

A LOT of people condemn the Edison Phonograph without hearing it. They think they know what a Phonograph is. They may, but they do not know what the Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph is, because if they had heard it they would long to possess one.

Ideas based upon crude and imperfect talking machines must not be applied to the Edison. The Edison Diamond Disc Phonograph is the one that was invented by Thomas Alva Edison, and is made in the great laboratory at Orange, where Mr. Edison does his daily work. If there were anything he could do to make the Edison Phonograph better he would do it. The fact that he is willing to let it go out with his name upon it is proof that he considers it good. If it is good enough for Mr. Edison, it ought to be good enough for you.

NEW LINES OF WORK FOR SALOON MEN

Have Gone into Other Lines of Business in the City
Since Oregon City has gone on the dry list and when some of Oregon City's best citizens were forced to close shop, some are now entering other business and who are deserving of the patronage of the general public.
Probably no city as large as Oregon City had a better class of men who were formerly engaged in the saloon business, and who have been very liberal in their donations when called upon, either for charitable purposes or for celebrations held in this city, and this is one of the main reasons they should have the support of all.
Among these citizens is William Trudell, who has purchased an interest in the Pacific Highway Garage located on Twelfth and Main Street. Mr. Trudell will act as traveling salesman, and now is well posted on the new line of work he has taken up.
Louis Ruonich, who is familiarly known as "Louie," is having the building formerly occupied as a saloon and Main Street thoroughly renovated and it is to be made into an up-to-date pool room, which will be opened to the public within a few days. A new glass front has been installed, and when completed will be one of the most attractive places of amusement for men in the city.
Louis Noble, who has made his home in Oregon City for many years, where he is well known, has opened an oyster parlor, where also are served lunches and soft drinks, and is now becoming a popular place. The place of business is located in the same building which was formerly occupied as a saloon on Main street near Eighth.
D. M. Klemsen has opened a grocery store in the building formerly occupied by the Oregon City Bank, two doors south of the First National Bank. Mr. Klemsen was formerly in the grocery business in this city, and is doing a good business since starting up in his new place of business.
A. J. Knightly, who has resided in Oregon City for the past 10 years, has leased a portion of the handsome new building on the Eighth and Main Streets. The large rooms are at the rear facing Eighth Street. Mr. Knightly has gone into the real estate business and in connection has a luncheon room. He has one of the largest collections of old coins in the state, including about 15,000, and these are attracting much attention. For the past 20 years Mr. Knightly has been engaged in collecting these rare specimens and stamps, having over 1,500 of the latter. A few of these are on exhibit in the show window and are attracting much attention.

Miss Emily O'Malley a teacher in the Portland schools, but who spent Saturday and Sunday in this city as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O'Malley, entertained the Gypsies at the O'Malley home Saturday evening. Cards were the evening's amusement, when the prizes were awarded to Mrs. M. D. Latourette, Miss Helen Daulton, Charles Griffith and Livy Stipp. Refreshments were served during the evening.
The rooms of Mr. and Mrs. O'Malley's home were prettily decorated for the occasion.
Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Latourette, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. L. Stipp, Mrs. W. R. Logus, Miss Helen Daulton, Miss Zida Goldsmith, Miss Aimee Bollack, of Portland, Miss C. Pratt, H. L. Kelly, Jr., Dr. Guy Mount.
The Queens of Avalon, an organization of young people of the Presbyterian church, will give a basket social in the church parlors Friday evening, when a musical programme prepared by the teacher of the class, Mrs. Leon DeLarzes, will be given, and followed by selling the baskets, containing good things to eat.
The Junior Auxillary of St. Paul's Episcopal church met at the home of Miss Marian Lewthwaite, on Sixth and Water Street Tuesday afternoon.

The afternoon was devoted to needlework, preparatory to shipping to the Alaskan mission. These girls have, during the past year, assisted in a large degree in church work, and have dressed many dolls beside making useful articles that will soon be sent to Alaska to the mission. Their work has been largely under the supervision of Mrs. J. J. Tobin and Miss Marian Lewthwaite. The meetings are held on Tuesday afternoon of each week, and every member is very enthusiastic in the good work that is being carried on.
The Kings Daughters of the St. Paul's Episcopal church met Tuesday afternoon at their hurch, where business was transacted and arrangements made for the work of the society during Lenten season.
There was a good attendance. Among those present were Mrs. J. J. Tobin, Mrs. Vernett, Mrs. E. A. Chapman, Mrs. L. A. Morris, Mrs. Theodore Osmond, Mrs. Livy Stipp, Miss M. L. Holmes, Miss Hester Danneman. A meeting will be held next week, when needlework will again be resumed, as at the former meeting.

MATTERS SOCIAL

Interesting Items of Things Doing in Parties, Receptions, Etc.
Willamette Falls Camp Woodmen of the World, on Friday evening entertained at the Woodman hall, the guests being wives of the members and a few friends and members of the Women of Woodcraft.
The early part of the evening was devoted to a musical and literary programme followed by a banquet.
The third of a series of silver teas under the auspices of the Mt. Pleasant Improvement Club was given at the home of Mrs. J. M. Warnock at Mt. Pleasant Friday afternoon, the hostess being assisted by Mrs. Edward McLaine, Mrs. W. B. Stafford and Miss Ella Williams.
The rooms of the Warnock home were prettily decorated with spring flowers and ferns, and the table decorations were of violets.
The proceeds of these affairs are used for the building of side walks leading to the city limits and for further improvements.

