

When you feel Lazy, Stretched, Half Sick, Blue and Out of Sorts, look to the Liver; it is Torpid.

HERBINE
Is the Remedy You Need.

It is an invigorating tonic for a torpid liver. The first dose brings improvement a few days use puts the liver in fine vigorous condition. Herbine also extends its restorative influence to the stomach and bowels. It helps digestion and food assimilation, purifies the bowels and brings back the habit of regular daily bowel movements. When the stomach, liver and bowels are active, bilious impurities no longer obstruct functional processes, the result of which is renewed energy, mental activity and cheerful spirits.

CHIEF SHAW'S REPORT

Business has not been very brisk in the police department since the wise "Committee of 100" closed up the Oregon City groggshops last January.

Following is chief Shaw's report for the month of June:
Oregon City, Oregon, June 30, 1914.

To the Hon. Mayor and City Council of Oregon City, Ore.

I herewith submit my report of the office of the Chief of Police for the month of June, 1914.

There were five violations of city ordinances, one for driving an auto faster than the ordinance calls for in the city and four were for drunkenness. During the month there were twelve arrests made of which two were turned over to the Justice of the Peace. Five were sent to Portland, three paid fines amounting to $27.50 and one dollar was collected from Sergeant of Detectives Price, of the Portland Police force, who paid for the breakfasts of four boys who were kept in jail over night, June 20th.

There were 53 men lodged in the city jail, 23 meals at 25 cents per meal, $5.75.

Respectfully,
E. L. SHAW,
Chief of Police

Citroxol
Give it to the Children
Finest physic in the world for children. They love to take it—it tastes like lemonade. It is mild—and suits their sensitive organs. It is thorough—and keeps their systems cleansed, sweet and wholesome. It does the same for grown-ups, too. An ideal laxative. Sold by all druggists.

This week a party of visitors from Missouri were in Oregon City, on account of the water they went to Portland to live, while preferring Oregon City as a home. Thus does Oregon City lose out. The writer has the names and addresses of this party and can supply them to the Water Committee if called upon.

RILEY FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON
The funeral of Mrs. Sarah Riley, who died last Thursday night at her home at Mt. Pleasant, was held at the family home Sunday afternoon and interment was made in Mountain View cemetery. She had been ill for some time preceding her death which was due to a complication of diseases. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Lee, three children, and her husband, M. Riley, survive her.

Mrs. Riley was born in Missouri in 1867, and came to Oregon with her husband 16 years ago, first settling in Clackamas County.

A MESSAGE TO WOMEN
Who Are "Just Ready to Drop."
When you are "just ready to drop," when you feel so weak that you can hardly drag yourself about—and because you have not slept well, you get up as tired-out next morning as when you went to bed, you need help.

Miss Lea Dumas writes from Malone, N. Y., saying: "I was in a badly run-down condition for several weeks but two bottles of Vinol put me on my feet again and made me strong and well. Vinol has done me more good than all the other medicines I ever took."

If the careworn, run-down women, the pale, sickly children and feeble old folks around here would follow Miss Dumas' example, they too, would soon be able to say that Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron remedy, had built them up and made them strong.

It is a wonderful, strength creator and body-builder, and we sell it under a guarantee of satisfaction. You get your money back if Vinol does not help you.

SHOULD INTEREST CREAMERY PATRONS.

Some experiments that have been conducted recently by the dairy division of the department in the matter of determining the keeping qualities of butter should be of definite interest to all individual buttermakers as well as to patrons of creameries. For several years past it has been the custom of the government to buy from 500,000 to 700,000 pounds of the best butter obtainable for the use of the men in the navy. It was found as a result of several years' experiments that if the cream was pasteurized (heated to not less than 160 degrees to kill germ life) and churned while sweet the fishy and other flavors were got rid of and that the keeping quality of the butter was greatly increased. Samples of the 1913 ruck of butter were examined in Washington recently and found to have scored from 94.7 to 95 when packed. When graded the other day it was found to score from 91.3 to 93.3. This meant a deterioration in quality of from 1.6 to 2.9 points, yet when taken from storage the samples were still of high grade. The experiment lends a good deal of encouragement to the plan of handling cream in the manner suggested and churning it sweet, for it will mean a vast improvement in the quality of butter put out by the average creamery. The point is one that every creamery patron and every creamery manager and buttermaker should consider seriously. A cent or two a pound on a few pounds of butter may not be a great deal for one farmer for any week or month, but when there are hundreds of patrons who supply cream through the year the loss is no small sum.

