WHOOPIING COUGH.

A Highly Contagious Disease That Should Not Be Neglected.

Many persons regard whooping cough as tedious and annoying, but quite without serious importance. Unfortunately that mistake often leads to the neglect of the disease itself and the failure to isolate the patient properly. Recent statistics show that of the children under one year of age who have whooping cough one in four dies. The mortality decreases rapidly with advancing age, and at five years of age only one patient in fifty dies. Ten thousand children die of this disease every year in the United States. Even when whooping cough does not result fatally it is still to be dreaded, for it may be followed by consumption, since the patient's powers of resistance are often greatly weakened by the violent and exhausting cough. The disease is highly contagious, although the offending germ has not yet been discovered. Consequently the mother or the nurse of a child with whooping cough ought never to take it into public conveyances or to entertainments or send it to school or to church—anywhere, in short, where it will expose other children to the infection.

The disease begins like a simple cold in the head and rapidly goes to the chest. The cough is at first short and sharp, but gradually increases in severity and occurs in paroxysms. At the end of one of these attacks the air is pumped completely out of the lungs and the child feels that he must take a deep breath at once. But now a spasm of the larynx occurs, and only a small opening is left for the air to enter. Through this opening the child draws his eager breath and thus makes the peculiar noise of "whoop" that gives the disease its name.

Often vomiting follows a severe attack of coughing, and sometimes there is nosebleed or hemorrhage from the throat or into the eyes. Never neglect the treatment of whooping cough. At present we know of no cure for the disease, but the child should always be under the care of a physician, who can do much to mitigate the severity of the cough and to prevent serious complications.—Youth's Companion

Macksburg defeated Eldorado Sunday 5 to 2 at Macksburg. The winning run came in the 8th inning when 3 scores were made. Cis Gumm and Bill Reynolds were catcher and pitcher for Macksburg. Sidney Smith and Johnie Evans for Eldorado.

OREGON CITY.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS.

The marriage of Miss Martha Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Myers of this city, and Mr. George O'Connor, of Umatilla, Oregon, was solemnized in Portland Saturday morning. The wedding was a very quiet affair, and was attended by only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor will make their future home in Portland.

The bride is one of Oregon City's well known young women, and for some time has been connected with the Home Telephone Company, both in this city and in Portland. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, prominent and well known pioneers of Oregon.

The bridegroom has made Portland his home recently. He is an engineer and is popular among his associates.

Mr. Oscar Lawrence Woodfin, a well known vocalist and pianist of this city, was among the vocalists taking part at the recital given in the ball room of the Multnomah Hotel Wednesday evening. The musical affair, which was one of the most delightful functions of this kind ever given in Portland, was attended by many of the prominent music loving people of Portland. Mr. Woodfin appeared with Miss Maurine Campbell, both of whom are studying under Mrs. Reed, their numbers being "Swing Song," and "Trot Here and There." They responded to hearty encores. Oregon City was well represented on this occasion by some of the well known vocalists.

A very pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galloway at Gladstone Monday evening, when their daughter, Miss Maude Galloway became the wife of Mr. Richard Geary, of Mullin, Idaho. The rooms of the Galloway home were prettily decorated with spring blossoms, hawthorne being used profusely. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of anemone white blossoms by Rev. P. K. Hammond, of Eugene, formerly rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of this city, in the presence of the relatives of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends.

Refreshments were served following the ceremony. Many handsome gifts were received by the young couple.

The bride is an accomplished young woman, and is well and favorably known in this city as well as in Gladstone. She is a graduate of the University of Oregon, and was engaged in teaching for several years.

The bridegroom is a mining engineer of Idaho, and will take his bride to Mullin, their future home upon their return from their honeymoon.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gamund on Twelfth and Center Streets was the scene of much merriment Saturday afternoon when their young son, Teddy, entertained a few of his friends in a royal manner so that the youngsters attending will not soon forget their good time. The afternoon was devoted to blowing of soap bubbles, games and followed by a luncheon. The table was prettily decorated with cut flowers, and each little guest was presented with a souvenir of the occasion. The living room, as well as the dining room were prettily decorated with flowers and ferns.

