FRESH PAINT

How long since this sign hung on your house. Now just stop to think. Hasn't it been a long time? But what has the weather been doing in the meanwhile? That's the point to consider. When the elements attack the wood your house is on the down grade fast. Soon the loss from depreciation is a whole lot more than the cost of a good coat of paint.

Sure, painting costs money. So the thing to do is to buy the paint that lasts longest, and the answer is here's the reason: Bass-Hueter Paints are made on the Pacific Coast for this climate with its many days of sunshine and seasonal rainy spells.

Just as they have been for years, Bass-Hueter Paints to-day are the most durable for the Pacific Coast climate.

Get the painter to give you an estimate, but insist that he use Bass-Hueter Paints and the repainting will not be necessary for a long, long time.

We sell Bass-Hueter Paints because we know them to be most durable for the Pacific Coast climate—know it by practical experience and severe test.

SHOOTING AT OSWEGO

Union and Non Union Electrical Workers Clash, One Man Shot

Union and non-union labor had a clash at Oswego Monday. Eleven men are out on bail and the trial will be held here May 23. One man is in Portland hospital with a bullet hole in his vitals.

There are always two sides to a story. The facts will come out in the trial here, and until such time this paper will not comment. As we get the matter a crew of non-union line men were working at Oswego. Two of these men had been former union men, but had withdrawn.

A crew of eleven union men came on a train from Portland to Oswego and a riot followed. It is stated that a union man kicked one of the Oswego gang in the face as he was sitting, and that a fight followed. The men attacked were five in number and they retreated to the wagon and into the telephone office. The union men followed them, and it is said three missiles and tools at them, when J. C. Ainsburg of Lents, a non-union man, fired at the assailants, the bullet striking Fred Ream of Willamette, in the groin. The wounded man dropped and the fight ended.

Sheriff Mass was notified and he and Deputy Bert Staats rushed to Oswego in an auto. In the meantime the telephone central had notified Sheriff Word of Portland, and he also went to the scene of trouble.

Ainsberry, the man who did the shooting, was not to be found, and it was said he had been driven away in a rig. While Sheriff Mass was gathering in the men engaged in the fight, Staats went after Ainsberry in the auto, traced him to his home and arrested him. All twelve men were arrested, brought in and released on bail.

The charge against eleven was inciting a riot and one assault with a dangerous weapon. The defense of Ainsberry will be self defense. Senator W. A. Dimick will defend the strikers.

Ainsberry was released on $1,000 cash bail, which the Home Telephone Co. furnished, but a few minutes after his release he returned to Justice Sievers office, before whom the hearing was held, and asked to have the bail returned.

Ainsberry then told this story: He said he was convicted of forgery in California and sentenced to San Quentin for three years; that he was paroled, had made good up until the last thirty days, when he had broken his parole and come to this county.

He said the reason for breaking faith was that the union men made it impossible for him to get work in California and he was forced to leave the state to support his family. He said one of the strikers who attacked him was an ex-convict from San Quentin, who went under the assumed name of Maher; that he had recognized him (Ainsberry), and that the California authorities would soon be after him.

Ainsberry since coming here has purchased a little home at Lents, paying for same on monthly payments. Sheriff Mass refused bail to Ainsberry on the ground that he was a parole breaker but the Home Telephone Co. secured a habeas corpus writ and he is at work again. J. E. Hedges argued for the order before Judge Beattie and Livy Stipp against.

The man who was shot is said to be getting along nicely and is not in a dangerous condition. Wednesday night Ainsberry was again arrested in Portland on a charge of having broken jail in Wyoming, after having broken his parole in California, and when arrested he also confessed to having done time in Nevada. He has been taken back to Wyoming, and his past record looks bad.

Then follows the arrest of George Maher, a warrant charging him with cutting wires and given to Constable Frost. He is bound over to the grand jury on $500 bail.

WELCOMING MOLALLA

Oregon City Delegation Visits Growing Town and Helps on the Boom

How much better it is to see cousins, Oregon City and Molalla, playing the game together than fighting. Molalla is a corner, no two ways about that. It has everything to make it come. And instead of trying to hold it back for fear it will get county business, how much better it is for Oregon City to reach out and help Molalla ahead—to get in with the boosters and help boost.

It's the right move, the big spirit, the way to do things. This is a county bigger than some states. There is property for all, and when the Live Wires of their own accord organized a big booster party and went out to Molalla Tuesday night, Molalla won a lot of firm friends and Oregon City did an act that will pay dividends. And Oregon City wants to shove out a welcoming hand to Beaver Creek and the other places that will put on long pants when the Clackamas Southern gets into operation.

About 50 Oregon City people went to Molalla Tuesday night, and they received a welcome that made the night ride well worth while. The newly formed commercial club and citizens generally met the delegates with enthusiasm and the after meeting and speeches cemented a good fellowship that will endure.

President J. H. Vernon of the Molalla Commercial Club welcomed the visitors and then lively and interesting short talks were made by Judge R. B. Beattie, G. B. Dimick, B. T. Mc-
