MRS. LOUIS HECKMAN

Death of a Well Known and Esteemed Resident of Oregon City

Mrs. Erma Emoline Heckman, wife of Louis Heckman, who is secretary of the Northwest Association in this city, died at the family home on Center street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets on Friday evening, January 3, of typhoid fever, and the remains were taken to Eugene, her former home, the following afternoon.

The funeral services, which were largely attended by the friends and former schoolmates, were held at the Gordon undertaking establishment, Rev. McCallum, pastor of the First Christian church officiating. The services were largely attended. Students from the University of Oregon, former schoolmates of Mrs. Heckman, acted as pallbearers. Interment was made in Eugene cemetery.

Mrs. Heckman's maiden name was Erma Emoline Elliott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott, well-known residents of Eugene. She was born October 8, 1891, at Clarion, Wright County, Iowa. In July 1906 she moved to Portland, Oregon, with her parents, where she attended high school and also took up the study of music and oratorical work. In 1908 Mrs. Heckman moved from Portland and accompanied her parents to Eugene, where she was a student at the University of Oregon, attending a special course in music, and at the time of her death was an accomplished musician.

Erma Emoline Elliott was united in marriage to Louis Heckman at Bay Ocean, Oregon, August 18, 1910, and after residing in Portland for about a year, moved to Oregon City, where she has since made her home.

She is survived by her husband, Louis Heckman, of this city, a little daughter, Consuelo Falote, aged 14 months, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott of Eugene and three brothers, Ralph, Ross and Wayne.

Mrs. Heckman left a host of friends in Oregon City who deeply mourn her loss.

GUS WISHART.

The funeral services of the late Gus Wishart, who died at his home on Seventh and John Adams street in this city on Wednesday evening, January 1, were held from the Baptist church, Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Rev. Miliken officiated, interment was in Mountain View cemetery, where the remains were laid to rest beside those of his son, James, who died in this city some time ago. Many friends of the family attended the services.

Mr. Wishart was born in New York, August 14, 1837, and was the son of the late James and Joyce Anne Wishart. Mr. Wishart, after leaving New York, moved to Wisconsin. In 1876 he moved to Oregon first making his home in this city, and shortly afterwards purchasing a farm about two miles out from town, in the vicinity of Maple Lane. After following farming he disposed of his land at Maple Lane and returned to Oregon City, where he engaged in the grocery business for several years, and afterwards entered the contracting business. For several years Mr. Wishart has retired from business owing to poor health. He was stricken with paralysis several weeks ago, and never rallied from the stroke.

Mr. Wishart, by his kind disposition, had won many friends among the young as well as the old. His illness and death will be keenly felt by his many old-time friends here. He was a member of the Baptist church for many years, affiliating with that denomination at his death. Mr. Wishart is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Henrietta Kershaw of this city; two sons, Harley Wishart of this city and Ira Wishart, mayor of Toledo, Oregon; Mrs. Edith A. Thomas, of Portland; Mrs. May Kaser, of Portland. Deceased leaves two sisters, four brothers, and three grandchildren to mourn his demise.

OREGON CITY LOCALS.

Mrs. Crook, of Mulino, was in this city on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Turner were in Portland on business Saturday.

Miss Duns, residing on 8th and Madison Sts., is very ill with typhoid fever.

J. Schmidt, of Eldorado, was in Oregon City to transact business on Wednesday.

Fred Shafer, a prominent sawmill man at Molalla, was in this city on business Thursday.

Mrs. J. L. Swafford, who has been very ill, is improving at her home on 8th St. and Madison.

The grand jury is expected to make its report Friday of this week. There have been several important cases before it for consideration.

Louis Heckman returned to Oregon City from Eugene Monday having taken the remains of his wife to that place for burial on Saturday.

Miss Myrtle Parker was the hostess of the C. P. H. D. Club at her home on Fourteenth and Main streets on Monday evening. Cards and needlework were the features of the evening. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Fannie Bowers from Ohio, but who is for the present making her home in Woodburn, passed thru Oregon City on Monday, on her way home from Portland, being in attendance at a meeting held by the Church of God. She was accompanied by Mrs. S. Straw, also of Woodburn, who also attended the meeting.

The government canal, the S. P. development work on the west side, the Willamette Paper Co.'s addition of 150 houses to the city, the Moody Land Co.'s projects and the natural big growth of the city certainly ought to make Oregon City one of the liveliest places in Oregon for a year or two to come—and it will be.

WANTED—HER BROTHER.

After fifty-two years a sister advertises for a brother to whom she wants to be "reunited before she dies."

The woman is Mrs. Gesina Dohrman of New York City, who asks information concerning her brother, Johann Stannau, who disappeared in 1860.

The advertisement represents the effort of a sister to heal a wound now more than a half century old.

