GRANGE AND COUNTY FAIRS. They Can Co-operate to the Advantage of Both-Work of Some Granges, Recently the management of a county agricultural society in New York more successful and invited suggestinis week. tions on the fair management. We their line of duty to respond cheerfully and in some practical sort of way. The grange should lead in any such agricultural enterprise, and it should assist the fair authorities in the making of an educational exhibit and not they do this? There should be a grange headquarters at the fair to begin with. There should be exhibits by subordinate or county granges, or both, and these exhibits should be located in the same ouilding so that they could be easily ompared by the public. For these exhibits liberal premiums should be of-fered, even if a horse race has to be cut out of the program. There should be boys' judging contests of various kinds. Teams of judges could enter from different granges and thus incite a spirit of fraternal rivalry. Young be found, men from the granges could be readily Gravens coached by some expert in the matter of judging, and it matters little what kind of judging is undertaken. Various classes of live stock, grains, fruits, vegetables-in fact, every department of the fair could properly come within these judges' province. For the lower prize in judging give a free trip to the state fair, while for the main prize there might be a scholarship to the Agricultural college for a short term or a full term if possible. There are many ways the grange can actively interest itself in the fair, and then when the fair is over let some one or more persons explain to the grange some of the more interesting educational features of the exhibition. We have not said anything about the floral parade, which is so attractive a feature of some county fairs. One county fair association in New York county fair association in New York state offers very liberal premiums for decorated wagons and automobiles.

VEAL—Fancy 12c to 13c; medium 11 and 12½ cents.

PORK—10 and 11 cents. Every one who enters a decorated vehicle gets $20, and there is an additional first prize of $40 to the winner, with other liberal prizes. On these terms a grange is sure of something, and it may be something very much

A MASSACHUSETTS IDEA.

Agricultural Exhibit at Annual Meeting of the State Grange.

The Massachusetts state grange authorities are certainly to be commended for their plan to have an agricultural and horticultural exhibition in connection with the next state grange meeting in this city in December. It is not to be an exhibit for revenue, as no premiums will be awarded, but it is to be strictly educational, and each de partment will be under expert management. Each grange is to have charge of that class of products or articles with the production of which its members are most familiar. This will in-sure the best possible showing in the respective articles or products and will familiarize the public with that which is the best that the state can produce.

This exhibit is likely to equal the excellent exhibition of fruits and vegetables made at the last session of the national grange that was held in Atlantic City, N. J. And that was simply wonderful. In the public mind New Jersey is capable of raising on its sandy tracts not much else than melons and mesquitoes, but people were convinced to the contrary when they witsessed what the state was really producing. So it may be with the Boston exhibit. It will, we believe, open the eyes of Bostonians and suburbanites as to the possibilities of Massachusetts orchards and gardens and all the agricultural resources of the state. There will be no trouble, we imagine, to get the consent of the exhibitors to the proposition of State Master Gardner and his committees, to give the produce placed on exhibition, after the lose of the state grange meeting, to different charitable institutions of Boston. It will show a generous spirit on their part, and it will save them the expense of freighting the articles back to their homes. The date of meeting of the state grange is fixed for Dec. 8, 9 and 10, and the place is Tremont

Chelsea (Me.) Grange Hall, that are always an evidence of grange that of Chelsea grange in Maine. For two years the project has been under way. The lumber was bought standing in the forest. The grange men gave their labor freely to cut it and haul it to the mill to be sawed and prepared for the building. They also contributed a large part of the labor required in the erecting of the building, so incidentally learned a practical lesson in co-operation. The new property is estimated to be worth $4,000, Chelsea grange is not a large one, 115 members, but they are active, and the work they have accomplished and the spirit displayed are evidences of enterprise and loyalty worthy commend-

MARKET REPORT

At the Union Stock Yards at Portland a large increase in both cattle and swine receipts has been noticeable the last few days, but sheep liquidation was much lighter. With the advent of sizable quantities of live stock the market became active and interesting. Monday's cattle receipts was one of the largest of the year and contained a lot of good beef. The $8.00 steer top was not disturbed and a few choice lots brought 8.10, 8.15, and 8.25. Bulk of steer sales 7.30 and 7.70. Let your discourse be more in queries and doublings than peremptory assertions and disputings, it being the design of travelers to learn not to teach. Besides, it will persuade your acquaintance that you have the greater esteem of them and so make them more ready to communicate what they know to you, whereas nothing sooner occasions disrespect and quarrels than peremptoriness. You will and little or no advantage in seeming wiser or much more ig-

It is safer to commend anything more than it deserves than to discommend a thing so much as it deserves, for commendations meet not so often with oppositions, or at least are not usually so ill resented by men that think otherwise, as discommendations, and you will insinuate into men's favor by nothing sooner than seeming to approve and commend what they like, but beware of doing it by comparison.-Sir Isaac New-

DRESS.

Dress makes the man and also makes the woman. Good dressing need not be expensive. Good dressing is dressing in good taste, and good taste is more a matter of judgment than of purse. Good dressing is being so dressed that no one can tell half an hour after meeting you how you were dressed, so complete was the fitness of the habit to the inhabitant. Like the best window glass, dress should never call attention to itself .-Charles F. Thwing.

HABIT.

What is a habit? 'Tis a fett'ring chain That binds the struggling spirit to the earth; A hampering weight that clogs aspiring worth And makes its brightest visions

all in vain;

A blighting pall whose midnight

depths detain And quench each glowing fervor

at its birth: A serpent coll within whose monstrous girth Is crushed each noblest impulse of the brain. What is a habit? 'Tis a silver thread That links the soul to possibility: A magic stone that turns the baser lead

Of evil bent to golden tendency; A precious stepping stone from low to high;

A Jacob's ladder stretching to the sky. -J. Forsyth Smith in Nautilus.

THE FATHER'S DUTY. The father should have a working knowledge of a boy's body, its physiology, the pathological conditions that from time to time arrive, and the relation of these both to mentality and morality. He should understand the effect of normal growth upon the boy's character development, particularly during the period of adolescence. He should be able to give instruction in sex hygiene, knowing just what to tell and how much and just when to tell it. He should understand the supreme worth of muscular co-ordination in relation to self control and how. through manual training, gymnastics and athletics, these are developed. Fathers should understand enough of psychology to discover whether their boys are motor or sensory minded, enough to know why it is that at a particular time the boy begins to think and act for himself, and why it is the youth so often questions all authority and darkening doubts so easily beset his soul. It should be the business of the father to acquaint himself with these facts. that he may intelligently and sympathetically guide and control his boy. Here is where even a little knowledge is a helpful, not a dangerous, thing.-Franklin Matthews.
