The people of Clackamas County who have in mind dependable merchandise are more and more awakening to the fact that to inspect the big department store, where really sensible offerings are to be found continually, is the best plan that can possibly be adopted. There is no making up of goods to be summarily slashed off again in an attempt to fool the public, but extensive buying of classy goods and choice selection of fine garments, trimmings, laces and notions of many varieties that enables the stable merchant to continue to offer each day bargains that are bound to attract the attention of the most careful buyers. There are remainders of our spring stock and we are making many sacrifices each week in order that not a single piece of such merchandise will be carried over the season. Those who appreciate unusual values improve these opportunities and make most profitable investments of time and most economical exchange of cash for seasonable goods.

Every section of the store presents a wonderful list of real bargains in dependable dry goods. These are unsurpassed opportunities and temptingly small prices are the rule in every department. The inducements which we offer are beyond all competition and will certainly prove irresistible to any man, woman or child who are interested in positive money saving.

Portland Business College

"THE SCHOOL OF QUALITY"

Tenth and Morrison, Portland, Oregon A. P. Armstrong, LL.B., Principal

Ⓢ We occupy two floors 65 by 100 feet, have a $20,000 equipment, employ a large faculty, give individual instruction, receive more calls for office help than we can meet. Our school admittedly leads all others in quality of instruction. It pays to attend such an institution.

Ⓢ Said a Business Man: "Keep hammering away everlastingly on thorough work. It will win out in the end." Said an Educator: "The quality of instruction given in your school makes it the standard of its kind in the Northwest."

Ⓢ Open all the year. Students admitted at any time. Catalogue free. References: Any bank, any newspaper, any business man in Portland.

As soon as possible the injured man was taken to Dr. W. E. Carl who attended to the injury.

Not more land, but better land; not more work, but better planned; not more fields tilled, but fewer fields tilled better—these are the things every good farmer is aiming at.

Soil the bearings often. The horses would thank you for it if they could. Makes the machine wear longer, too.

Soil the plumpiest, nicest wheat this fall. Run it through the fanning mill and take out all the foul stuff. Good seed is half the crop.

Drain or put kerosene on mud holes and swamps, and screen cisterns, water barrels, etc., and there will be no stagnant places for mosquitoes to breed.

When you go out to cut brush, take a scythe that is stiff enough to stand a good hard blow. And while you are about it take a good stiff backhoe along with you. You will need it before long.

It is poor economy to use wood to fire the engine on thrashing day. Coal is much more satisfactory for keeping up the fire. It is free from sparks that are liable to start fire in straw and grain stacks.

The twentieth century is strenuous, complex and democratic. One-third of the young men of this age are not wanted because of their habits; but trained, loyal, cheerful, sober-minded young men are in demand.

The cheap artists continue to picture the farmer as bewiskered and wearing long boots. That type is as rare now as long-haired poets and picture makers. The twentieth century farmer is a man of business and looks like a man of business.

Do you know that you can write your name on the metal of your farm tools? You can. Just take a little tallow or beeswax, melt it and spread it over the place on which you want your name; write your name down through the wax with a big needle or awl and pour a few drops of nitric acid over the letters you have made. Leave a few minutes. Then wipe off the wax and your name will be on the iron.

Well, John, you didn't get around to fix up the flower beds that you promised your wife. Had no time? Now don't get huffy if I tell you that you wasted enough time last week talking politics down at the corner, and trying to swap horses, to have done ten times over what she asked you to do. How she would have enjoyed "puttering" over her flowers in the twilight hours of the hot days, and the sight of a bed of snowy asters or golden-hearted pansies from her kitchen window would have helped her over many a morning's work in a steaming hot room.

ABANDON DRUGS and get well—WHY should a sick person take a dose of medicine to make him well when that same person, if well, would be afraid to take that same medicine lest it would make him sick?

To all acute and chronic sufferers that wish to come to us for adjustments and treatments, we will pay their railroad fare to Portland and back to Oregon City. This we would rather do than keep up two offices.

YEARLY PROFIT

PROSPERITY depends more upon investment than any other source of profit. Good investments are so difficult to find as a needle in a haystack.

REAL ESTATE is the basis of all values. It has made more big fortunes than all other investments combined. Provided it is desirably located, it is impossible to lose.

THE NORTHWEST is the center of greater real estate activity than any other part of the United States. Even Eastern capital knows it and invests.

OREGON has more wealth-making opportunities than any other State in the Union. Its resources are phenomenal. The development of the State means riches for the City.

PORTLAND realty investments pay from 30 to 100 per cent annually. We have several that require a few dollars a month and will net the investor big money and earn an annual profit. For particulars mail the coupon.

Hat Pins

made out of Real Roses

Nehalem, Oregon, July 23, 1908.

Editor Courier:

A letter from the Nehalem coast may be of interest to your readers. I left Portland, July 14 and arrived in Astoria the following day, coming down on the boat and spending two days there.

Astoria is a very nice little town of about 25,000 inhabitants, and I enjoyed the sights. They have a fine reservoir, a continual stream of water 50 feet high in the center and also a fine fountain for man and beast, and on a little farther there is a little platform and seats for the footsore and weary to rest. The scenery is beautiful, the Lewis and Clark river to the right and the Young river on the left, and farming land and pasture everywhere.

We walked about six miles up and down hills and it didn't seem to tire me very much, as the air is so bracing.

We left Astoria on the Steamer Sue H. Elmore for Hobsonville, being eight hours on the ocean and enjoying it very much until I experienced the usual seasickness, which continued until we arrived at Hobsonville. We just missed the stage there, so hired a livery to take us to Nehalem, where my son, Cleve Allen, met us, arriving at Walter Cain's at 8:30 p. m. They live three miles from town on a beautiful farm of 800 acres, the Nehalem ranch, owned by Mr. Hood, president of the German-American Bank. My son Pleasant and son-in-law Walter Cain are managing the place as a dairy ranch. Their crops are mostly hay. The scenery is fine and fish and game are plentiful. The Nehalem mountains is in their pasture. It is 1800 feet high and we are thinking of climbing it soon. People do not think anything of running up and down the mountains here.

I have been down to the beach several times but do not find many shells, though we get crabs, mussels and clams along some parts of the beach, also keep sometimes among the rocks washed in by the tide and caught in the rocks, and then we rake them out. The salmon season opens here the first of August and I am informed one can buy a 30 or 30 pound

Delamotte
Real Rose Hat Pins

It does not seem possible, yet it is true, that these Hat Pins are made out of live roses, and changed into metal by a secret process. This discovery is without doubt one of the lost arts of the ancient Egyptians. They are the most beautiful of all Hat Pins. No two are alike. Made in finishes to conform to the prevailing fashions in millinery. Six sizes at the following prices:

$1.50, $2.00, $2.50,
 $3.00, $3.75, $4.50

Everybody is talking about them. Don't fail to come in and see them. These are the genuine DELAMOTTE Real Rose Hat Pins.
