of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, but never in my life have I realized its true value until now," writes Prof. H. A. Howell, of Howell's American School, Havana, Cuba. "On the night of February 3d our baby was taken sick with a very severe cold, the next day was worse and the following night his condition was desperate. He could not lie down and it was necessary to have him in the arms every moment. I did not think he would live until morning. At last I thought of my mother's remedy, Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which we gave, and it afforded prompt relief, and now, three days later, he has fully recovered. Under the circumstances I would not hesitate a moment in saying that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and that only, saved the life of our dear little boy." For sale by Huntley Bros., Oregon City and Molalla.

farmers, and yet thousands of cases of eggs are shipped in every year from the Middle West to supply the demand here. Albany and Stayton had meetings on Friday and Saturday. A Commercial Club has just been organized at Bend.

Coast News Notes

Ground was broken for the Oregon building at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle Wednesday, with appropriate ceremonies.

Secretary F. A. Welch, of the Oregon State Board of Agriculture, is asking for the co-operation of the various County Courts of the State in arranging for exhibits at the State Fair held annually at Salem. It requires forethought at the beginning of the planting season to secure attractive displays, which become of more vital importance each year in view of the immense number of newcomers seeking locations in Oregon.

Every one of the merchants in Central Point, Oregon, is using special stationery designed in such a way that the low colonist rates are forced upon the attention of the recipient. Railroad officials on various roads have reported travel which indicates thirty train loads of homeseekers now en route to the Pacific Coast.

Fruit, dairying and other industries of Oregon have all been given their share of publicity, but poultry raising is rarely mentioned outside of the publications which are either devoted to poultry or have a special department for it. $5,000,000 annually is a very conservative estimate of the returns from this industry to Oregon.

DID you ever stop to compare the COURIER with other County papers? Consider a minute. There are 12 pages—each page containing 7 columns. This makes a column more on each page than you usually get in a county weekly or 12 columns, which is equal to two extra pages when comparing with a six column paper. Then the extra length gives half a page extra. So, summing up, the County Weekly as a rule gives you 8 pages each containing 6 columns. To get the comparative size of the COURIER you must add 6½ pages—which is lacking only a page and a half of being just double the size of the ordinary 8-page weekly.

Only the loyal support that the COURIER has enjoyed throughout the County enables it to furnish such a large paper. If you are a reader of the paper call your neighbor's attention to the fact that Clackamas County has never before had so much in the way of a County Paper.

Remember the MAGAZINE SECTION—THE COMIC SUPPLEMENT. This alone is worth the price of the COURIER.

Send for sample copies of the COURIER—give us the name of your friend who should read the COURIER and we will send samples.
