

OREGON NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Events Occurring Throughout the State During the Past Week.

Young Wife Asks $150,000.
Oregon City.—Cleta Pearl Allsky, wife of Charles W. Allsky, both of whom are suing for divorce, has filed suit for $150,000 damages against her husband's parents, Charles A. Allsky and Mrs. Caroline Allsky. The plaintiff, who is a sister of Maybelle Gilman Corey, alleges that her husband's affections were alienated by his parents.

Fifth Annual Apple Fair at Albany.
Albany.—Active preparations are being made for the Fifth Annual Apple Fair, which will be held in this city November 8 to 10. The association is sending out printed premium lists to all the apple-growers of the Willamette Valley, accompanied by letters soliciting exhibits for the event.

Commission Plan Sought.
Astoria.—Petitions signed by 214 registered voters asking that the new charter providing for the establishment of a commission form of government be submitted to a vote of the people at a special election on Wednesday, December 13, were filed in the auditor's office.

SELL APPLES BY WIRE
Hood River Sells to Hamburg by Cable Communication.

Hood River.—Unprecedented in the history of the Hood River Apple Growers' Union was the sale of a number of carloads of extra fancy apples to buyers in Germany. The method previously used by European fruit men has been to secure the shipments on consignment. However, the recent sales were made by cable communications direct to Hamburg. The sales were made entirely on the reputation of the union pack.

The great bulk of the Hood River Valley product will be marketed this season west of the Rocky Mountains, because the large crop of local product in the East and Middle West prevents the union from securing satisfactory prices in the eastern markets. The seasons' crop will be very much shorter than the estimates made by the growers early in the season.

Experts View Site for Canal.
Oregon City.—Governor West, Secretary of State Olcott and State Treasurer Kay, who compose the state canal commission, and Major McIndoe inspected the locks and canal on the West Side and the proposed routes for the East Side canal and locks.

Forty Boosters to Attend.
Heppner.—Forty members of the local boosters' club of this city attended the Tri-County Development League convention held in Arlington October 31 and November 1. The counties involved are Morrow, Gilliam and Sherman.

ELECTION MAY NOT BE VALID
State Institutions Not in City, is Contention.

Salem.—To test the validity of a special city election held several months ago, defeat of which might result in the State Asylum for the Insane and the State Penitentiary being considered outside the city limits, Attorney W. P. Lord, Jr., has in the circuit court a case which involves the right of state employees to vote at certain elections and to determine whether the annexation of certain districts is legal.

Prior to the last census a special election was held for the purpose of taking the asylum and penitentiary and contiguous districts into the city in order to swell the sum total of the population by 5000 people. Attorney Lord sets up the contention that every voter in the district to be annexed who voted in favor of the annexation was a state employee working at the asylum.

Jury Acquits Robinson.
Prineville.—After standing for hours balanced between acquittal and a verdict of second-degree murder, the jury in the case of the State against Ernest Robinson, charged with the murder of Louis McAllister, acquitted the prisoner.

Street is City Dance Floor.
Springfield.—A celebration was held in Springfield in honor of the completion of the paving on Main street. The celebration consisted of a masquerade dance on the new pavement.

Bay Ocean Port is Voted.
Tillamook.—The special election for the purpose of submitting the question of creating a port at Bay Ocean was carried by a majority of 15 votes.

A Soldier's Reply.
A soldier of Marshal Sax's army, being discovered in a theft, was condemned to be hanged. What he had stolen might be worth 5 shillings. The marshal, meeting him as he was being led to execution, said to him, "What a miserable fool you were to risk your life for 5 shillings!"

"General," replied the soldier, "I have risked it every day for my pay, fivepence." This repartee saved his life.

SAILING THE AIR.

How It Feels to Soar Aloft in a Balloon or Aeroplane.

ALL SENSE OF HEIGHT LOST.

Consequently There is No Feeling of Dizziness or Giddiness, and After Raising a Few Hundred Feet There is No Sensation of Speed.

Comparatively few persons can look down from a great height without a creepy sensation running through the nerves and churning down the spine, and one would naturally think these unpleasant symptoms would be intensified if one were to rise several hundreds of feet in the air in a flying machine. But that idea is a mistake, according to Mr. Charles C. Turner in an article in the Pall Mall Magazine, in which he tells how beginners are taught the use of the aeroplane and describes the sensations of flight. He says:

"The manner in which a course of flight lessons begins depends chiefly on the weather. If it is fine and calm a pupil is at once taken out for passenger flights, sitting behind the teacher or beside him, according to the type of machine, and having nothing to think about except the novelty of his experiences and of the new aspect in which he sees familiar things. "His first flight is a great event in the career of the pupil, and when it is over he is anxious for the next. His estimate of the difficulties that lie before him is more modest, and he is ready to beseege his instructor with questions. He climbed into the passenger's seat and gripped the stanchions with both hands. He need not have gripped them quite so hard, for he soon found that the motion of the machine was not in the least disturbing.

"To start it a mechanic stood behind the main planes and gave the propeller a turn, and suddenly the engine was giving out a tremendous roar and making the machine vibrate. Other mechanics were holding on to the tail booms to prevent the aeroplane from shooting forward before the pilot was ready.

"But almost immediately the passenger observed the pilot hold up one hand as a signal, and on the instant the machine plunged forward over the ground like a swift motorcar. Before he had time to observe and note his feelings the sensations had changed. The machine was traveling forward with perfect smoothness, the noise of the engine had curiously softened down, the ground no longer raced beneath the machine, and he realized that he was flying and that already he was twenty, forty, fifty feet above the ground.

