SOME INTERESTING FACTS

Relating to The Edison Disc Phonograph

The only disc talking machine requiring no change of needle

The Edison Disc Phonograph re-quires no change of needles. The reproducer point is a genuine diamond, carefully selected, polished and fitted.

It is never changed. In 1878 Mr. Edison invented and patented the first Disc Phonograph ever made, but this instrument before you is the first Disc Phonograph he has ever permitted to be offered to the public in his name. It represents 34 years of personal investigation and experimentation by Mr. Edison, and probably marks the limit of human chievement in recording and reproducing sound.

In designing the reproducer for this instrument Mr. Edison constructed and tested over 2,000 different models. selected with equal care. It is an en-tirely new material, possessing prop-erties which have a very great part in the excellence of the reproduction. The record is practically non-wearable and non-breakable. The motor is many times stronger and more costly than any other motor, with the result that the beautiful tone qualities of the in-strument are perfectly sustained at all times.

Mr. Edison has conducted a series of exhaustive acoustical experiments, which have resulted in new methods of sound recording entirely unknown days on business, has returned to her to other manufacturers and very much home. superior to their methods. As you listen to the reproduction of music by this instrument, you will notice that all of the over tones, or tone colors are recorded and faithfully reproduced. Other sound reproducing instruments are not capable of this, with the result that their reproduction consists of the fundamental tone and a more or less distorted and intermittent reproduction of merely one or two of the over tone

Other records compared to the Eding without color, shading or detail, compared to a finished painting, with all of the planes, tones, colors and perspectives. For the first time there ison records are like an outline draw-a sound reproducing instrument which truis does not distort it. The musical vol-ume of this instrument is very much greater than that of any other. The so-called volume of other talking ma-chines is a series of loud false vibrations, produced by imperfect methods of recording and reproducing. Inas-much as this instrument is capable of a real interpretation of music, Mr. Ed-ison intends to make it the means of a revival of English and ballad opera, historic lyrics and reviews of the music of the nations, gems of grand opera and fine old somes so antly call opera and fine old songs so aptly call-returned to this city. ed "Heart Songs" and the best musical successes, and all of the contemporary visiting at the home The artists who make records for the Edison Disc Phonograph are cho-day. sen with the greatest care. They are judged by the standards that pre-vail in the musical centers of Europe, and include the finest voices in the world. In selecting artists we disre-gard the bombastic claims of a hired press agent, the illusion of stage settings and trappings, and the charm of stage presence. We select only those singers whose art is so grot that the full measure of their power is felt without seeing them. Artists whose voices abound with a wealth of color, feeling and expression. Realizing that the Edison Disc Phonograph is an instrument that will appeal to the most highly cultured people we offer in the design of the cabinets, pure types of the following schools of furniture: Adam, Jacobean, modern Renaissance, suited to a mixed scheme of furnishings. All these statements can be verified by testing a record on the New Edison Disc Phonograph. We would be glad to play this won-derful machine for you any time you