In 1860 the Stannau family lived in Germany. Young Stannau, then in the early twenties, became involved in some sort of a scrape. Leaving the fatherland in the dead of the night, he asked his sister, now Mrs. Dohrman, to go with him to the station.

But she—

Affronted because of the trouble in which the brother was involved and distressed by the escapade, turned away from him and refused to go. She has not heard from him since that night.

And now—

The years have come and gone and along with them the hope that she might meet her brother or hear from him. Failing in this, she holds out the sisterly olive branch in her solicitous advertisement.

Mrs. Dohrman had Johann Stannau, her brother?

One of the most beautiful things in nature is the close relation of brother and sister. Children of the same father and mother, they are alike and yet different.

It is the law of heredity—unity in diversity.

While one of the children may inherit more of one parent's disposition than the other, yet if you blend the two dispositions you will have neither the disposition of the father nor of the mother.

Brother and sister are the sum of the father and mother and plus or minus—

Because—

A long line of ancestry is behind them.

Like or unlike, the relation is a sacred kinship. Blood is thicker than water. The tie that binds them is the tie that tugs at the heartstrings.

And yet—

Sadly it must be written, the tie is often broken by neglect or carelessness. The members of the family are scattered and letters are infrequent.

Sometimes—adds still—the relation is severed by variance or rupture.

Other sisters—and brothers—might well emulate the effort this German woman makes to find and reconcile her brother.

MATTERS BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Mr. Horton held that the paving company had such a chemist on the job all the time, and the expense would be unnecessary. The matter was tabled.

Mr. Toozee urged that the parks be beautified and named, and he suggested that the Seventh street park be called the Library park, and the Twelfth street the Fir-wood park. The council asked that the newspapers of the city ask the people to suggest names and present them to Recorder Slipp before next Wednesday night.

Councilman Beard asked that some action be taken at once to remedy the condition of the horse house at Mountain View which was dangerous and unfit for the purpose. A committee will investigate and report Wednesday.

A CRITIC FROM MARS

Suppose

Suppose a friendly critic from the planet Mars should some day drop down on us?

What would he say?

I fancy he would criticize our extravagance and waste.

Listening to our complaints about the high cost of living he would point to our clumsy methods of distribution, our middlemen's profit, our demands for quick delivery.

Noting how our big factories utilize the byproducts and make fortunes out of waste, he would be amazed at the way our common people squander our substance.

And our impatience:

He would note our way of passing snap judgment. We prejudice things. We become excited about trifles and overlook the weightier issues.

Our changeable moods:

This Martian critic would witness how calmly we permit abuses by our political favorites; how when we wake up to them there is such excitement; how when the abuses are partially corrected we go to sleep again. Our reforms must go in waves or not at all.

Our craze for entertainment:

The Martian would watch the stream of people as they crowd into the vaudeville and picture shows. Entering into these and the other places of amusement he would show us how our love of sensationalism.

Our singular cruelty:

He would wonder at our disposition to kick the man who is down, our contempt for the man who fails. He would be puzzled to understand how a humanitarian age, boasting its churches and schools, should be so disposed.

Our standard of success:

Very soon he would discover the fact that our standard of success is the dollar. It would take him a long time to figure out why we should lay the emphasis on property rights rather than human rights.

Suppose—

Suppose this critic from another world should, in the very kindest and most sympathetic way, call our attention to these defects in our civilization.

Would he be characterized as a brutal butler?

Just as I may be characterized for supposing such criticisms?

LEGLESS BRIGGS.

Myron L. Briggs of southern Michigan farms a big farm "without a leg to stand on."

Which is literally true.

About eleven years ago Mr. Briggs, then a noterman on the Grand Rapids street railway, lost both his legs in an accident and was in the hospital for fourteen months, part of the time hovering between life and death.

When he recovered he had enough money which he and his wife had saved to make a first payment on ninety acres of land. The street railway company paid the hospital expenses, but nothing more.

It may appear strange that this badly crippled man should have chosen farming as a business, but he was reared on a farm and enjoys the work.

He and his wife are great workers and scientific farmers. They study and practice the latest principles of agriculture. They take and study the leading farm journals.

This legless man now has the best farm in his neighborhood, equipped with good buildings, silo and modern machinery.

How does he do it?

He is very strong and healthy, and his arms are as brawny as a blacksmith's, and his grip is like a vice. He "walks" on his hands, swinging his body between his arms and taking fairly good strides.

He rides in the seats of his farm machinery without tying himself in, and it is wonderful how he is able to maintain his equilibrium on uneven surfaces.

And above all in his work he is as happy as a lark.

Mr. Briggs can put the harness on his horses, hitch them up to a sulky plow or a self binder, go to the fields alone and work all day, whistling and singing at his task.

And, mind you—

When he got out of the hospital the only hope held out to him was to go on the streets and sell shoe strings and lead pencils.