"Flying has been compared to many things, but in truth no comparison is good. Perhaps I may correct one or two common but false notions concerning it.

"There is no sense of traveling at a great height. There is not the slightest danger of giddiness. To me this gave no surprise, for, as every balloonist knows, it matters not whether he looks down from 20 or 2,000 feet—the sensation of height is absent.

"To take my own case, I cannot look down a 100 foot cliff for many seconds before feeling unsafe, but I can look down from a balloon that is two miles above ground and can gaze at the scene below for half an hour without a qualm. It is the experience of every aeronaut.

"It is impossible also with reasonable accuracy without the aid of an aneroid to estimate one's height. You see trees far below you, and if you are high enough they appear to be mere bushes, but you cannot tell whether you are 400 feet up or 700.

"Again, the sense of speed is almost entirely lost when you have attained a height of 500 or 400 feet. The ground passes below you very slowly, while if you get up to 800 or 1,000 feet it is only by steadily watching the ground that you perceive that you are moving. Yet all the while there is that steady gale of wind upon the face that informs you of your speed.

"In descending a pupil notices that the speed of the ground rapidly accelerates. The chances are that he cannot distinguish the moment when the landing wheels again come into contact with the earth. The machine moves forward over the ground until its momentum is exhausted, and he and the pilot then descend from their seats."

The Doctor's Sin of Omission.
Dorman in his "Primitive Superstitions" tells of an Indian who had been badly hurt by a grizzly bear. The medicine man prescribed a mixture of rattlesnakes' heads, wornout moccasins and chewing tobacco, seasoned with petroleum and red pepper, of which the patient was ordered to take a pint every half hour. "He was a brave man, but he died with the utmost expedition," and at the trial inquest it was agreed that the remedy was faultless, but that death was due to the doctor's omitting to dance and yell.

Which is Yours?
The remuneration received for services rendered has many names. The laborer calls it "pay," the skilled mechanic "wages," the city clerk "salary," the banker "income," a lawyer "fees" and a burglar "swag."—London Answers.

JOSEPH PULTZER IS DEAD

Blind Editor of New York World Suddenly Stricken.

Charleston, S. C.—Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World and the St. Louis Post Dispatch, died Sunday aboard his yacht, the Liberty, in Charleston Harbor.

The immediate cause of Mr. Pulitzer's death was heart failure. He had been in ill health for several days, but until a few hours before the end none of those around him suspected the gravity of his condition.

Mrs. Pulitzer arrived from New York and reached the yacht shortly before her husband died. At his bedside when the end came also was his youngest son, Herbert, who has been cruising with his father.

Lumber Mills to Close Thirty Days.

Seattle.—Lumber mills in Oregon and Washington will close for 30 days, commencing December 15, in an effort of the manufacturers to cut down the supply of lumber going into the market, and thereby bring about a rise in prices. This was decided by a resolution adopted by the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association, which met here.

Dam Builders Left Out Bedrock Key.

Olean, N. Y.—Alexander McKim of New York, who was sent to Austin, Pa., to report on the cause of the breaking of the dam, has reported that the "bedrock key," specified in the plans, was not installed when the dam was built. "It was an appalling mistake," reads the report.

AUTHOR'S VENTURE IN MINES PROBED

New York.—Turning from the writing of real literature, as he has done on occasions, to the writing of mining prospectuses for companies to which he lent the weight of a great family name, Julian Hawthorne is being investigated, together with his associates, by the Federal authorities. Millions of shares of stock in "Hawthorne" enterprises are said to have been sold to school teachers, clerks, widows and other persons of moderate or even small means throughout the New England States, where there is great power in the name Hawthorne. The United States officers for some reason are pushing the case with more than usual vigor. Involved with Hawthorne in the inquiry are Jas. B. Hanna, nephew of Mark Hanna; Dr. William J. Morton, son of the discoverer of ether, and Josiah Quincy, ex-mayor of Boston.

Advice to Those Who Would Buy and Sell on Margin.

"A broker once told me that there was one rule which he would give if he dared to his customers to guide them in selecting stocks for trading purposes. 'Take a piece of chewing gum; reduce it to an adhesive condition, mold it into a form convenient for throwing; throw it at the board. Buy or sell the stock indicated by the spot on the board to which it adheres. Go to Europe for three months.' By following this advice, he said, the customer would have a chance—not much of a chance, it is true, but some chance. If however he reads the financial page of the newspaper and listens to the gossip in the brokers' offices, he has not even the gambler's chance, since he will be doing exactly what the powers back of the market want him to do in order that they may as quickly as possible get his principal before it is exhausted by the constant nibbling of the broker.

"A well to do man showed his ingenuite bride a check for $1,800. 'Do you see this check? Now with this I'm going to buy sugar. Sugar is going up, and I'll give you the profits.' Sugar went down, and he lost his $1,800. The lady asked for an accounting. 'My dear, sugar went down. The money is lost.' 'And you haven't even any sugar?' she asked plaintively. 'Not even any sugar?'

"As a means of making money speculating on margin is worthless; as a means to lose and ruin it has no rivals. With the large number of sound investments constantly offered by banking houses to the public on terms which offer a reasonable chance of increasing value, together with security of principal and income, it should no longer be necessary for men and women to put their savings into margins."—Edward Sherwood Meade in Lippincott's.

His Early Promise.
"Does my father," inquired the parent, "seem to have a natural bent in any one direction?"
"Yes, sir," said the teacher. "He gives every indication of being a captain of industry some day. He gets the other boys to do all his work for him."—Chicago Tribune.
