

CONSULT A Qualified Optician

It is not so long ago that the people were content to choose glasses in much the same way they would buy boots at the "bargain counter," or some new "cure-all" from the touring quack on Main street.

But the eyesight is too precious to experiment with—and to-day most people realize it.

If you have an eye trouble consult our qualified Optician.

He will give you expert examination and precisely the help you need.

Miss Buchegger is an experienced book typewriter operator. Her health has much improved since taking a much needed rest.

Representative F. M. Gill of Estacada will endeavor to repeal the bill regarding cattle running at large, and leave the question to be settled by the precincts. Mr. Gill has the right idea. Oregon City has no more business voting on a stock regulation for Molalla than has that town to vote on our municipal matters. This stock question is a matter for each locality, and each locality has its own precincts prohibition of stock running at large is a positive hardship, in other precincts a splendid reform. Each locality should settle this matter for itself.

Imports Fine Chickens

Elmer E. Dixon receives Two Fancy Coops from England

Elmer E. Dixon, one of the prominent poultry fanciers of the state, received on Saturday two cords of Silver Campinnes from Great Britain. The birds were in excellent condition after traveling such a distance.

The breed is new in this country, but according to the noted authority, Harrison Weir, who says that by tradition, they date back as far as 1296, the name of Campinnes being derived from the Plain Campinnes, in Belgium, where they were found.

Mr. Dixon, who is a member of the American Poultry Association and a licensed poultry judge, and president of the Pacific Coast Campinnes club, recently organized. He is not only importer of this famous breed of chickens, but a breeder as well, and has many of these beautiful birds at his home in this city.

The Silver Campinnes are single comb, and in colorings of the birds are of a silvery white ground overlaid by markings or barring of black, having a rich green sheen, except the neck hackle, which is a silvery white without barring. Not only is this breed of chickens good for raising, but excellent for their table qualities.

Mr. Dixon returned a few days ago from Albany, where he was judge of the poultry show, and has also been honored as a judge of the Marion County poultry show to be held in Salem January 14th to 18th.

POULTRY SHOW A BIG SUCCESS

SPLENDID LIST OF HANDSOME BIRDS SHOWN.

Three Day Show is Decided on for the Exhibition Next Year

The Second Annual Poultry Show, given by the Clackamas County Poultry association, was held at the Armory in this city, on Friday and Saturday, January 4, 5 and 6, and was the most successful show given by the association. There were over 300 birds exhibited besides ducks and Belgian hares and rabbits.

The judging took place on Friday morning after the show commenced, the judges being J. C. Murray of Portland and C. D. Minton, secretary of the Portland Poultry Association, and who was judge of the poultry exhibit at the recent Clackamas county fair. Mr. J. Lazelle, who was manager of the show last year, acted in that capacity this year, and much credit is due him for the success of the affair. Mr. Lazelle has been working hard for the past month arranging with poultrymen of the county to enter their birds for the exhibit, and already he is arranging for a better and larger show next year. The dates for 1914 will be three days instead of two, as was had this year.

The superintendent of the show for both days, was Fred Lindley, one of the well-known residents of Clackamas county, whose home is near Beaver Creek. Mr. Lindley looked after the wants of poultry in his care, and there was nothing lacking in the way of food and cleanliness of the coops in which the birds were kept.

Some of the finest birds raised in Multnomah and Clackamas counties were exhibited, there being many choice birds. Among them might be mentioned the tiny independent Bantam cock, clear on through all breeds of chicken, up to the big Buff Orpington. The White Leghorns had the appearance of just coming from a bath tub, and were spotless. The cocks crowed from early in the morning until late at night, and the men who remained at the Armory on watch, were unable to sleep after 3:30 in the morning.

Among the chickens attracting attention was the pullet raised by Mrs. George C. Heidel, an exhibitor at Concord. This bird was hatched in July and laid her first egg before Thanksgiving, and has continued to keep up her record ever since. She is a cross breed of the Buff Leghorn and the Orpington breeds, and has been officially dubbed by Geo. C. Brownell as "Miss Orpington."

It was the bird's first appearance in society, but she proved the queen of the poultry show. Mrs. Brownell also had some of her choicest Orpingtons on exhibit, and was awarded one first and two second prizes.

The Bearded Buff Polish chickens, with their pompadour, arranged in latest fashion, owned and exhibited by M. G. Christensen, were awarded first prize. They were among the attractive chickens of the show, and were also his game chickens of the Hamburg breed. Mr. Christensen will enter some of his birds at the Marion county poultry show this month.

