material was worn around the waist, ending in the back with a large up-and-down bow of the checked silk.

My first illustration shows the trim tailored lines of an up-to-date shirt waist of sand-colored chiffon and a trim black skirt.

The separate waist and skirt are holding a strong place in the wardrobe of the woman of today.

The waists are usually trim and tailored in their lines, and the skirt should be short and flaring around the lower edge, while the shoes of sand, gray, black or tan should lace up the side instead of the front.

Large white linen or pique collars, with cuffs to match, are charming worn over the simple waist of gray or black, giving the effect of a Puritan or Quaker costume.

Some waists are made with a square or oval opening in front—something like the shape of a man's shirt bosom, only not so deep.

Children's clothes, from the little tots to the juniors, show the simplest of lines. Linen is used again and again in blue, white, and the soft shades of rose and tan which are so smart.

This same girl had removed a coat of Dutch blue chiffon broadcloth made with an Empire waist and pleated skirt.

The party dresses for the little girls this age were made of sheer organza or batiste. One was made with the decided Empire waist and was charming, while the other was made with a waistline just below the normal.

Members of the Swastika Athletic club, of the county seat, held a picnic Monday evening at Cedar Island. Those who enjoyed the moonlight supper and the launch trip down were Mitchel Story, Edward Sheahan, Carnott Spencer, Burt Lageson, Neil Sullivan, Donald Silcox, Ward Hammond, Bernice Johnson, Lucile Evans, Pansy Oswald, Alice Holman, Louise Sheahan and Katie Freeze.

DRUGS AND POISONS.

Popular Delusion of the Safety of the "Purely Vegetable."

"Of all popular delusions as to drugs and chemical compounds," said a prominent chemist, "perhaps the most harmful is that concerning medicines that are 'purely vegetable.'"

"Now, as a matter of fact, not only has the question of whether a medicine is vegetable or mineral not the slightest relation to its poisonous or nonpoisonous qualities, but in practical medicine it would seem that most of the common poisons are vegetable.

Look at the poisons most commonly known and note their composition. Take strychnine, acetone, opium, alcohol, digitalis, hyocine and cocaine. Every single one of these is 'purely vegetable,' yet most of the deaths by chronic poisoning come from one of these.

"On the other hand, many minerals, so far from being poisonous, are not only harmless, but soothing. Bismuth, a pure mineral, is given in quite large quantities even to small babies for the purpose of allaying inflammation, while iron is one of the most common tonics.

"Soda is not only one of the most universal and harmless of minerals, but it is also largely used in our foods. Salt is a pure mineral, yet it is not only necessary to life, but one of the greatest cleansers and preservatives known. Without it bacon and ham would be impossible and the delicious dil pickle unknown.

"Of course, there are minerals that are highly poisonous, such as mercury, arsenic and potassium in certain combinations, but they are neither more deadly nor more numerous than the vegetable poisons. This also may be said in favor of the mineral poison. It is considered by many physicians that its action is much more certain than its vegetable brother; rather, vegetable poisons are much more uncertain in their action upon the human system.

"Just how the public ever got the delusion that the 'purely vegetable' was a badge of harmlessness I do not know, but the fact remains that such is the common belief."—Washington Star.

They Used Charles Lamb.

Franking privileges in England were greatly abused in days gone by. The government employees' friends shared in his opportunities. In a letter written by Wordsworth in 1815 the poet said: "By means of a friend in London I can have my letters free. His name is Lamb, and if you will add an 'e' to his name he will not open the letters. Direct as below without anything further. Mr. Lamb, India house, London." Coleridge, too, saw that a postage saved was a postage gained and made use of the Mr. Lamb of the India house.—Charles Lamb.

Art and Nature.

Art is the revelation of man, and not merely that, but likewise the revelation of nature, speaking through man. Art pre-exists in nature, and nature is reproduced in art. As vapors from the ocean, floating landward and dissolved in rain, are carried back in rivers to the ocean, so thoughts and the semblances of things that fall upon the soul of man in showers flow out again in living streams of art and lose themselves in the great ocean, which is nature. Art and nature are not, then, discordant, but ever harmoniously working in each other.—Longfellow.

A Rumanian Custom.

A strange custom is still observed in Roumania. When a servant has displeased his or her master the offender takes his boots in his hands and places them before the bedroom door of his master. It is a sign of great submission, and the boots are either kicked away as an intimation that the fault will not be forgiven, or else the servant is told to place them on his feet, which shows that he is forgiven.

Dress Well.

It is not enough that people shall be clad, they must be dressed. "Gestly thy habit as thy purse can buy," was the advice of Polonius to his son, "rich, but not gaudy, for the apparel oft proclaims the man," and the advice is just as good today as it was 300 years ago.

Some Difference.

"What's become of that rascally young son of the Blowers?" "I understand he is to take a course of ethics in one of our modern penological institutions."

"There! And I heard he had been sent to jail."—Baltimore American.

Connection Plain.

Brown—"What a rig that woman has on! Jones (looking)—By Jove, that reminds me I've got to get some castor oil for—Brown—"Eh! I fall to see how that rig can remind you of castor oil? Boston Transcript.

Native Advantage.