NOTHING TO BRAG OF.

The growing of oats on the same piece of land continuously for a period of forty years is nothing to brag of from an agricultural standpoint. However, this same thing was bragged of recently by a farmer a few counties north of where the writer lives. He refers to the fact that the past year such a piece of land raised the largest crop of oats it ever produced. This may be true. If so it is a remarkable evidence of the original fertility of the soil, but it is a decided reflection on the intelligence of the owner. It may be that in his case the results are delayed and do not appear, but he cannot any more get around the natural law governing the depletion of soil fertility by continual cropping to a crop that takes from and does not restore fertility to the soil than he can lift himself by his boot straps or cause water to run uphill. Perhaps this farm cannot be bankrupted in his lifetime, but he would do well to keep in mind that there are generations to follow him, perhaps some of his own children, who will have to be nourished by the products of this land. He would do well to keep them in mind.

HORSE PLAGUE PREVENTION.

While investigation into the causes of the horse plague which carried off thousands of horses in the central Mississippi valley a couple of years ago does not indicate the exact bacterial agent responsible for the disease, enough information has been gathered to suggest preventive measures for its control. The trouble has been diagnosed as cerebrospinal meningitis. It may be largely prevented by feeding horses only clean, well cured forage and grain and pure water. In the sections where the losses sustained were heaviest the epidemic came after a long period of drought, followed by a considerable rainfall and a humid condition of the atmosphere. This condition seemed to favor the development and spread of the disease, which was contracted by eating green or newly cured forage.

FIGHTING CANADA THISTLES.

Farmers who have the Canada thistle problem on their hands should send to the agricultural department, Washington, for Farmers' Bulletin No. 545, which takes up in detail the best methods of eradicating the pest. Among some of the tools recommended in this bulletin are a nine inch sweep shovel, which cuts off the stems of the weeds just below the surface of the ground. For straggling thistles appearing after the last machine cultivation it is recommended to cut just below the surface with a hand hoe at intervals of a week or two during the remainder of the growing season. If plants like Canada thistle and quack grass can be kept from developing leaves above ground for a period of five or six months the plant will die in the same way that an animal will die if it stops breathing.

AN ORCHARD CAUTION.

With the spring a good deal drier than normal, it will be a good plan to keep close tab on moisture conditions in the orchard soil before deciding on a cessation of cultivation and sowing a cover crop to absorb moisture and to plow under next spring. Should May and June be as dry as April has been or as dry and hot as June was last season it will be safer to continue cultivation in the orchard beyond July 15 unless there is abundant moisture in the soil at that time. In the case of one fine orchard that came under the writer's notice last year what promised to be a seven carload crop was cut to barely three as a result of an unusual shortage of moisture during midsummer and a cessation of cultivation after the middle of July.

Last week the Messenger stated that it would be hard for any one in Oregon to say whether Congressman Hawley was in Washington or London, he has been so still for the past few months. One of Mr. Hawley's friends comes to the rescue and informs this office that he has received a letter from the Congressman from the First district dated at Washington, June 18. This will be good news to the friends of Mr. Hawley who may have been misled into the belief that he was either dead or spending the Summer in the Old Country.—Oregon Messenger.

ANOTHER ONE

G. A. Henri Preaches Dr. Milliken a Sermon on The Science of The Bible

Oregon City, July 5, '14.

