Lingering colds, bronchial coughs, la grippe colds and similar ailments that "hang on" until May are likely to last all summer if not cured.

ELECTRIC SPARKS
An electric fly catcher has been perfected as a matter of course.

The telephone lines in Melbourne, Australia, are all under ground. It required five years of work.

The Victorian falls of the Zambesi, in South Central Africa, are capable of furnishing 35,000,000 horse power of electrical energy.

An electric light is now made small enough to be attached to the ordinary dry battery cell. It will give a strong beam of light for several hours.

Last year, according to the census taker, the total output of the 5521 central electric stations in this country was 14,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours of current.

An enterprising ranchman at Bismarck, N. D., having in his ranch an artesian well delivering water at a pressure of 70 lb. per sq. in., is utilizing the water therefrom to run an electric plant to supply energy for his own purposes.

A student of Des Moines has made a tiny electric motor which is hardly half as large as a copper cent. It is a little over a quarter of an inch high and weighs 20 grains. It is thought to be the smallest electric motor in the world.

Extensive experiments have been carried out with wireless telephony between the Schenectady and Pittsfield plants of the General Electric Company utilizing its wireless telegraph system for the work. Conversations of 50 miles were made with the greatest ease.

BOLT PLAYS PRANKS
Lightning at Beaver Creek Hits House and Nearby Barn

In a recent thunder storm at Beaver Creek, lightning struck the home of R. L. Badger, running down the chimney and shocking Miss Ethel Courdon, of Portland, who was visiting at the Badger ranch at the time.

Just before striking the house the bolt split, apparently, and part of it leaped to the barn, where a nine-months old registered Jersey calf was shocked and paralyzed.

The storm that ranged over the region was of unusual severity, and aside from the two points on the Badger ranch that were hit, a number of bolts struck in the neighborhood. No serious damage was done, however.

Leisurely Tasmania. Leisure is regarded as so notable a characteristic of Tasmania that it bears the nickname of "the land of lots of time," or "the land of sleep a lot," while its inhabitants are called "tassies" and "jam eaters," the latter being an allusion to the island's great fruit farms.

The same way a right handed man, being asked to draw a spiral, naturally makes what is called a "left handed" spiral—that is, one that curves clockwise, while the left handed man draws the "right handed" spiral, or that which curves counter clockwise.

In his book, "The Curves of Life," Theodore Andrea Cook says that a Sherlock Holmes could tell from the curves of a carpenter's shavings whether he was right or left handed, as a right handed carpenter invariably drives his plane a little to the left, pushing right handed screws, while the left handed carpenter pushes his plane a little to the right and produces left handed screws.

Screws and corkscrews are right hand screws unless made for some special purpose. Left hand screws can be bought from any large hardware dealer. Coffin screws for some unexplained reason are always left handed, and it has been suggested that this may be owing to the position of his heart on the left side. So all tools and weapons have been adapted to right handed men. This is true of the adze, plane, scythe, gimlet, auger, scissors, snuffers, shears, etc.

The strongly left handed man will continue to use such tools with his left hand, even though with inconvenience, but he in whom the left handedness is not a strong bias becomes ambidextrous through the use of the right handed contrivances and appliances of everyday life.

Mr. Cook mentions many customs that have arisen through the normal right handedness of man. Among these is the rule of driving to the left, which still obtains in England, Portugal, Sweden and parts of Austria, Italy and Switzerland. This is a survival of riding days, when men held the reins in their left hands in order to leave their right free to use their swords.

The most notable example of a left handed artist is Leonardo da Vinci. He also wrote from right to left. So that one who wants to read his manuscripts or the annotations on his drawings must use a mirror. This, according to Mr. Cook, is the natural method of the left handed man.

Presidential Cheeses. The first monster cheese presented to a president of which we can find record is that offered with great publicity to Jefferson in 1802. The cheese was made—one might almost say built—in Cheshire, Mass., in a press giving it the great dimensions of four feet diameter and eighteen inches high. After being successfully pressed it was drawn from Cheshire to Washington in a six horse dray amid popular rejoicing. With regard for the dignity of his office, the president insisted on footing the bill to the tune of $200. There is record of an even greater cheese presented to President Jackson, and President Van Buren received a great cheese every year of his incumbency. With him the custom seems to have ended.—New York Sun.

Long Drawn Out. Uncle Jeff, an aged negro driver of Augusta, was piloting several northern visitors around just after the first golf links had been put in there. Uncle Jeff was a little short in his knowledge according to St. Andrew, but long on local pride.

"How many holes have they?" inquired a visitor, "eighteen?" Uncle Jeff pulled up to make his answer more impressive.

"More'n dat, suh," he said. "Dey's got a passel er land, and de holes ain't bigger'n a tin can. I reckon dey's got a thousand holes already, suh."—New York Post.