No doubt some of the prominent poultry breeders of the state reside at Portland, for the birds from that place were a big attraction at the show here. This year he was awarded first prize on cock, second and second on hen, and third on pullet, all in the Barred Rock breed; also first prize for best pen in show.

Fred Daugherty, a well known Molalla poultry fancier had some of his fine barred Plymouth Rocks on exhibit, being awarded first prize on hen and first and second on plets; third on cockrell and second on pen.

M. J. Lazelle carried off the sweepstakes with his Indian Runner ducks.

C. B. Byck of Oregon City, who does poultry as a sideline, had a very fine exhibit, and carried off several ribbons. R. L. Badger of Beaver Creek also carried away honors on his display of Buff Orpingtons and Leghorns.

C. H. Perron of Oregon City had a display of Rhode Island Rose Comb birds. Alton Shewman was probably the youngest poultryman, having exhibits. Although his birds had not been prepared for exhibit, nevertheless they carried off some of the prizes, winning second on White Wyandotte pullets, third on Rhode Island Reds, and second on White Leghorns.

Mrs. John Robbins, J. W. Gole, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Plank of Woodburn, F. E. Fisher of Fishersdale, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kiel, of Aurora, and many others had birds on exhibit that attracted much attention.

Lectures were given by the head of the O. A. C. poultry department afternoon and evening, on poultry breeding and raising. The business firms of Oregon City and Portland, made the list of generous prizes possible.

Saturday afternoon the election of officers for the next year was held. President, Fred G. Daugherty of Molalla; vice-president, Dr. M. C. Strickland, Oregon City; secretary and treasurer, M. J. Lazelle, Oregon City. Elmer Dixon of Oregon City and R. S. Goe of Canby were named directors.

Oregon City People Wed.

The marriage of Miss Esabelle Dugger of this city and Mr. George Allgeier, who recently arrived in this city from Mountain Grove, Mo., was solemnized at the Dugger home on High Street Sunday afternoon. The marriage ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace W. H. H. Sampson, and was witnessed by about 30 friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride wore a cream colored serge gown and carried pink carnations. She was attended by her sister, Miss Etha Dugger, Joseph Allgeier, brother of the bridegroom was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served. The rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers and evergreens. Many beautiful wedding presents were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Allgeier will leave this week for their future home at Mountain Grove, Mo. Allgeier is engaged in farming, owning one of the largest ranches of that locality.

The Willamette Club have issued invitations to the first dancing party of the series of 1913. The affair promises to be a most enjoyable one, and will be given in Busch hall on January 16. Fox orchestra of Portland will furnish the music for the occasion. Refreshments will be served during the evening. The committee in charge is composed of Harry E. Draper, M. D. Latonrette and Dr. Clyde Mount.

The announcement early this week of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Roos, eldest daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Roos to Mr. R. V. D. Johnston, of New York City, but who for the last twelve months has been staying in Oregon City, came as a surprise to many friends of the couple.

The wedding which was performed by the Rev. John Webber of Hillsboro, took place in June of last year, but for personal reasons it was arranged not to make announcement until the new year.

Karl Heidel of Hillsboro, and his sister, Miss Heidel, attended the ceremony as witnesses. The bride is an accomplished musician, and has many friends in New York City, as well as throughout her own city and county.

The groom is a mining engineer and is well known in musical and newspaper circles.

Obituary.

Mrs. Ernestine Dietrich, wife of F. L. Dietrich, died Friday morning, January 3, at the family home at Eldorado, at the age of 70 years.

Mrs. Dietrich was born Freiberg, Saxony, 1842, and united in marriage in 1867. She arrived in America in 1879 from Germany, and lived at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, until 1881, when she moved with her family on a homestead in the northern part of Wisconsin, where the family was surrounded by Indians, these being their only neighbors, and they had to conquer many hardships at that time. Over a trail they carried their provisions strapped to their backs, and it was many years before others arrived and helped to build a road. Mrs. Dietrich and her family succeeded in clearing a large farm, but decided to come to Oregon arriving here January 1910, and bought a farm at Eldorado, where Mrs. Dietrich lived until her death. During her residence at Eldorado Mrs. Dietrich made many friends, who deeply sympathize with her family.

Mrs. Dietrich is survived by her husband, F. L. Dietrich of Eldorado; two daughters, Mrs. Carl Schmeiser, and Mrs. Herman Fisher of Carus; two sons, Herman and Erich Dietrich of Eldorado. She is also survived by 14 grandchildren.

The funeral services were conducted on Sunday, January 5th, the interment being at New Era. Many friends of the family attended the services, and many beautiful flowers covered the casket.
