OREGON WONDERS TOLD

Railroad Booklet Calls Attention of State's Beauties to Tourists

Oregon's outdoor wonders have been celebrated ever since the name "Oregon" has been spoken. The first explorers told of a land of great forests, mighty rivers, shimmering, snow-capped peaks, clear blue lakes, fish-crowded streams, wild-game haunts, and infinite variety of sea-shore, and broad, beautiful valleys made luxuriant in vegetation by the mild climate. Since then, other wonders have been found, greater than those mentioned by the pioneers.

In an effort to tell visitors to this Coast in 1915, bent on Seeing America First, where these beauties of Oregon are to be found, the Southern Pacific Company is distributing free a handsome booklet in colors called "Oregon-Outdoors."

The publication is in folder form so that it may be easily mailed to friends in the East or carried about in the pocket. The covers are in colors, printed in blue and red and black. The text occupies forty-six pages, illustrated by fifty-seven half-tone reproductions from photographs, and supplemented by a map. The rose which Oregon has made famous is featured in the decorative design.

Beginning at Portland, the reader is carried around the Southern Pacific Electric loop lines in the Willamette Valley. He visits the heart of the Cascades and is shown the attractions of the beaches at Tillamook, Newport and Coos Bay. A wide panel picture portrays Crater Lake. The Josephine County Caves, named by Joaquin Miller the "Marble Halls of Oregon," are likewise given prominence.

Throughout the booklet are suggestions for hunters and sportsmen in general, hints as to where trout abound and wild game are plentiful. A digest of the fish and game laws is added for the benefit of visitors from other states.

H. D. Olson, local agent of the Southern Pacific, has a supply of these folders, and will be glad to give them to local people who may desire to send them to eastern friends interested in the attractions of the Oregon country.

OREGON HENS LEAD

"College Bred" Fowls Make Wonderful Record at Frisco Fair

The sixth report of the world egg-laying contest at the Panama-Pacific Exposition shows that the O. A. C. Leghorns led with 208 eggs and the crosses were second with 188. The Barred Rock dropped back one place in the race.

For the term record at this, the middle point of the race, the Canada pen of Adams' White Wyandottes is still in the lead with 773 eggs, while the O. A. C. Leghorns are in second place and have all but overhauled their splendid competitors. Last month the Leghorns were 47 eggs behind their rivals, this month they are but five behind. The O. A. C. crosses are third with 712 eggs, having advanced from fifth place last month. The O. A. C. Barred Rock are now fifth in the term records with 694.

There are 60 pens in the contest. The lowest record is 127 eggs for the six months, made by a San Francisco flock. The O. A. C. Leghorns and crosses are now ahead of any other pens from the United States or England.

The highest individual record is that of the New York Leghorn with 111 eggs for six months. Two O. A. C. crosses are tied for second with 107 eggs each. The third highest is an O. A. C. Leghorn with 105 eggs, and another Oregon Leghorn is sixth with 95 eggs.

ODD NAMES FOR CREEKS

Iowans Turn to Familiar Things to Find Titles for Streams

That Iowa is a farming state is reflected in the names of many of the streams that flow through it. First there is a Farm Creek, so that Farmers Creek is not out of place; then there is a Chicken Creek, a Duck Creek, a Goose Creek, a number of Turkey creeks, as well as Pigeon Creek. There are Fox, Hawk, and Rat creeks to devour the domestic animals and some Crow creeks, while there is also a Fly Creek and Mosquito Creek to worry the summer boarders. Milk and Cold Water creeks are present, likewise a Hog Run and a Mud Creek, so that Bacon Creek is not strange. It is fitting that with a Bee Creek and a Bee ranch there should also be a Honey Creek. There are a couple of Cherry creeks, a Crabapple Creek, and plenty of Plum creeks, and for wild animals we have Bear, Beaver,

Buck, Crane, Deer, Doe, Elk, Otter, Panther, Raccoon, Skunk, and Wolf creeks. With a Keg Creek there is a Whiskey Creek and a Whiskey Run. Finally there is a Purgatory Creek.