First Sumptuary Laws. Laws regulating eating, drinking and dressing are almost as old as history itself. Nothing like exactness can be reached in the matter, but it is safe to say that it was in Egypt as far back as 3000 B. C. that the first practical sumptuary statutes were passed. Among the Romans they first appeared in the celebrated "twelve tables." In modern times Charlemagne was the pioneer in sumptuary legislation.

A Bird That Bestows a Curse. The stonechat, a "soft billed" bird, is so called from the similarity of its alarm note and the striking together of two pebbles. In some parts of Scotland it is supposed to contain a drop of the devil's blood, and its nest is never taken because of the curse it is always promising.—Country Life.

Leisurely Tasmania. Leisure is regarded as so notable a characteristic of Tasmania that it bears the nickname of "the land of lots of time," or "the land of sleep a lot," while its inhabitants are called "tassies" and "jam eaters," the latter being an allusion to the island's great fruit farms.

CITROLAX
Best thing for constipation, sour stomach, lazy liver and sluggish bowels. Stops a sick headache almost at once. Gives a most thorough and satisfactory flushing—no pain, no nausea. Keep your system cleansed, sweet and wholesome. R. B. Rasmussen, Escanaba, Mich. writes "Citrolax is a fine laxative, pleasant to take and does the work in a very thorough manner." Children love it.—Jones' Drug Co.

A FEW REMARKS BY CRIDGE

Of all the blim-blamed fools and knaves that ever attacked a wrong, or a collection of wrongs, the red flag bunch are the blim-blamest.

Think of a body of reformers sincerely taking an auctioneer's flag and trying to make a symbol out of it that hangs higher than the stars and stripes! Is it any wonder such a bunch never get anywhere? Just where they were 25 years ago; not a step further. The first time that red flag ever heads a procession of FORCE, instead of talk, there will be need of crude petroleum to dispose of the followers that will be piled up. Not a flag of force? Huh! What is the matter, then with the American flag? Men who say nothing when they see that red flag and hear men denouncing the American flag will shove a cartridge home with satisfaction when the revolution comes that the red flaggers are talking about all the time. It will excuse the butchery and slaughter of tens of thousands, if ever that red flag starts out to conquer the American flag. We have law and order and lawful ways of doing things under the American flag, and if men are too ignorant, selfish, blind and foolish to use their ballots for themselves they will never get anywhere by swapping flags.

The American flag waves over some unjust things, and some rotten things, and some foolish things; but what a contrast over in Europe! Say, isn't our flag worth defending if any enemy tries to tear it down and make us follow some other flag? All right! The best way to protect the flag and all the true and good things it stands for is to guarantee under it the inalienable right of every man to enough land on which to make a living. The land monopolist in all civilizations has dragged them down to the dust. The biggest enemy to all the freedom and democracy that the stars and stripes symbolize is the class that holds land out of use in city and country while his fellow-countrymen, literally and actually by millions are idle.

Big Bill Taft did a great service to the American people when he refused to let Teddy run the republican party and thereby made Teddy walk out of the Chicago national convention. Think what would have happened if Teddy had gone snooks with Taft and had been elected president of these United States. Huh! War with Mexico, first rattle out of the box. Thousands upon tens of thousands of men sent in to wipe the earth with the Greaser! Thousands of mothers mourning sons! Thousands of widows mourning husbands! Thousands of children without fathers! Glorious! Then comes in the German squabble! Think of Teddy arguing about the Lusitania! Send 2,500,000 men over to France to help out the Allies. Join in the game of Hell on Earth just to help old Glory remain untarnished! Think of our German friends and neighbors, relatives and brother-in-laws suddenly made our enemies by Teddy, and victimized by our patriotic citizens! Say, if you pray, thank God we haven't Teddy instead of Wilson!

YOUR NERVES CONTROL YOUR HEALTH
THE intricate net work of nerves which leads to every part of the human body is responsible for the condition of your organs. The nerves lead from the brain, and every disease is immediately communicated by them to your mind.
These nerves, or health sustainers, are distributed from the spinal column—as shown in the illustration. If through accidents, blows, unnatural growth or curvature, the spinal column obstructs or interferes with the free passage of the health-giving currents which pass through these nerves, the organ or part of the body dependent upon the particular nerve so obstructed will become diseased, and remain so until the pressure has been removed.
Chiropractic, by relieving the pressure on the nerves, removes the cause of ill health.
It lifts the obstruction and gives the life currents full power to restore health in Nature's own way—without the use of drugs or surgery.
No matter what your ailment may be, or how discouraged you may have become—Give Nature a chance!
Chiropractic adjustments will remove the cause and permit Nature to restore you to health and vigor once more. Come in and learn what Chiropractic has done and is doing for others, and let us tell you frankly what it can do for you.
