NAME YOUR FARM

Throughout the United States there are many farms that are not named, and the Courier believes that it is just as important that the farms should be named as it is important that the various business houses are named. Give your farm a name. Fill out the coupon, and send it to the Oregon City Courier, and your farm name will be placed on the Courier Registered list of Farms. The name sent in will be published together with the name of the proprietor. Use coupon below.

EASTERNERS ARE SEEKING HOMES

Secretary Davis of Publicity Department Receiving Letters from Prospective Tenants

Eastern correspondents who are coming here are asking me for houses to rent. From time to time they come to my office with some request. In some instances have gone elsewhere because there was nothing available. Will agents and owners furnish lists of what they have? Would suggest that those able to do so should build houses to rent, as demand for them is great. S. P. Davis, manager of the publicity department, has given us the foregoing information.

Death of Dumb Animals' Friend

Friday, Nov. 5, occurred the death of a prominent man, W. T. Shanahan, aged 74 years, organizer of The Oregon Humane Society and corresponding secretary from its birth, a resident of Portland for 43 years. All of his life Mr. Shanahan demonstrated a zealous interest in the treatment of dumb animals, and with a view to bettering the conditions of animals in Oregon, he organized the Oregon Humane Society, and was elected its corresponding secretary. Since that time he has been instrumental in the passage of laws protecting dumb animals from the savage treatment of ill-temperamented and in the vigorous prosecution of offenders of that law. He was active in his work until a few hours of his death.

Ministers Interested in Forestry

A large number of ministers attended the sessions of the summer school at the Massachusetts Agricultural College this year, not with the purpose of becoming farmers, but that they might understand the problems of the families which they are striving to give religious instructions. They received lectures on rural sociology, and instructors taught them the theory and practice of forestry, dairying, greenhouse management and similar subjects.

At The Bungalow

This week Friday and Saturday nights, with a special price matinee Saturday, will appear at the Bungalow, the favorite comedian, John E. Young in the musical comedy "Lo," an is the most pretentious and costly musical organization ever sent out from Chicago. The production which the Harry Askin Company has been rehearsing for the past two months at the Grand Opera House, will make a short tour of the Northwest, and return to the Grand for a long run.

WILHOIT

Ray Wyland is busy building an addition on his barn. Mrs. Emma Vorhies, who had the misfortune to fall and severely sprain her ankle sometime ago, we are glad to report is slowly improving. Bert Wade is busy building fences. Our school has been temporarily closed on account of diphtheria in the neighborhood. Frank Itan, an old resident of this section has sold out and contemplates moving to Oregon City in the near future. Real estate is rapidly changing hands in this section at good prices. Come one, come all. There is room for lots more. The best orchard land in the Northwest can be bought here from $15 to $40 per acre. The famous Hood and Rogue river valleys not excepted as the writer is personally acquainted with these valleys. Miss Connie Barstow, who has been suffering from an attack of diphtheria, is slowly improving. Dr. Wrightman of Silverton attending.

"Fairmount" Is Selected

Editor Courier: Seeing the advantage of the idea of naming the farms of Clackamas county, we have named our farm "Fairmount Farm" for two reasons: First because all of our children were born near Fairmount Park in Philadelphia, and the name for that reason holds many pleasant memories for us; second because our house is situated on the top of a picturesque little knoll, and affords us a fine view of the surrounding country. Our farm, which consists of 80 acres, is located at Shubel. We raise chickens and small fruit.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. G. H. KIRBYSON,
Oregon City, Ore., R. F. D. No. 3.

"South End Plant and Berry Farm"

A. H. Finnigan has named his farm "South End Plant and Berry Farm." He has eight acres planted to strawberries—the most delicious large strawberries grown in Clackamas County. Mr. Finnigan is a popular berry raiser and is very successful in this line of fruit raising. Mr. Finnigan has a large sign in front of his premises that reads: "South End Plant and Berry Farm."

"Sterling Farm" Named

G. W. Smith, one of Mulino's prominent and prosperous farmers, was in this city Monday, and informed us he had named his farm "Sterling Farm," which is very appropriate, as it is considered among the best in that fertile region. Mr. Smith's address is Mulino, R. F. D. No. 1.

Tungsten Ore in Arizona

About 12 miles south by a little east of Benson, Cochise county, Ariz., in the Whetstone Mountains, an attempt has been made to mine wolframite, the tungstate of manganese and iron, from deposits that are thought to be unlike anything heretofore described in the literature of ore deposits. The mineral occurs in a light-colored granite that is intrusive in mica schist and limestone, being found near the contact of granite and schist and in a tongue of granite 60 or 70 feet long which runs out into the schist. Most of it is in segregations in the granite similar to hornblende and biotite segregations in granite at many other places. The ore appears to be an original constituent of the granite. The deposit was formerly worked and a few tons of ore were taken out and shipped. It is said that as mined and hand-picked the ore averaged 10 per cent of tungstic trioxide. No work has been done here for the last two or three years, and the deposit is of interest mainly because of the peculiar occurrence of the mineral. A short paper describing this deposit, by Frank L. Hess, appears in Bulletin 380 of the United States Geological Survey, a copy of which may be obtained on application to the Director, Washington, D. C.
