hard surfaced roads proposed to be built under this bond issue and as laid out by the County Court and which can be readily extended and which can be readily extended the following year will serve the largest and most populous portion of the county. There are about 400 square miles of land equivalent to 256,000 acres tributary to these pro-posed roads with no haul to a short have a few miles are between haul of a few miles on laterals con-nected with them.

Excepting the known experience of the increase in land values in Van-derburg County, Indiana, following the construction of the permenent all year brick roadways above given and assuming that a like effect would follow here then the gain in this in-crease at an average of $15 per acre-would be $3,840,000.00 or nearly six and one-half times the amount of the bonds. Cutting this in two or to as

This is a severe loss to this county, both in the loss of good progressive farmers and citizens and also in the advance advantiging that we see a people adverse advertising that we as a peo-ple and community are bound to reof Mr. U'Ren, he had no direct or in-direct connection with it. Any similarity it may present to his plat-form statement comes of his advanced thinking rather than from his dictation.

The plan of this Industrial Department and the source provided for revenue is as old as the Socialist for party platform. The principle is fundamental with them and its popularity cannot fail to be pronou especially since the demonstration of the recent and present for that mat ter, winter's campaign of feeding the unemployed in this and other states. The provision for "public works" in this department opens up the op-portunity for building roads in Ore-