You, farmer, with two good legs—Cheer up!

Be an optimist like Briggs. If half a man like Briggs can whistle and sing at his work, you should be able to shout for joy at yours.

Briggs has a fine farm, but, more wonderful than his successful accomplishments, is the legless man behind the farm.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

When Strikers Were Flogged.

In the days when George III. was king the law provided that if a man refused to work during any dispute about wages he should not only be sentenced to a term of imprisonment, but receive a sound flogging as well. An amusing story is told which proves that even in those days there lived at least one man, and he no less a personage than the then lord mayor of London, who sympathized with the strikers and who, alas, was made to bitterly regret his leniency in this respect.

During Mr. Wood's tenure of office a certain journeyman sugar baker, having had the audacity to go on strike for higher wages, was duly brought before the lord mayor and charged with this heinous offense. The humane Mr. Wood put him in prison, but omitted to make an order for the flogging on the warrant of committal, so that the prisoner escaped this most humiliating and painful part of his punishment. When he had done his time the sugar baker, instead of throwing himself before the lord mayor in an ecstasy of gratitude, brought an action against him for breach of the law, and the jury were compelled to award him damages for being illegally deprived of his flogging!—Pearson's Weekly.

New Rays of Light

One of the most wonderful electrical appliances is the X-ray which may be used both in the treatment of various diseases and in the diagnosis of many obscure conditions. With its aid the interior of the human body is no longer the sealed book it has been heretofore. Abnormal states of the bones, gall stones, stone in the bladder or in the kidneys, are shown plainly by what are known as X-ray photographs. Internal tumors, and the enlargement of the deep-seated organs, are also discovered by this means and in the diagnosis of tuberculosis of the lungs this agent has proven a most valuable aid. It is also applied to some of the less fatal chronic elements of germ origin it has proven very effective as a curative agent.

Another interesting proceeding is the violet treatment produced by concentrating the violet or chemical rays from an arc light with a specially prepared carbon upon any portion of the body that may be seat of pain. Sufferers from neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, strains, sprains, also from those obscure exhausting pains which cannot be cured at times by accurately determined frequent applications of a single treatment and usually with a little perspiration, find this violet treatment health or perfect recovery is obtained.

The incandescent light bath, consisting of a cabinet in which the patient is bathed in the emanations of many rays of electric light globes, has produced really wonderful results in diabetes, sciatica, rheumatism, obesity, anemia, and some forms of kidney and heart trouble. It has also proven valuable in chronic bronchitis, bronchial asthma and various skin diseases. As a general hygienic measure its efficiency can scarcely be over-estimated.

Those who have been patients at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., highly commend this wonderfully equipped Sanitarium, where the above mentioned electric machines, high-frequency currents, and other most modern and up-to-date apparatus are used for the cure of chronic diseases. The treatment of the chronic diseases that are peculiar to women have for many years been a large factor in the cures effected at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute.

In erecting the Invalids' Hotel, Dr. R. V. Pierce's idea was to make it a genuine home, not a hospital. Such cases as rupture, hydrocele and varicocele are usually cured in ten days, and the patient is able to return home, to his work, moderate and the rates at the Invalids' Hotel comparatively low. In the examination and treatment of patients the practice is divided into specialties. Each member of the faculty, although educated to practice in all departments of medicine and surgery, is here assigned to a special department, to which he devotes his entire time, study and attention. Not only is superior skill thus attained, but also rapidly and accurately in the diagnosis of diseases.

Specialists connected with this Institute at Buffalo, are enabled to accurately determine the nature of many chronic diseases, and to make a correct diagnosis, examining their patients. This method of treating patients at a distance, by mail, has been so successful that it is being widely adopted in every part of the United States that is not represented by one or more cases upon the records of practice at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute. Such rare cases as cannot be treated in this way, which require surgical operations or careful after-treatment, are referred to the specialists of the Institute.

In medicine there has been rapid progress during recent years. Dr. Pierce has kept up with the times by continually improving his laboratory by skilled chemists, and exercising care that the ingredients forming his well-known medicine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery" are extracted from the best variety of native medicinal plants. These are gathered with great care and at the proper season of the year, so that their medicinal properties may be most reliable.

These extracts are then made soluble in pure triple refined glycerine and bottled in a hygienic and scientific manner. Thus the World's Dispensary as established by Dr. Pierce is supplied with the most complete apparatus and means of cure, for its aim is to avoid surgical operations whenever possible.

Great care is exercised not to over-encourage those who consult the specialists of this institution that no false hopes may be raised.

These extracts are annually treated both through correspondence and at this Institute. Every one consulting by letter or in person receives the most careful and conscientious attention. All communications are treated as strictly confidential.

No charge whatever is made for consultation.

A SIGN FROM HEAVEN.

