Politician—"Well, yes; Like a good horse trader or a real estate man, the good politician is bern not made. He should be a born herder of men and possess the faculty of persuasion. With these qualities he can have himself elected or appointed as often as The Ladies of the neighborhood are self elected or appointed as often as he cares."

Would-be-politician—"I have always understood that the voters have something to say in that."

Politician—"Bah, the voters! If he understands his business they will vote for him. Yet there are some who never learn the business of vote getting. They make promises which nobody expects to be kept. Many people nowdays assume a distrustful attitude toward the office holders and we must hang our sails with the wind.

"When I am after votes I visit the farmer on a bright day when the weather is favorable for crops, and the laborer on a Saturday evening. I talk sympathetically on their affairs, and praise their children and the rest of their belongings. Finally I inform them incidently of my candidacy for office and that I am counting on my friends.

"It always had the desired effect."

"Does the averal good farmers and pick the best, put him in the Governor's chair with three big sticks so he can wellop the senate, the Legislature and knock the lobbyists' cob house down. What do you say, Brother Rubes?

The Anglers are getting their automatic shotzuns and revolvers ready

Would-be-politician-"Does the average citizen take as little interest in public matters as that?"

Politician—"Yes. Of course now and then one grumbles at high taxes, but he will calm down when he sees that his neighbors are taxed just as high as he. Besides criticism is use-less—the office holder has much his own way during his term. If he thinks his salary might be higher, he may have it raised by the legislature at little cost. There are offices in which the salary is but a small part of the possible income. In such a position is possible income. In such a position is the man at the head of the county. He may build a bridge or a public building and if he cannot make a rake off at 25 per cent it is his fault. But mind you, everything has its limit and there he should stop.

"Not long go a farmer told me that the taxpayers of his road district yoted a certain sum to be raised by voted a certain sum to be raised by special tax for road improvement County ordered the work done and after a while discontinued it, saying that the funds were exhausted. This Del Irish, of Union Hall and Ellis usually ends the matter, but in this case a farmer with a distrustful and prying disposition, had kept private account of all the wages expended and showed that only a little over half of the voted money had been used 'Where is the rest?' he anked, but for tunately it was in the busy season when farmers have no time to come and gabble in the courthouse.

Would-be-politician —"Say, that settles the matter between us. I am a an honest man. I have made no promises to keep your confidence to myself so I shall have it published. You are scoundrel! Goodbye. Politician—"Get out!"

The Causes of Rheumatism.

Stomach trouble, lazy liver and deranged kidneys are the cause of rheamatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains or rheumatism. Charles B.
