Farmrs are coming to the front.

All we ask for is justice

Farmers should set the that farmers produce.

Farmers should do their buying in arge lots and save money

All this requires an organization designed for that purpose.

The awful drouth all over the Mis sissippi Valley will have a tendency to boost prices in the Willamette Val-ley. Don't sell too cheap.

There is going to be a great rush into the Equity Society this fall and winter and it will be a regular stampede. Our state officers must prepare National headquarters have carefully prepared a system for all states and sent a form for state constitution and by-laws which we should adopt with necessary changes.

Does the farmer of Oregon re alize the condition that he is in? Does he know his condition is gradually growing worse? Does he know that of the many ways Bankers, Big Business, the politicians and market manipulators are getting in shape to control the market that ought to be controlled by the farmers themselves.

A new local has been organized at Butterville, Marion Co. Fred Pentel, Secretary. There is another at Silverton; O. A.

W. Meredith, Oregon City, Oregon

You know, as I do, that no manager or any one man can make a sucport of all the members which I trust will have and from the expressions have had from many of the society, I think they mean business, stand 'o-gether and take the bad with the good which they must do. They must put the British nation was composed of so as de petty jealousies—not listen to emisaries who will be sent among them from time to time to create discord and do away with UN:TY of their organization.

If they follow out these lines they will be rewarded with nothing but SUCCESS. If they don't, they will meet with failure as their enemies burn our candles and whoop our hopredict for them in this enterprise, sannas. The worship of things did and hope will be the ultimate end of not belong alone to the childhood of this undertaking.

LET BOTH PULL TOGETHER.

The Gresham Outlook, copying an Equity article from last week's Courier, makes this comment:

The above is taken from the Equity column of the Oregon City Courier. It is exactly in line with the grange idea and should be of assistance to the Equity people if properly car-

Mr. Grisenthwaite is a granger and is only following the grange plan. He is a safe man at the helm of the Oregon City Equity and may in time bring the new order to a position where it will rival the grange. He can't make any mistake if he follows up grange ideas.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERMONS REV. SAMUEL W. PURVIS. D.D.

YOUR LITTLE GILDED CALF

Text, "Thou shalt not make any graven mage or any likeness."-Ex. xx, 4. There is an old story of how once nearly a million slaves escaped from their masters and journeyed to find a new country. It tells how their leader-as all leaders must-went up to the heights to find God and laws for Dear Sir:—
Your valued favor of the 6th at them. The laws which he brought our Company business agent and our hand, and I hasten to express my appropriately Warehouse when Uncle Sam does the work? The Parcel Post is behalf.

The raws which he brought back have been the base of all civilization in the world from that time to this day. But these people tired soon of him and his laws, and they took out their earrings and melted them and made a little gold calf. Any American reading this story today would set them down as dull assesfolks who deserved to be slaves and many millions-mostly fools. The proportion in our country would of course be different! And yet we have little metal calves which we worship every day. Not many of us but have erected some fool little image before which we bow our knee, wave our incense, the world. The old idolatry conceived of gods in trees and stones, streams and hills. It was crude, but it was spiritual. Now we cut down the trees and blast the stones and level the mountains. We know they are not gods, but we worship the power they give us. Instead of their being real powers in our lives they are only poor little gilded calves of our own making. The Second Commandment. The second commandment is by no means a repetition of the first. It becomes possible when we believe in one God and worship only one. The first forbids us worship any god but Jehovah. The second takes it for granted there is no God but him and forbids the creation of anything to resemble him or to be used as an object of worship. The first condemns the worship of false gods, the second the making of any image or symbol of the true God for any purpose of worship. This is the danger of anything used to remind us of the Deity. Our reverence for a church building may supplement our worship of God. The Bible as a book may become more adored than the liv-ing word itself. Archbishop Ryan warned his people in a little book that lies before me of the danger of worshiping the mother rather than the Son of God, lest the crucifix should take the place of the crucified. He quotes a standard work, which I in justice am glad to quote, "Cursed is he who commits idolatry, who prays to mages or relics or worst The Brazen Serpent, Hezekiah saw the same danger. Mental concepts of God are difficult of formation. To assist themselves men have in all ages been prone to form material images. The more ignorant and undeveloped the mind the greater the necessity of seeing something to worship. Always in the beginning it is done with honest purpose. The old brazen serpent made by Moses had by In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Clackasitudes of the nation-the turbulent times of the Judges, the glories of David and Solomon, the disruption of the kingdom and the defections of the later kings. With every age it gained in sanctity. Finally men looked on it as baving strange powers lurking within it-nay, as a kind of god. It was an awful degradation. The thing that had once brought life to the dying was now bringing death to the living. What had once pointed men to God was now recall campaign and editor Brown has championed the cause of the recallers and will not make any radical changes in the paper for two or three and against L. FREE SPEECH. I believe in freedom of speech, first, last and all the time. I know and understand that there is a class of people who cannot hire a hall to present their views to the public, and there is no reason why they should be kept from telling their story to all who want to hear. There is a limit, however, to which such people should go, and there is a limit which they will not be allowed to exceed. This limit is the bounds of decency. When a street speaker becomes indecent, vile or unreasonably abusive of any person or class it is time to call a halt. Such speakers do more to hurt any cause than they do to benefit it, and they are intruding on the rights of the majority. As to strikes, I realize that the working class has a right to make its demands, but I object to the use of violence or force in settling any problem. I object also to persons who have no interest, directly or indirectly, except to disturb and abuse, interfering in any strike or labor trouble. It is enough for those directly interested to fight the battle fairly and not call in disinterested disturbers, who do not know the bounds of decency or civility or fairness.-Mayor Al-