Editor Courier:— I appreciate your kindness in publishing letters from individuals, as it brings us together and sometimes it teaches us to think for ourselves, which will lift the human race in logic as well as in morality; because the way you think is the way you do. As our thoughts cannot be any better than we think, and if we shall do what we think is right, who else has to suffer but ourselves if this, which we think is right, should be wrong? And has not one individual's thought added to another individual's thought made all that, which many have made?

In regard to a communication from me, published in your paper, July 25, of which friend Milliken kindly expressed his opinion, you will kindly permit me to address Mr. Milliken as follows:

That you may understand what I mean by Science, let me, to the explanation in the dictionary, add this, "Science is a reaction caused by human thought acting through the physical senses upon a fact. This must bring the truth." No man can think a thought unless there are facts intruding through the physical senses.

This is my answer to your first question which will also contradict your statement in question number two "that science is the product of a civilization due to the bible."

To still further verify this as not so, let me ask you did not you as a child first get science? Did not science spring forth when you for the first time opened your eyes to see so many facts in this world, or when your mother's voice, for the first time was sounding in your ears?

How then can science be a product of civilization? "No, thank goodness, it is not so." Civilization is a product due to science.

And the bible is the spoils from a civilization due to science. You may say that the bible is a product, but then in the same way as the ashes from a fire is a product and the ignorant hopes to find life in it where he finds nothing but ash. This will make it clear why science never contradicts the bible and answers your third question, and also to your sixth, as the teachers of a book which is nothing but ashes are not able to teach morality. Some of the teachers of the scripture in Christ's days were not able to teach morality, so say the teachers of the scripture today not able to teach morality. It has to come from science same as Christ got his flawless character from his own scientific knowledge.

To be sure he did not get it from those who crucified him.

In your fifth question I will not judge because I only express my own thoughts.

To the fourth let me give my own experience. When the bible was first introduced to me some twenty years ago it measured fourteen square inches and eight inches thick, printed with fairly small letters on thin paper. But how big is it today? Rather small—a decline even if more copies have been sold. Make it smaller and more will read it. With your knowledge reduce it.

In conclusion, my dear friend, you say that God's work is an evolution. Then who can do this God's work? The one that stands pat to his old ideas or thoughts is the one that thinks and reflects over all things. If you stand pat you are where the chief of priests and the elders stood when Christ was speaking to them. They did not listen to him—they would not carry on this evolution.

Do not make a God out of the bible that you may find Christ of today a Christ you can follow, a real Christ. The Christ who is to be seen. As a drunkard under the influences of the liquor sees imaginary things, so even under the influences of a book you see and feel imaginary things. But accept the Christ of today—a Christ I would call education by observation of what is today.

Sincerely,
G. A. HENRI
(Editor's Note:—Whether we consider the Bible as substantially true or not, it still stands upon its merits as an incomparable masterpiece of literary art. Whether we consider its teachings as scientific or otherwise we must admit that its influence upon civilization and the moral development of the human race has been of incalculable benefit in the past, and appears to be increasing rapidly. Last year the American Bible Society distributed 5,251,176 volumes, nearly a third of them going to China.)

In the past an ignorant use of the Bible has been responsible for many horrible crimes. Even since the settlement of America we have witnessed the lamentable spectacle of many defenceless old persons being burned at the stake, notably at Salem, Mass, because they were suspected of being witches, as the result of ignorant Biblical deductions. But the fault has always been with the ignorant reader or preacher and not with the old Book itself. For an intelligent reading of the Bible a very broad knowledge of its contemporary (Ancient) history is necessary; and without that knowledge any attempt at just criticism of the great religious classics is utter folly.)