Oscar Lawrence Woodfin entertained at dinner at his home near Center Street Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Viola Gordon Wright, a musician of much note, who has been spending the winter in California, but who has returned to Oregon City to remain for the summer with Mrs. H. P. Brightbill. Mr. Woodfin was assisted in the entertainment of his guests by his two sisters, Misses Della and Willa Woodfin, who are making their home with him.
Covers were laid for Miss Ruth Brightbill, Miss Hester Danneman, Miss Della Woodfin, Miss Willa Woodfin, Mrs. Viola Wright, James Danneman and Oscar Woodfin.
During the evening cards were enjoyed when Mrs. H. P. Brightbill, Miss Weeks and Lloyd Riches were invited in. Mr. Woodfin, during the evening, played several piano selections, among these being some of his own composition.

Lager-Osburn
A very pretty wedding occurred last Wednesday in St. Louis when Mr. J. O. Lager and Miss Ellen Osburn were married. The bride is a very pretty and charming young lady and comes from one of the highly respected pioneer families of southern Illinois.
The groom is a hustling young man of good business qualifications and has been one of the leading teachers in the public schools in southern Illinois for a number of years, but for the past two years has been in Clackamas and Marion counties, Oregon in educational work. After their honeymoon to Florida and southern ports he will be at home at Thompsonville, Ill., where Mr. Lager will look after his large stock farm—Benton Times.

JUSTICE FOR THE MOVIES

Censured and Clean, they Point Morals to the Boys and Girls
Left alone in Portland by his father, a youth of twelve left the metropolis last week with a chum to walk to his home in Canby. The two lads got as far as Oregon City when they were overhauled by the police, and were held in jail to await the arrival of their parents. When "taken up" the boys told a straightforward story indicating that their only reason for starting out upon their 20-mile hike was loneliness and a desire to get to fields with which they were more familiar.
In spite of this certain sensational newspapers burst into song and blamed the "movies" for the trip if the youngsters. The boys were made to say that they had seen so many pictures of adventure that they wanted to "go out and hunt Indians." Perhaps this may be "good journalism," but it is not the truth, and it is a gratuitous slam at the moving picture shows which the latter do not deserve. There is a tendency these days to blame everything on the "movies," just as in former days all outbreaks of boyish spirits were blamed upon "penny dreadfuls" and "dime novels."
With a national board of censorship busy every day in the year, and with many local censors also working overtime, there is little in the moving pictures of today that is not just as it should be. In fact the "silent dramas" are far more "proper" and inspiring than many of the performances given in the vaudeville houses and upon the "legitimate" stage. Some of the films may be melodramatic, but if they are virtue is always triumphant and the villain dies a merited death. And the children depicted in the "movies" are always little cherubs—not at all the kind of youngsters who would be an example to the average youngsters of real life.
There should be no general condemnation of the moving picture theatres. Practically all of them are conducted in a clean and orderly manner, and the films shown are wholesome and educational. There is nothing to be found in them that would lead even the weakest mind astray, and there is much that is well worth seeing. In these days some of the finest actors of the world are engaged to act the plays that are flashed on screens throughout the country, and as educational matter of the finest grade the many "weeklies" cannot be excelled.
The moving pictures have come to stay. They are improving every day, both in technique and in the subject matter which they cover. They have already won a place before the public, and they have reached their present success solely because of the excellence and cleanliness of their subject matter. They are not evil in their influence, and the biased critic who condemns them either does it through an inexcusable ignorance or because of a malice.

THRILLING TALE EXPOSED

New England Newswriter and Enterpriser Create Beautiful "Pipe"
Dids't read those heart-throbs in the Enterpriser last Saturday—all about John W. Thompson—a prominent farmer of Clackamas county, who went back to New England and renewed an acquaintance with his sisters whom he had not seen for 58 years? They were great heart-throbs, in big letters on the front page. Here is the truth about those heart throbs.
Last Friday the identical "special" from Meredith, N. H., which the Enterpriser printed Saturday, was offered the Oregon Daily Journal, of Portland. The first thing members of the Journal staff did was to try and verify the existence of "John W. Thompson." They could find no trace of him in Oregon City. Next they asked County Assessor Jack if such a name appeared on the tax rolls. Mr. Jack looked, but could find no "John W. Thompson" anywhere on his books. So the Journal concluded that "John W." was a myth—and refused to buy the "special." Men on the Journal figured that any "prominent farmer" who was rich enough to go east looking for a sister he hadn't seen for 58 years should at least have paid taxes. As he didn't do that, they figured the "special" was a FAKE.
Saturday the same "special" was offered the Enterpriser. The new night editor put it up to his boss, and without attempting to verify it E. E. Brodie bought the "special." Later he sent the same fake "special" to the Oregonian.
That is the inside story of those heart-throbs!