These names appear in a "Gazetteer of Surface Waters of Iowa," by W. G. Hoyt and H. J. Ryan, just published by the United States Geological Survey as Water Supply Paper 345-L. This report may be obtained free of applying to the Director of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

WOMEN PLAN MEETING

Social and Civic Betterment to be Discussed at Club Convention

Club women of Portland are busily engaged completing the final arrangement for the Biennial Council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which opens May 31st with an evening reception at Multnomah Hotel.

There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions at the White Temple on June 1, 2 and 3; following the afternoon sessions on the 2nd and 3rd, the delegates will be conducted over the city in automobiles.

June 4th there will be an all-day picnic at Multnomah Falls. The steamer "Undine," famed as the flagship of the Dalles-Celilo celebration, will carry three hundred or more to the picnic place, and a like number will go by train, returning by boat, while those going by boat will make the return trip by train, thus affording all an opportunity to enjoy the river trip and shore scenery one way, and a view of the Columbia Highway and other scenes from the line of the railway.

One of the entertainment features of the week will be a pageant, at the Helix Theater, "Every Woman's Road," a morality play by Professor Josephine Hammond, of Reed College, for which advance seat sale is announced. Lot of town delegates desiring to make reservations for the play may communicate with Mrs. J. J. Frankel, Chairman Finance Committee, 270-E 17th St., North, Portland.

Ample provisions have been made for taking care of the two thousand delegates expected. The reception committee will have a delegation at the railway stations awaiting all incoming trains. Delegates are directed first to the White Temple, Corner 12th and Taylor Street, to register and receive credentials.

TIME TO CUT HAY

"Cut hay in the morning after the dew is off and rake into windrows as soon as the leaves are thoroughly wilted. Legumes (clover, alfalfa, etc.) especially lose their leaves readily and should be cured in windrow and cocks and not in the swath. Two to three days in cocks should cure clover hay enough for the mow. Be sure all outside moisture (rain and dew) are off and the danger will be experienced in mow burning, provided the crop was cut at the proper stage. You can't afford to lose the leaves by swath curing. They represent a large part of the nutritive value of the hay."

These are the views of J. E. Larson, field crop extension specialist of the Oregon Agricultural College, on the best time to cut hay.

Home To Graduate

Walter E. Bailey, of Gladstone, has returned to his home from the Philippines, and will shortly leave for Eugene, where he will graduate from the state university with the 1915 class. Mr. Bailey has been keeping up his collegiate course through correspondence, having been engaged as a teacher in the Philippine schools since 1911, when he left the university.

LOCAL POINTS BOOSTED

Southern Pacific Describes Attractions of Clackamas Scenery

Oregon City, Gladstone Park, the falls of the Willamette, Wilhoit Springs and other points of scenic beauty and interest in the Willamette and Clackamas valleys are described in a neat little booklet entitled "Suggestions for Side Trips from Portland," that the Southern Pacific Company is issuing without charge to those who are on sightseeing jaunts through the Pacific Northwest.

Each journey is taken up briefly and brightly. The distance from Portland and the time necessary is given in each instance, so that the tourist can plan his itineraries in such a way as to see the most of the country within whatever time he has at his disposal. Facts concerning the places along the line are given for his information and to make his outing interesting and pleasant. Two maps show where the territories he is visiting are located.

TRY THIS ON YOUR HOG

If He is Sick and Will Not Take Medicine, Maybe This Will Help

In the live-stock and dairy department of the current issue of Farm and Fireside a contributor tells of his difficulty in getting a sick hog to take the medicine that was necessary. How he got out of his difficulty is described in the following extract taken from his article:

"A neighbor looked over the fence and I appealed to him in despair. 'I wish I knew,' said I, 'how to give a hog medicine against his will.' 'It's easy,' said the neighbor. 'Fix up your medicine and bring an old shoe.'

"He cut some slits in the toe of the shoe, I held the hog and he stuck the shoe in its mouth. Mr. Parker squealed, chewed the shoe viciously, and when the medicine was poured into it by my friend the hog swallowed it as if he had been drinking from the trough."

"In three days the hog was well, and in three months he was $20 worth of pork. A trick worth knowing—if one knows what all the pig."

