

EDISON
"Equally Good For Young and Old"

In every home where there are children there ought to be an Edison Phonograph; and every home without children needs it still more.

Until you have heard the new Edison you can have no idea how perfect an instrument it has become with the late improvements that Mr. Edison has added.

Every note of music, every syllable of speech is clear and distinct, yet soft and sweet without the least scratch or mechanical sound. Come in and hear the new Edison; it is a pleasure for us to demonstrate so perfect an instrument, and it places you under no obligation whatever.

Interesting Grange Meeting—Pass Resolutions.

Maple Lane Grange held its regular session Saturday, September 5, with a very good attendance, considering that so many are away to the hop fields.

It was decided to hold our fourth annual fair on the 10th day of October, being the second Saturday of that month and our regular monthly meeting is postponed to that date. It was also decided to charge a flat price of 25 cents for dinner at that time, of course this part of the programme was instituted for the purpose of relieving the embarrassment of the City people, who usually come in large numbers to Maple Lane Annual Fairs, expecting and in some cases demanding the privilege of paying their way, then again Maple Lane Grange can always find use for hard cash.

The most noticeable feature of our last meeting, was the absence of our late brother, S. T. Roman, who as Master, Secretary and lay member, was always at his post, and we all feel that Maple Lane Grange has lost one of her best and most efficient members. The Master appointed a committee who formulated the following resolutions:

Whereas, The Grim Tyrant, Death, has again visited Maple Lane Grange and removed from our midst our dearly beloved and most worthy brother, Past Master Samuel Thomas Roman, and

Whereas, We firmly believe that as worthy Patron of Husbandry, who took more than ordinary interest in working for our glorious cause, and as a most efficient officer, who was always to be found at his station, and ever ready and willing to aid and assist in all branches of the order, his loss can never be replaced. Therefore be it

Resolved, That while we bow to the will of Divine Wisdom, we still greatly deplore his loss to his family, his friends, the various organizations of which he was an honored member, and especially to Maple Lane Grange No. 296, P. of H. And further be it

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of Maple Lane Grange, that a copy be sent to the Oregon City papers, and that an engraved copy be sent to the family of our late brother.

Signed:

WM. BEARD,
C. W. SWALLOW,
A. J. HOBBLE,
Committee.

After dinner the following program was rendered, under the supervision of our most efficient lecturer, Mrs. E. A. Seeley:

Song, "Memories," by the grange; roll call with responses on what constitutes a good neighbor; address, "The Ideal Home," Louise C. Beard; recitation, "A Ballad by Vegetables," Myrtle Swallow; paper, "The Sunny Side of Life," Mrs. Anna J. Lewis; paper, "Fly Pests," Mrs. O. A. Swallow; reading, Mattie Beard; recitation, "The Blue and the Gray," Wm. Gardner; recitation, Wm. Beard; song, "Beautiful Golden Somewhere," by the grange.

Buffalo Bill at Portland.

Among the typical western scenes which are to be produced during the performance of Buffalo Bill's Wild West in Portland the reproduction of a train hold-up will be interesting. In this scene a practical engine drawing a practical train of cars will be utilized and the attack and robbery will be executed in genuine western fashion. There will be shown in strict accord with correctness of detail the methods employed not only in stopping and taking possession of the engine and train, but also in securing the valuables of the passengers and the plunder from the express car. Then will follow a scene which introduces the real bandit hunters of the Union Pacific, an organization which is maintained by the railroad company for the purpose of protecting its property and averting attacks upon its trains. These bandit hunters are provided with a special car, wherein are stabled the saddle horses used by the officials in chasing desperadoes across-country. The car also provides permanent quarters for the men, guns and ammunition, and is, in fact, a traveling arsenal, peopled with experienced bandit hunters who know every foot of the territory surrounding the line of the railroad. When a hold-up takes place they are rushed to the scene by special service and since their organization never failed to trace one or more and sometimes all of the law-breakers whom they sought. The treachery and brutality of marauding Indians will be depicted in attacks upon the emigrant train and the Holiday scene at T-E Ranch, showing the savage instinct of stealth in the matter of attack and brutality, in warfare and assault. Of such scenes was the old West historic; they were ornate pictures of carnage which illustrated the pages of Western history. The fact that they have passed forever from the stage of civilization, makes them all the more important and interesting in their present delineation. Will exhibit at Portland, Sept. 25 and 26.

Grange Exhibits at Fairs.
A good many grangers throughout the states are getting ready to make exhibits at their local or county fairs. Nothing has done so much to revive interest in real agricultural exhibits at the decaying fairs as these competitive exhibits by the granges of a locality, remarks the Ohio Farmer. Many a fair which has degenerated into a race course, with the agricultural hall void of agricultural products and the stalls and pens strangers to exhibition stock, has been resuscitated by the rivalry of the local granges in making real farm exhibits, and many a fair management has had its eyes so opened by a first friendly contest of this sort without any money prize that it has been moved to offer prizes of some amount for grange exhibits. Get your grange to make an exhibit at your coming fair. Some one or two of you will have to take the lead, because if one waits for another nothing will be done. Get about it now.

As to Initiation Fees.
The question has arisen lately as to whether a person can be received as a member of the grange on payment of less than the regular initiation fee, which is $3 for men and 1 for women and for boys from 14 to 21 and women from 14 to 21 50 cents. The answer is, No. Also relative to legal dues the constitution provides each member shall pay annual dues amounting to 10 cents a month, and no subordinate grange has a legal right to accept less. This is the interpretation of the regulation by the national master.

There will be no meeting at Thousand Islands this year because no concession in railroad rates could be secured.

TURKEY RAISING ON THE FARM.
On the average farm where poultry raising is a side issue, I think larger profits can be gained from turkeys than any other fowl, considering the amount invested and work and food eaten.

After one has decided which of the breeds he wishes to keep, be sure to get large healthy stock from which to breed, the best is none too good and will amply repay for the first extra cost, and let me say turkeys will not bear inbreeding.

I set my turkey eggs (the first laying) under chicken hens of the quiet Asiatic breeds, they take much better care of the young poults than the natural mother. The second laying I let the turkey mother have, I remove the poults from the nest as soon as well dry after hatching, put in a dry box with hen giving no food for 24 hours or more, then give hard boiled eggs and clean water with some fine sand scattered in box; do not feed soaked bread or sloppy food, be sure to keep the little fellows dry, warm and free from lice. This sounds easy, but it requires eternal vigilance with some reliable mild louse killer before hatching, and again when the poults are a few days old, do not grease little turkeys, it will kill them. After they are several days old give green dandelions and other green feeds along with each meal.

I make wire yards with small well lighted houses for the turkeys, keeping away from chickens and old turkeys. After they are six weeks old they are hardy and can be let go where they please.

They are great foragers and will almost make their living gleaning barvest fields and meadows until snow comes, but it is a good plan to feed always in the evening as it brings them home to roost.

We find corn a good feed for fattening for market, and a nice fat "gobbler" will bring a nice sum at Thanksgiving or Christmas.—Progressive Poultry Journal.
