Stellar Elements.

The spectroscopic shows the lines so far in stellar research of forty-five elements well known here in the earth. Hydrogen exists in all stars in enormous quantities. Iron and a number of other metals likewise are incandescent in the sun, and in all other stars bright enough to send rays into the grating for analysis.

An element named coronium is now seen glowing in the envelopes of the sun, but it has not been discovered here on earth yet. Helium was seen in the sun for a number of years before it was finally discovered in the earth. Stars vary in the character of the rays emitted; therefore all stars are not alike. And the differences indicate differences in their ages.—New York American.

Wanted Information.

At Bellevue hospital many of the orderlies are harmless and willing men known as "soft countenances." That is, they are the thousands committed to the public institutions while out of employment.

One of these was put in charge of a contagious case for the first time. "Remember, Clancy," said the doctor, "this case must be isolated." "All right, sorr," was the reply. "Where will I get the ice?"—New York World.

Flight of Life.

Child, child! No more! As if driven on by unseen spirits the sun steeds of time are running away with the light chariot of our destiny, and for us remains nothing except with high courage to hold fast the reins. And now to the right, now to the left, from a boulder on one hand or a precipice on the other to guide the steeds in safety. Whither it goes, who can say? One scarcely remembers whence he came.—From Goethe's "Egmont."

What Worried Him.

"What side are you on in this debate?" asked the constituent. "I don't like to say," replied the young statesman. "My own opinions don't matter so much, but it worries me to realize that whatever way I vote I'm almost sure to hurt somebody's feelings."—Washington Star.

Vain Man's Weakness.

Pity the poor egotist whose vanity has swollen to the point that he thinks he can influence a woman in the matter of dress.—Houston Post.

A Great Invention.

Mr. Edison is apt to be rather crusty with visitors to his workrooms when they ask too many questions. "One day a rather talkative journalist pointed at a model. "What's that?" he asked.

Mr. Edison, who was getting very weary of the man's endless questions, replied blandly: "That, my dear sir, is a cradle that rocks by sound. You put the baby in and the louder it howls the faster the cradle rocks!"—Pearson's Weekly.