"That little Irish girl fairly floats when she dances." "Well, you know she comes from Cork."—Baltimore American.

When you can't remove an obstacle plow around it.—Abraham Lincoln.

FARMER CHARGES BIAS

New Era Man Says County Seat is in Cahoots with Railroad

"Yes, sir, you and your danged city are in cahoots with the Southern Pacific railroad, that's what you are." So said a New Era farmer Wednesday to Chief of Police Ed Shaw.

And he made a pretty good argument, too. The farmer overhauled Chief Shaw on the street, and said he wanted some information.

"That's one of the best things I give," said the Chief. "All right then, you give me some," said the farmer. "I live at New Era. I drink beer. My wife drinks beer. We give our hands beer when they have done a good day's work in the fields. And when we have friends come to eat with us Sunday we have beer on the table. Usually I go down to Portland about once a month and buy a barrel of bottled beer, see? I haul it out to my farm. To get home I have to pass through Oregon City. And now under your dinged laws, if I haul beer through your city I'm likely to be arrested. It isn't fair. I see what you're trying to do, you want me to ship it to the Southern Pacific out to New Era. You and your danged city are in cahoots with the Southern Pacific railroad, that's what you are."

"Why don't you go to Barlow and get your beer from the saloon there," asked Chief Shaw.

"Why don't I? Well, I'll tell you why I don't," said the farmer. "If I go to Barlow, everybody knows what I went there for. But when I go to Portland nobody knows my business. I've got a right to buy beer where I please, and haul it home; and if you arrest me I'll make it not going for your city, see?"

Chief Shaw offered no further advice. Yet he admits it to be true that bad luck is apt to attend the New Era resident if he gets caught by Patrolman Woodward and Cooke hauling beer through the city streets at night.

Firemen on Visit

Members of the Oregon City fire department visited the St. Johns department Monday evening of this week, making the trip by automobile. Among those who went on the trip were Chief Frost, Harry Seiler, William Priebe, L. R. Noble, Joe Beaulieu, Harry Bradley, Al Cox, Gerald Warner, Frank Schoenborn, F. McWhartzinger, Charles Nichols, J. W. Schwaetinger, J. R. Sheldon, Bob Austin, Frank Kobolink and H. Hendrickson.

VETERAN PASSES AWAY

John J. Bargfeld, of Logan, Answers Final Roll Call

Wednesday morning "taps" sounded for John J. Bargfeld, a veteran of the Civil War, and a well-known resident of the Logan country. Mr. Bargfeld was 79 years of age, and first settled in Logan in 1885.

His widow, two sons and three daughters mourn his death. The funeral will be held Friday morning at ten o'clock, and burial will take place in Redlands cemetery, under the auspices of Harding Grange of which he was a member. Mr. Bargfeld served during the war in Battery E of the Third New York Artillery, and was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Opening Day at Panama-Pacific Exposition Broke All Exposition Attendance Records

ALL attendance records for expositions were broken at the opening of the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco on Feb. 20. Vast crowds thronged the grounds when President Wilson presided at the opening.

The Exposition has already demonstrated at this early date that it will be a great success in every way.

HOLD-UP IS STAGED

Guests of Milwaukie Resort are Robbed as Climax of Evening. Automobile patrons of the Friar's Club and the Hotel Belle, Milwaukie's chief points of nocturnal interest, while on their way home Sunday morning at half past two were "stuck up" by a quartet of bandits, two of whom were particularly active, and two of whom acted as look-outs.

A gentleman who said he was C. W. Olive, of 251 Clay street, Portland, and who said that the robbers relieved him of $20, was the first victim of the robbers. Ladies and gentlemen riding in Olive's car, whose names were conveniently not recorded by Multnomah deputies who responded to the alarm, said they also lost money and jewelry.

While the robbers were entertaining Olive's party, another car, said to have been driven by V. O. Lengacher, arrived on the scene, and was also stuck up. While the robbers were lining up Lengacher's party a motor-cycle pop-pop-popped up to the scene, and the robbers thinking that the police were upon them, fled precipitately.

Deputy Sheriffs Phillips, Ward and Christofferson, of Multnomah county, hurried out to the scene when news of the robbery was telephoned to Portland, and later they notified the Clackamas county authorities. Sheriff Wilson and his deputies are "working on the case."

Molalla Boys Win

Oregon City's high school baseball team had its hopes for the county championship shattered Saturday when the Molalla high school boys took it into camp in a 5 to 2 game. Dungey officiated on the mound for the county seat youngsters, while Vick twirled for Molalla. The championship of the county now lies between Molalla and Milwaukie high school teams.

Parsch Found Guilty

A jury in the circuit court Monday found Martin Parsch guilty of assault; the case growing out of a fight at Willamette last fall between the defendant and John Kamme. Parsch drew a knife in the course of the fracas, which was over the amount of pay he should have received for chopping wood, and then threw boiling water on Kamme.

Exposition Is Enjoyed

Among many who were recent guests at the Hotel Plaza, in San Francisco, while they were visiting the world's fair, were Mrs. E. Kenneth Stanton and Miss Maud Anderson, of Oregon City. Both of the Oregon visitors expressed themselves as delighted with the attractions of San Francisco and its great exposition.
