Logan Defeated

Last Sunday the Shubel and Logan baseball teams crossed bats on the Logan field in the best game of the season, in which Logan took a fall out of the Shubel aggregation to the tune of 5 to 4. It was an exciting game in which both teams played good ball but Shubel couldn't hold the Logan hitters down when they started after Hart in the ninth, while Frederick and Anderson kept the hits scattered. In the ninth inning with the score 4 to 3 in favor of Shubel, Logan pounded Hart all over the field and piled on three runs and won the game. During this inning the Shubel players were always where the ball wasn't, or the score might have been different. Hart struck out fifteen men. Frederick fanned seven and Anderson three. Frederick touched up Hart for a triple, a double and a single and E. M. Gerber hit three times for two singles and a double.

The lineup was as follows:
Logan: Shubel, Hart, Sager, E. M. Gerber, 1b, Staben, 2b, H. Kohl, 3b, Sherman, 4b, Anderson, Frederick, 5b, Vonderake, 6b, L. Kohl, 7b, Thomas, 8b, W. Kirchman, 9b, Shelley, Umpire, H. Swales.
Sunday, May 15, Logan will play Springfield on the latter's ground.

THE DEAD SEA.

Old Popular Beliefs About It That Are Not Founded on Fact.

The Dead sea is a remarkable lake, forty-six miles long and from five to nine miles wide, situated in the south-east of Palestine and known from the time of Jerome (340-420 A. D.) as the "Dead" sea, because no fish of any kind have ever been found in its waters. Its surface, which is lower than that of any other body of water known, is 1,292 feet below the level of the Mediterranean. At its northern end it has a depth of about 1,300 feet, while the water at the southern extremity is only from three to twelve feet deep.

The Dead sea is fed by the Jordan from the north, but has no outlet, the water being apparently carried off by evaporation. The water of the Dead sea contains a large amount of the salts of magnesium and soda; as a consequence its specific gravity is high, and bathers float in it with ease.

The popular notions that the Dead sea exhales noxious vapors and that birds cannot fly over its surface and remain unharmed are not founded on fact.

According to tradition, Sodom and Gomorrah, "the cities of the plain," stood on the site now occupied by the Dead sea. This view, however, is no longer entertained, and it is now considered certain that the Dead sea existed in its present state during the days of Abraham and even much earlier.—New York American.

The Oldest Death Sentence.

The oldest death sentence extant is found in the Amherst papyrus containing the trials of state criminals in Egypt, about 1300 B. C. The criminal in this case was found guilty of magic, which his judges state "was worthy of death, which he carried out, and he killed himself," apparently by stabbing, as in the Japanese harakiri, which is also of very ancient origin.

Among less civilized peoples drowning would seem to have been the earliest method of legal punishment, for about 450 B. C. the Britons killed their criminals by throwing them into a quagmire. Of other than capital punishments the oldest recorded comes from Chaldea, where it was enacted some 6,000 years ago that when any one maimed a slave "the hand that thus offended should pay him each day a measure of corn."

Road Builder Valuable Citizen. No community can have a more valuable citizen than he who understands the theory of road building and who is at the same time a practical road builder and an enthusiast on the subject.

"I hear that Downly has retired from business."

"Not quite right. Business retired from him."

Same Thing. Willis—Are you going to take your lawsuit to a higher court? Gillis—No. We have agreed to just double the fees in this one instead.—Puck.
