Should a member of the State Editorial Association ever come before Judge Campbell for sentence the judge would probably sentence him for life—and longer if he lived. The men were all going south he said, and that probably during the day hundreds would pass down the railroad, some on foot, and many stealing rides on trains.

Building Lasting Roads

Contractor Cromer has a large of men, teams and machinery at work on the county road near Oak Grove. By the middle of next week he expects to have the work completed. Mr. Cromer has built about 2 miles of this road this past summer between Oak Grove and Gladstone. It is classed as the Royal Bitulitic, and consists of 16 ft. wide of the best possible kind of road bed. The sub grade is first graded and rolled firm with a 12 ton roller, then the first course of 4 inch rock is laid and rolled to a 4 inch thickness, then a coat of medium or 2 in. rock is spread and rolled, then coated with heavy asphalt oil. Another coat of medium rock and oil and then another coat of screenings well rolled and broomed until firm and smooth, under a 12 ton roller. This makes 8 inches of rock, oil and screenings in the road bed. Judge Anderson has several times visited this road while under construction and Engineer Hobson gives the different roads his personal attention every day. Overseer Paul Rothe is inspector on this job and it is his duty to see that the work is not slighted; the contractor is also desirous of making a good firm road and this piece of work will stand for years as a sample of one of the many pieces of practical roads that have been built in this county the past year.

WOMEN, CAN YOU?

Can You Vote for Places not Fit for You or Your Children?

The Prohibition amendment should pass at the coming election because it will help to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare, happiness and prosperity of the people and secure the blessings of liberty from drunkenness to posterity.

Prohibition will prohibit if officials perform their sworn duty. If we can pass a prohibition law we can quite as well elect officials who will enforce this law. The reason above all others why the law should pass is that it will mean the betterment and uplifting of humanity, although from a material standpoint we would also be the gainers as some of the following facts will prove—

We pay out annually in Oregon ten million dollars for intoxicants and the revenue from the liquor traffic is only nine hundred thousand dollars. Oregon spends two million dollars a year to keep up peace officers, courts, jails, prisons and asylums, and court records prove that three-fourths of the business transacted by all these together is derived from the liquor traffic, and the taxpayer foots the bill while the liquor dealers pocket the profits. How is that from a business point of view? But we need not go to statistics to be convinced. No one need go very far from home to see for himself the evil results of drink and that the liquor traffic is responsible for broken unhappy and impoverished homes and endless number of crimes.

What about the "personal liberty" of the man who can "take a drink or leave it alone???" I say then it is his duty to leave it alone for the sake of his weaker brother who cannot resist the temptation if he would, and who exercises his liberty to an excess that his wife and children and whoever he comes in contact with are deprived of their personal liberty.

UREN OR WITHYCOMBE?

A Labor Union View of the gubernatorial Situation

The following analysis of the gubernatorial situation is written for the Portland Labor Press by Edgar W. Stahl, a student of economics. He gives figures to prove that the contest for governor lies between U'Ren and Withycombe, which are decidedly interesting to those who make and unmake governors by figures of the past.

What is U'Ren's strength as a candidate for Governor? In 1910 the county home rule tax amendment was adopted by a vote of 44,171, equal to 36 per cent of the whole number of ballots cast; in 1912, 47,158 men voted against the repeal of this measure, equal to 33 per cent of the whole number of ballots at that presidential election. The $1500 home tax exemption amendment is much more popular than the county home rule tax measure ever was. Most people who vote for the $1500 exemption will vote for U'Ren and they will be more than 33 per cent of all the people who vote.

On that basis, if the percentage of the registration voting this year is equal to that of 1912, U'Ren will have more than 72,000 votes out of the 216,000 ballots that will probably be cast. This is on the basis of not less than 33 per cent, which is the minimum vote for tax measures with which he has been identified, except only the single tax.

A careful estimate of what he will get from different factions gives him even greater strength. The 47,158 who voted against repeal of the county home rule amendment in 1912 probably have 20,000 women voters in their families who are likely to vote for U'Ren, because of his people's power record and the $1500 home tax exemption measure this year; he will get much the larger part of the "dry" vote and should receive not less than 10,000 from this source; the Socialist element will certainly prefer him to either Smith or Withycombe, and he should get at least half as many from them as voted for the Socialist ticket in 1912, which would add 8,000 more; U'Ren should get at least 7,000 from the independent registration; from the Progressives who know Gill cannot be elected; from the Democrats who are dissatisfied with Smith as West's legatee, and from the miscellaneous registration U'Ren ought to have at least 5,000 more.

Not all the women in the families of the home rule tax supporters will vote for U'Ren and some of the men are counted twice in the above estimate because part of them are registered among the Progressives, Socialists, Prohibitionists and Independents, but allowing 20,000 off for these still leaves U'Ren with 77,000. A vote for Law Doctor U'Ren is the only possible chance to defeat Horse Doctor Withycombe.

What is the strength of the Democrat, Doctor Smith?

The straight Democratic vote in 1912 was not quite 25 per cent of the whole number of votes cast; this was the vote for Justice Slater, their candidate for the supreme court, and it is not likely to be a greater percentage this year, and that would give Dr. Smith 54,000; but there must be taken from this the dissatisfied Democrats, probably not less than one-fifth, which would bring Dr. Smith's vote from his Democratic party down to 43,000; for good measure it may be admitted that he will have 45,000 Democratic votes. He must have at least 30,000 more than his party vote before he equals U'Ren. Where can he get them? It is not at all likely that he can foot 15,000 "dry" and 20,000 "wets" into believing that he agrees with both of them. I have allowed Dr. Smith his greatest possible strength. He certainly cannot expect to get more than half of the straight saloon vote from Dr. Withycombe; neither is it reasonable to suppose that he can get all the "dry" votes that do not go to U'Ren, for Withycombe will certainly get some of them.

Clearly this election is between Withycombe and U'Ren. One or the other will certainly be elected. A vote for the Democrat is half a vote for Dr. Withycombe. Which do you want?
