

THE HOLIDAY GIFT

is now the problem that demands the attention of every one, and in order that all readers of the Courier may not be imposed upon during this season of strenuous and often reckless buying, we are going to present, through the advertisements of dealers of unquestioned reliability, a great number of valuable suggestions for the selection of practical and appropriate gifts. It is always best to purchase such from the home merchants of good reputation who will not be guilty of the cheats and deceptions practiced by so many during the Holiday season. Watch our columns for quotations and descriptions of articles suitable for gifts, or if you do not find in that way what you desire write or call upon the merchants whose advertisements we publish and they will give you every possible assistance.

As an Xmas Suggestion we would mention that Printed Stationery, Calling Cards, Business Cards, Etc., are always appropriate and pleasing gifts. Orders for such work placed with us now will receive our careful attention. (Call or write for samples).

For an absent friend or relative what token of remembrance, either at Xmas, New Years or any other time, could be more acceptable than the gift of a subscription to a publication that during the whole year will be a constant reminder of your interest and thoughtfulness, such as, for instance—