Mark viii, 11-26—Noy. 3.

"Jesus spoke unto them, saying, I am the Light of the world; he that followeth Me shall not walk in the dark, but shall have the light of life."—John viii, 12.

THE Scribes and Pharisees of Jesus' day were perplexed by His success in reaching the people. True, those who heard Him gladly were chiefly of the common people, whom the Jewish teachers refused to recognize as brethren. They considered Jesus a competitor and feared for their own reputations because of the superiority of Jesus, whose "Wonderful Words of Life" touched the hearts of many.

These Pharisees came to find fault. They asked Him for "a sign from heaven." Their purpose was to belittle the signs He was giving.

He was giving ignoring these things, we will believe.

In order to be able to sympathize with the rulers of the Jews, we must remember how different were the proofs of Jesus' Messiahship from what they had supposed. The Prophets told many things of Messiah, but they had given heed to those which spoke of the power that would come to the Jewish nation.

Other Scriptures tell of how Messiah should "be led as a Lamb to the slaughter, and as a sheep before shearers is dumb, so He would open His mouth." They tell of how He would "preach deliverance to the captives," and the opening of the eyes of the blind, but this they associated with the glorious Kingdom. Their difficulty was that they lacked humility and were not teachable. The "Israelites indeed," had misunderstandings of the prophecies, but were open to conviction, and to these the Master's teachings were attractive. They were guided to the correct understanding of the Divine Plan, and were ready for the Pentecost blessing as part of the "elect."

No Sign but That of Jonah.

Our lesson tells that Jesus asked, "Why doth this generation seek after a sign?" refusing to give them a sign. St. Matthew (xvi. 1-4) gives a more detailed account: Jesus called the attention of the Pharisees to the signs that He was giving, and then said that there would be one "sign" given that nation.

That "sign" did have a great effect upon thousands of Jews on Pentecost Day, and upon their hearing St. Peter respecting the death of Jesus. His three days in the tomb and His resurrection. Jesus cited the sign of Jonah—that so the Son of Man would be a similar period in the earth, and so He would come forth.

"Higher Critics may fight out their opposition to our Lord's statement; according to them, Jesus and the Apostles were deceived; but according to Jesus and the Apostles, the Higher Critics are deceived.

The Leaven of the Pharisees.

Jesus cautioned His disciples against the doctrine of the Pharisees—He likened it to leaven. God's Word is Truth, the bread upon which His people are to feed; but they are to use pure Truth. This caution was necessary because the Pharisees were the most holy sect amongst the Jews. The most zealous Jews, therefore, were attracted to that sect. Its association with the best things made its teachings the more dangerous, because it overlaid with human traditions.

For this reason, no matter how holy our deification may claim to be, we are to beware of their false doctrine. The pure Truth of God's Word "is sufficient, that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto every good work."

Let us, of all denominations, unite in full consecration to our Redeemer, and stand free from all creeds, for there is but one Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, one God, one "Church of the Firstborn."

"Perceive Ye Not Yet?"

The disciples missed the point of Jesus' parabolic statement about the leaven of the Pharisees. Their eyes of understanding were not widely open, and Jesus plainly told them that they were slow to perceive the spirit of His words.

He reminded them of the five thousand fed with five loaves, and of the other feeding of four thousand with seven loaves, and asked, "How, then, do you not understand?"

The same thing is noticeable today in Bible Study; the spirit of our Lord's teachings is often missed by a common whose minds center "The wisdom of men," around incidentals.

The reason for this is a more careful study of the Divine Word.

Another Peculiar Healing.

At Bethesda a blind man was brought to Him. Jesus led him out beyond the village and spat upon his eyes and put His hands upon him and asked him if he saw anything. He said that he saw something that looked like trees moving about. Again Jesus put His hands upon his eyes and he saw clearly. The object in employing this method is not clear, but probably the man lacked faith and Jesus was developing it in him.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy ever since I have been keeping house," says L. C. Hames of Maury, Ala. "I consider it one of the best remedies I ever used. Couldn't Dazzle Mammy.

The young man of the house really was unking good in a way that delighted his parents and brought him much flattery from friends and neighbors, but old mammy, the family servant, remained unmoved. One day when he had done a particularly brilliant piece of surgical work and delivered an especially profound address before a great convention he said to mammy, "I'm not a baby any longer, and I think you ought to call me Mr. Charles hereafter." The old darkey snorted her indignation.

"Who me?" she asked. "I ain't never in gwine call you mister. You ain't no mister any more'n I's a miss. You couldn't wricle yo' fingers so pert a-cuttin' out folks' insides ef I hadn't a-kep' 'em limber wid smacking 'em; you couldn't herd de patient's heart a-beatin' if it wa'n't for de forever washin' yo' ears so clean. You ain't nothin' but a messy little boy to yo' ole mammy!"—New York Press.
