Questions Asked by Correspondent Must be Answered Elsewhere
Oregon City, Or. (Editor Courier, Sir) Like the Japanese schoolboy made famous by Will Irwin, "I ask to know." And these are the things I ask:
What is a democratic county central committee for?
Maybe that looks like one question to you, but it is several, so I say these are the things I ask. In the first place, why didn't the democratic county central committee get out some sort of a slate for democrats, so that those of us who believe in Jeffersonian principles could have gone to the polls last week and voted intelligently on a ballot "that was mostly blank space"? What do we care if it is all framed to have the "candidates" that were picked up in Mr. Hedges' office withdraw after the primaries, so that the county central committee can name Beatie's own bunch? They might at least have told us generally who those candidates were, instead of just telling the little republican daily published in town here.
Then again, how was it that the democratic county central committee couldn't endorse any candidates, and yet got on to and worked itself to death to get Koehler nominated for sheriff? A month before the primaries the word was passed that Koehler was them an, and three days before the primaries this same word was annouced out from the corners. Now that there is anything against Koehler was the man, and three days ago committee ginsmore or him so particularly, and put the soft pedal on our strong?

And yet again, if the chairman of the democratic county central committee was so dead stuck on boosting for Brownell, why didn't he come out and say that George was a friend of his, just the same as Billy Wilson was a friend of his, and boost for them personally and unemotionally? Democrats wouldn't have cared a whoop who the county chairman boosted for on his own account, but it did look queer to us to see so little real party work done, and so much personal sneaking around behind the scenes to pass the word for Koehler, Brownell and Wilson.
And whom do you suppose they will be for in November, the party candidate or the candidate that Beatie tells them to be for? Maybe if I get the answer to these questions before you do I'll write and tell you.—T. Lord C.

BOARD OF TRADE ORGANIZED
Business Men of City Take Steps to Remedy Conditions
The newly organized Board of Trade in this city will be just what its members make it. It has a splendid opportunity to make good, and it is organized to fill this want.
The business men behind this organization know too well the relations of the country and city, and they hope to remedy them. They propose to talk little and saw wood. They propose to take up the irritants one by one and see if they cannot be removed. They hope to bring about friendly relations between the city and country by getting right after the grievances and adjusting them.
The organization starts out with Clyde G. Huntley as president; Geo. H. Bannion, vice president; A. A. Price, secretary. The following are the committees: Executive, Frank Busch, L. Adams, William Anderson, H. L. Martin and Mr. Larson; membership, Roy Cox, T. L. Chairman and Dr. A. L. Beatie; by-laws, G. H. Bannion, V. Harris and J. Le-vitt
