They will cut down a big tree, spread slime over the fresh cut and draw the limb under water for their winter food. Specimens of their work can be seen in the Courier window.

The Census Fiasco.

That the census of Oregon City is far from being correct the registered voters at the last election conclusively demonstrates. At the election last fall, which was not very hotly contested, the registration was at least 150 short. The actual registration last fall was 1007, and there is no doubt but that a full registration would give us at least 1300 votes. At the usual multiple of one inhabitant for every five and a half voters that would mean a population for Oregon City proper of 6600, which is about correct.

Forest Service Needs Men

The U. S. Civil Service Commission announces an examination on March 1 and 2, 1911, for the position of forest clerk (male), for filling vacancies in that position in the forest service at salaries ranging from $1100 to 1300 per annum. A recent examination failed to secure sufficient eligibles to meet the needs of the service and all persons interested are urged to make application for and take this examination. A knowledge of bookkeeping, stenography and typewriting is required. For application blank and full information in regard to this examination address the Secretary of the Eleventh Civil Service District, Federal Building, Seattle, Washington, or the commission's local representative at the postoffice in this city.

The Will of Capt. Graham

The will of the estate of $15,000 of the late Capt. John M. Graham was filed Friday, which reads as follows: To Julia Haskell, $50 a month as long as she remains single, until estate is fully administered and ready for distribution and after that, if she remains unmarried, the sum of $6000, also some household furniture, for her faithful services to himself and wife. To John N. Graham he leaves the old family clock and portraits to be divided among the children. To the sons Arthur W., Alden B., and John N. and his daughters, Jessie Fuchs, Mercy W. Anderson and Anna May Morrill, share and share alike of all the estate, real and personal property of whatever kind. He nominates and appoints Alden B. Graham, Arthur Graham, Will Anderson, and R. D. Morrill as trustees to manage and dispose of said estate.

He Was Not Enumerated

Oregon City Oregon, Jan. 18, 1911.
Editor Courier: The census bureau credits our city with a population of 4287. I know it is 4288. I never managed to catch a glimpse of an enumerator, although I sent word several times by parties who said they knew them that I was ready to stand up and be counted. It was an Irishman who reported that he had counted all the pigs but one little one which ran around so that he could not count him. That excuse will hardly apply to me, as I was always in my office except on Sunday. The omission of one, of course, is an insignificant affair, but the population is composed of units and I am probably the representative of a large number of such omissions. W. O. SCHULTZE.