LAND PRODUCTS SHOW

Great Exhibition Will Open in Portland October 26

It has been definitely decided that the commercial, industrial and development organizations of Oregon will hold a big industrial and products show in Portland from Oct. 26 to Nov. 14, and the Armory, together with one or more temporary structures, has been selected as the site. Mr. Louis W. Buckley, formerly of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, has been selected to manage the big show. About 80,000 square feet of space will be utilized and this will be nearly equally divided between soil products and products of the workshop. About 12,000 square feet will be used to show municipal and educational work. It is expected that the best showing of apples and other fruit ever made in Oregon will be found at this show. The transportation companies have taken an active interest in it and practical co-operation will be rendered by the Portland Commercial Club, Portland Chamber of Commerce, The Portland Aid Club, the Retailers' Association, the Rotary Club and by the press of Portland and the state at large.

The premium list for this land show, which will be issued in about ten days, will provide for about $20,000 in cash and special prizes. In addition to the premiums, specially engraved diplomas will be given. It is expected that the states of Utah, Idaho and Washington will send land product exhibits and otherwise participate in this great exposition. County and district exhibits are particularly desired by the management, also a complete showing of the various phases of the lumber industry of the Northwest. The managers have opened general offices at 408 Commercial Club Building.

Olds and Kraxburger Get Nomination

The vote for Clackamas county representatives on the Progressive ticket resulted in a tie between Edward Olds, F. Kraxburger and G. T. Hunt. The tie was united by Miss Violet Welborn, stenographer in the office of Sec'y of State Olcott at Salem, who drew lots according to law, which resulted in the nominations going to Messrs Olds and Kraxburger. Mr. Hunt is up for election on the regular Republican ticket, as is also Mr. Kraxburger.

SHALL WE VOTE WITH THE BOOZE BUNCH

Dr. Smith spoke at the M. E. Church Sunday night, but he utterly ignored the Prohibition question. Everyone who believes the liquor business should die in the State of Oregon must realize that to kill this monster we must have men who are out and out squarely against the traffic. The liquor interests are putting more energy into electing men who are friendly to them or are not clearly against them than they put into the fight against the amendment. The amendment has no enforcing clause therefore it must be backed by dry men in the legislative halls and by a dry governor. Provided the amendment carries in the state it will only express the will of the people. To say that as governor he will enforce the laws is not sufficient for we shall have no law to enforce against liquor unless we have special legislation.

The important thing before us at this time is to stand solid for the man or men who are openly out against the beast and will not be satisfied short of its death state-wide, nation-wide, and world-wide.

S. MACDONALD

Efforts of P. R. L. & P. Co.

Nothing develops a country faster than inter-urban lines, for they are always followed by homes and business institutions of various kinds. This is one of the advantages of Clackamas county, for this county is fast becoming a section with a network of electric lines, which is due to the efforts of the Portland Railway Light and Power Co.

Viola News

Oh, you think Viola is dead, but if you had been on the bank of Clear Creek near the store of T. Eaden you would have known there was some humanity alive yet. Friends, relatives and neighbors gathered recently to picnic there. Don't you forget it! So cake and it surely was enjoyed by the following persons:

The bride was dressed in cream-landsdown gown, being the dress her mother wore over 20 years ago. Her match was her gown.

They started for Bar View, Tillamook Beach, at 3 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Pattison will be at home to friends on or before Sept. 30th. Our best wishes are that their path be ever strewn with roses and the years be full of happiness.

It speaks well for the courses offered as well as the kind of instruction given in the school of agriculture at the University of Illinois that of 122 students who will this year graduate from that department 115 will go back to the farms and put into practice the better farming methods learned at the college.

One Missourian evidently has to be shown when it comes to the wisdom of the growing of sweet clover. He states that the chief trouble in connection with it is not getting it started, but getting rid of it after it is started. It is his contention that stock will not eat it if they can get anything else to eat, while as a green manure he prefers to plow under a crop of rye.

A New York reader of a well known western trade paper reports receiving from $9 to $12 per barrel for his Northern Spy and Wagener apples. It goes without saying that these apples were not picked with a rake or handled with a scoop shovel. Rather they were all wrapped in paper the day they were picked and were never dumped from a basket or other receptacle. The instance simply shows what quality coupled with care will do.