Opening the Campaign
E. D. Olds, of Oak Grove and George Oglesby of Needy, opened the real campaign on the county court Wednesday and Thursday nights at Needy and Macksburg, with speeches urging the farmers to line up and help on the work for a new county court for Clackamas county.

SHOULD APPLY TO CITY.

Law Partner of City Attorney Should Not Defend his Prosecutions.

A weak spot or loophole in our state law was brought to light this week in the trial of the two saloon men for violation of the liquor law provisions when the prosecuting attorney and defending attorney were partners, Brownell & Stone.

The state law provides that no partner of a state official shall be eligible to defend or prosecute, and this is even brought down to local justices of peace. A county judge's law partner prosecuting attorney is ineligible to practice in a case before him, and so on down the line.

The purpose of such law is good, and we all know that purpose. But in the recent local trial, where the city's paid attorney prosecuted the saloons, the defending attorney was his lawpartner, George C. Brownell.

William Stone prosecuted the case vigorously and ably. He fought hard for conviction. He did his full duty to the city and he won out.

But the point we are making is, supposing he had not won; suppose the decision of Recorder Stipp had been against the saloons. Then you will see the position, an entirely innocent position, Mr. Stone would have been placed in, for the public is often uncharitable. He would have been severely and unjustly censured—had he had to stand for unjust criticism for a public opinion of the circumstances made.

While the law does not forbid George C. Brownell from defending a case against his partner, who the council has made city attorney, yet George C. Brownell should never have defended it—he should never have put his partner in this dangerous and embarrassing position.

And we all know if the state law prohibits such situations as to state officials and city justices of peace, that the moral force of it should be recognized in city prosecutions.

Council Proceedings

At the Wednesday night's council meeting a resolution was adopted calling for plans and specifications for the replacement of the old sewer from Center street west, so that this part of the big drain could be made to conform to the standards of the new trunk sewer that will be installed in the district. Action on the paving and other improvements of the thoroughfare was again postponed.

Various street matters were taken up, change of grades from Ninth to Tenth, and several old street assessment matters were settled, and several property owners protested that grade changes had injured their property.

A special meeting will be held Monday night to catch up on unfinished business.

A bill for services for Robert Dieck for expert advice for $264 was ordered paid.

A bill from S. R. Green, for 14 days while on vacation, and for an allowance of four days pay during sickness was placed on the table indefinitely after some discussion.

After June 3, Watch Out.

Saloonkeepers and bartenders will have to be careful about dealing out their wares after June 3, when a new law providing that any person who shall sell, exchange or give to any intoxicated person intoxicating liquor shall be liable for all damages resulting in a whole or in part therefrom at the suit or action of the wife, husband, parent or child of such intoxicated person or habitual drunkard. The act of any employee or bartender shall be deemed an act of his principal or employer.

Queer Uses For the Crocus.

The crocus is nowadays held to justify its existence by its beauty, but in bygone centuries it was cultivated with an eye to profit, its saffron being in high demand both as an aromatic and as a flavoring for cakes and pies. A distillation of crocus blossoms also was held to be good for strengthening the lungs and heart and as a preventive of plague. Evidence of the flower's commercial value survives in the name of the chief center of its cultivation, Saffron Walden, but saffron nowadays is appreciated only by the snobs, which wreck the crocuses to obtain it.—London Chronicle.

A Mother's Kiss.

"Having grossly offended my mother one day," wrote Mme Schreck, "I stood expecting reproof in return. To my amazement that beautiful woman stooped and kissed me. I burst into tears. I was overwhelmed with shame. It seemed to me I never again could do enough to show her the loyalty of my heart."—Mothers' Magazine.
