TELEPHONE COMPANIES WILL HANDLE NIGHT MESSAGES

Western Union Arranges to Deliver Night Messages by Telephone in Washington and Oregon

Effective on January 1st, 1911, arrangements have been made to extend to every telephone subscriber of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company the privilege of sending and receiving Western Union telegrams by telephone. It has been the practice for some time for the Western Union Telegraph Company to handle telegrams in the larger cities by telephone to a large extent as practicable, but with the introduction of this new plan it is intended to give subscribers of telephones at outlying points and those for whom the subscribers wish to pay the privilege of handling telegrams by telephone. The telephones in a systematic and up-to-date manner which will allow persons who desire to avail themselves of this service a very much greater latitude than has heretofore been given and a much more satisfactory and complete service will be performed in connection with the arrangements. The Western Union Telegraph Company has established a number of new all night telegraph offices on the Pacific coast and within the states of Washington and Oregon as a central point, and it is their purpose to handle telegrams to territory surrounding each office. It is the intention, within a certain area, to have these all-night offices handle telegrams which are destined to offices that have been closed for the night. That is: If a telegram is addressed to a person who is a subscriber to a telephone at some point within a limited distance of the Western Union all-night office, such party will be notified that a telegram has been received for him and the city or town from which this telegram originated will be stated. Then if he desires to pay the charge forwarded to him by telephone, it will be done with the usual telephone rates added.

The Doctor's First Question

"How are your bowels?" This is generally the first question the doctor asks. He knows what a sluggish liver means. He knows what a long list of distressing complaints result from constipation. He knows that headaches, bilious attacks, indigestion, impure blood, and general debility are often promptly relieved by a good liver pill. We wish you would talk with your own doctor about this subject. Ask him at the same time if he approves of Ayer's Pills. Do not be slow.
