an occasion to show his zent for his brethren came when he saw an Egyptian abusing one of them. Moses threw himself into the scuffle. The Egyptian was killed. Moses perceived that none of the Egyptians knew of the matter, so he quietly buried the victim in the sand. He doubted not that his brethren would realize that he was their friend and defender, and would look to him with confidence as their leader, when God's providence would open the door for them to leave

Egypt. But all his dreams faded when, next day, he perceived that there was no such loyalty among his brethren, and that they were ready to deliver him to the Egyptian authorities. Thoroughly discouraged and fearing for his life, Moses fled to the wilderness of Midian, It looked as though all his education and development had gone to waste.

experiences of the preceding eighty years of his life.

The adopted son of the Egyptian princess, Moses must have been a court favorite, and in danger of cultivating pride and arrogance. As an offset, he had continually before him the fact that his features were Jewish, and that thus every one had knowledge of his identity with the despised and oppressed people. The tendency would naturally be toward one of two courses; Either he would seek to ignore the Hebrews and to become more and more identified with the Egyptians, or else he would exercise faith in the special promises of which his people were heirs as children of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob.

St. Paul notes that Moses was a victor in this test. He chose to suffer affliction with the people of God rather than to enjoy the honors which might have been his as an adopted member of the royal family. (Hebrews 11:24-26.) To Moses the Promise which God made to Abraham, and repeated to Isaac and Jacob, and which still awaits fulfilment, was more to be desired than all the riches and honors of earth.

Moses Discouraged, Heartbroken. Trusting in the Lord's Promise, Moses believed that the time had come for the deliverance of the Israelites from bondage. He knew well of his miraculous preservation, and had the issurance of God's Promise that this signified that God had a special work for him to do. He was anxious to begin that work. He knew not of his own unreadiness—that he would require forty years more of special schooling.

those years learning a most important lesson of meekness, of full submission to the Divine will. When the lesson had been learned, God's time had come to put His thus doubly educated servant into a most important place, for which he never could have been qualified without just such experiences. God's dealings with Moses illustrate the general principles of His dealing with all those whom He would use I special service.