WILL BE SHOWN AGAIN

Kenney Log-splitter to be Demonstrated at July 4th Celebration

F. E. Kenney, whose demonstration of his log and cord-wood splitter was one of the features of Booster Day in the county seat last week, will be in Oregon City for the Moose celebration on July 4, and will again demonstrate this wonderful labor-saving device. Many who saw Mr. Kenney's hydraulic machine last week were much impressed with its power and the ease of its operation, and went away from the demonstration determined to give orders for one.

The machine needs but one man to operate it, quickly and readily splits heavy, weather-hardened logs; and will with equal ease root out stumps of even more than usual size. The machine is invaluable for clearing land, and aside from its absolute safety, will pay for itself in the cost of powder that it saves. It should be seen by all owners of raw land and by farmers who cut their own fuel.

SCHROEDER FINED

One of Group Arrested for Violating Liquor Law Found Guilty

When Hans Schroeder, Herman Mohnke, Carl Grossmiller and "Jerry" Sandergard were arraigned before City Recorder Loder last week, following their release of bail on the charge of bringing liquor into the county seat, all but Schroeder were acquitted. Schroeder was fined by the recorder.

Carl Grossmiller was charged with having endeavored to block Chief Shaw's efforts to arrest the party while they were in an automobile, but this point was not pressed before the court. Mr. Grossmiller called the court's attention to the fact that while it was alleged that six bottles of beer were in the automobile, only one was introduced as evidence.

PIONEER LAID AT REST

Well-known Rural Mail Carrier Passes Away After Years of Service

E. M. Waldron, who was born near Oregon City 41 years ago, died at his home last Saturday evening from typhoid fever. Mr. Waldron was one of the first rural carriers to work out of the Oregon City post office, and for seven years handled Rural Route No. 1 with more than usual satisfaction. As a mark of respect and mourning the local post office was closed Tuesday during the funeral, and members of the county seat postal force attended the services in a body.

Mr. Waldron was the son of pioneer Clackamas county parents, and had a host of friends throughout the county. He was a member of the Oddfellows and Woodmen of the World, both fraternal organizations participating in the funeral rites held over his body.

He is survived by Mrs. E. J. Waldron, his mother; and by his widow, two children, and the following brothers: George W. and J. L. Waldron, of Oregon City, and H. A. Waldron, of Los Angeles; and five sisters, Mrs. M. E. Harrington, of Gladstone; Mrs. Anna Sperry, of Linn county; Mrs. Gay Waldron, of Los Angeles; Mrs. Christina Barber, of Oregon City, and Mrs. Jessie Hyatt, of Willamette.

WHO PAYS THE PIPER?

Untrammelled "Oregon Voter" Devotes Issue to Jitneys and Rival

Once again the Courier is going to give a free ad to C. C. Chapman and his "Oregon Voter." We have at hand number four of this glorious publication, and we discover that about 30 pages are devoted to roasting the jitney, half a page is devoted to roasting the Portland "Spectator," and the balance is taken up with political ads, quotations from the Oregon City Enterprise, a page ad for the "Voter," and some small ads of assorted variety.

The price of this number is said to be ten cents. Bill Strandburg, publicity agent for the P. R. L. & P. Co., gives us much more entertaining anti-jitney news in his clever little weekly "Watt's Watt"—and we don't have to pay anything for that. Hence we wonder at C. C. C.'s temerity in charging ten cents for the same sort of stuff, only weaker.

Regarding the "Spectator," we have it on reasonably good authority that the "Oregon Voter" is flaying Mr. Hume of the Spectator largely because a certain man who doesn't like Mr. Hume put up some of the funds with which the "Voter" was started. Maybe these funds have now run out, and that is why the anti-jitney campaign is taken on so strongly.

SIZING IT UP

Estacada Paper Solves Mystery of Olds-Risley Trouble Recently

Among the Estacada visitors of last Saturday, were County Commissioner Knight of Canby, C. W. Risley and Ed Olds of Oak Grove. Olds and Risley were supposed to be at swords points, judging from the articles which have appeared from time to time about the injunctions and road troubles at the county seat, but if they ever were on other than friendly terms, no sign of it was evident on their visit here, but they are sure good advertisers.—(Estacada Progress.)

Clackamas Man Recovers

F. E. Williams, of Clackamas, who was injured while at work on February 19, has recovered and is again able to be out and around. As recompense for time lost through his hurts he received nearly $60 from the Woodmen accident association, of Lincoln, Nebraska.
