SUPERVISOR PLAN RAPPED

Correspondent Thinks System Results in Loss of Originality

Editor Courier: As you are one of the few editors who stand for the protection of the country schools from the "Educators' graft" in this state, I wish to protest in the Courier against the false statements made by one M. S. Pittman in the April Oregon Teachers' Monthly, concerning the schools of the country, and the teachers of the country schools.

I have fought this thing from the time it was sneaked through the legislature, and I shall continue to fight it until it is repealed or the people have a chance to vote on it, for I am of the opinion that Mr. Pittman's interest in the matter, as well as that of others, is that of getting the paper for all the really soft jobs, the "School Supervisor" has the skins and tallow of all the other soft jobs in the state, for to my mind this "school supervisor" law is a straight "Educator's" graft to give a greater tilt to the office chair and enlarge the capacity of pigeon-holes.

The tendency of most of the stuff dished out to us now in the name of education, religion and law, is to teach servility and submission, meekness and humility. It is a slave's gospel intended to make long-suffering serfs contented with their lots or without any, for most of them have not even a lot on God's earth. The landlords have appropriated everything and consecrated it to their use by the laying on of laws, and it is a business proposition with them to employ hireling shepherds to preach contentment to the shorn lambs.

I have talked with teachers, and I have yet to hear a teacher say any good came to the school or the teacher from the visits of the supervisor. I have been told that the visits did no good—yes, I have been told that they were an actual detriment to the teacher and pupils. You ask teachers why they don't make a fight against this supervisor nuisance and they will tell you that if they did the supervisor and superintendent could make it uncomfortable for them, and it is easier to endure some things and hand out taffy.

Three years ago or more, I was waiting at Gladstone for a morning car to Oregon City, and a teacher in the Portland schools was waiting for a car to Portland. The school question came up and I said that if I had a hundred children to send to school that I would not send them to a city school. "Pray why," asked the teacher. I said for the reason that I would not send children to school where the individuality and personality are crushed out of teachers and pupils alike. This teacher in reply said: "It is as bad in the small towns. I was teaching at * * * and when asked how I liked teaching in * * * said that I did not know, for I was not teaching the pupils in my room, Supt. * * * is doing the teaching." This teacher quit her job at that place and got a job in the Portland schools. She was a teacher of ability, college education, knew her business, and was opposed to teaching by proxy.

The conditions for the grade teachers of Portland were almost unbearable until they organized themselves into a league for mutual protection from the nagging and bullying ragging from supervisors, principals, superintendents and all the rest of the crowd who had feather beds on the top shelves. The Evening Telegram and Grace D. Naff, President of the league, won out in their fight to protect the teachers in their self respect. I fight the plans of the "Educators," who would unload more of their dope into the country schools, for our schools are all ready overloaded with educational indigestion.

R. A. EATTON.

ABOUT EATING

Man Shall Not Live by Bread Alone; He Needs Honey

Eating is one of the most important functions of life and getting something to eat is one of its greatest burdens. Paul's maxim: Eat what is set before you and give thanks is misunderstood and perverted till it has become one of the most vicious doctrines ever preached on earth.

It all depends on whether the defendant is a paying guest or a charity boarder. If a gentleman orders a bottle of champagne and is served with beer, he is more likely to throw the bottle at the waiter's head than to give thanks. The idea is that beggars must not be choosers but gentlemen are supposed to get what they pay for.

St. Paul was an itinerant preacher or tramp evangelist. He was an apostle to the Gentiles. The Gentiles were a variegated assortment of folks. Some were funny but most of them were fierce. He preached to Romans, Hebrews, Colossians, Ephesians, Thessalonians, Philippians and other tribes too numerous to mention. Some of these wore clothes and others wore breech clouts, but Paul had to make himself at home with all of them and eat what they passed around.

It is not good manners when accepting hospitality at the hands of strangers, for one to find fault with what is set before him. That is how Paul felt about it, but circumstances alter cases, and now the maxim: Eat what is set before you, has come to be a sort of beggars' gospel. It means believe and obey; do anything you are told, ask no questions and have no mind of your own. Shut your eyes and open your mouth and swallow any kind of dope, political or patriotic, that is poured into you through the newspaper funnels. Surrender your liberties; relinquish your rights, take anything that is handed down to you, stand for anything or fall for it. In short, it means to be a Dobb and a slave instead of a man.

The tendency of most of the stuff dished out to us now in the name of education, religion and law, is to teach servility and submission, meekness and humility. It is a slave's gospel intended to make long-suffering serfs contented with their lots or without any, for most of them have not even a lot on God's earth. The landlords have appropriated everything and consecrated it to their use by the laying on of laws, and it is a business proposition with them to employ hireling shepherds to preach contentment to the shorn lambs.

It is a business proposition to chloroform the victims with visions of mansions in the skies while they are robbed of their rights and their homes in this world. It is commercial Christianity. It is the gospel of Judas, sold for coin in hand. But the poor don't hear it gladly any more. They are getting sore on it, and this is one of the most hopeful signs of the times.

The world has changed considerably since Paul's time. It is nearly 2,000 years since he was a gospel pedler, and felt himself constrained to be thankful for anything he could get. Now we are supposed to have achieved freedom. We are supposed to live in a free country. The Stars and Stripes are supposed to float over the land of the free and the home of the free and the home of the brave.

But the theory is sadly at variance with the facts. Most of the brave and the free have neither lands nor homes, and the rulers, the unjust stewards, the usurping servants blow hot and blow cold. With one side of their faces they tell the victims they are the sovereign people that are so good and so free. With the other side they tell them to eat what is set before them and they take care that there is mighty little set before them. They have hogged the whole cheese so that there is mighty little of anything for the poor devils to get. They can't even get a job.

SOLDIERS WERE SLIGHTED? Mrs. Brown, of Women's Relief Corps Finds Blot on Patriotism

The G. A. R. and W. R. C. visited thirteen of the different schools in the vicinity of Oregon City previous to Decoration Day. The object of these visits was to inspire patriotism in the young children of our community. It is a custom now universal wherever a G. A. R. organization exists. The visits paid to the schools every year have been an inspiration to all concerned, and in this year it seems to have been a more enthusiastic affair than in any previous year.

Every school but one was wide awake and gave a greeting to the old comrades that will never be forgotten, and when the old boys have gone to their rest the memory of their visits will live with the young people who have treated them so cordially. To speak of one school alone as better than another is not to be thought of. Recitations, flag drills and flowers were everywhere, and the principal and teachers held out a welcoming hand while a bounteous repast was served to the old boys and girls that would be fit for a king.

The last two schools visited were Oak Grove and Milwaukie. At Oak Grove nothing was left undone to make the reception a success, but alas, for Milwaukie! We know there are many good citizens in Milwaukie and we believe they have all the respect for the old comrades, and they surely would not endorse the action of the principal of their school in the cool reception he gave the visitors. Not a flag in sight except the one the law requires, not a welcoming hand was given by the man who is supposed to be the example of loyalty and patriotism to the country whose laws protect him. We sincerely hope he will become inspired with some feeling of gratitude for our country and flag when we call on the Milwaukie school next year, for we are going there sure until we are not able to go, and then we may send substitutes.

MRS. R. M. C. BROWN. CUTE LETTER RECEIVED

Courier Is Favored With Communication From "Oregon Voter" You have to hand it to C. C. Chapman, former publicity agent of the Portland Commercial club, and now publisher of the "Oregon Voter," a weekly publication designed to get two-dollar subscription checks for C. C. Chapman. A recent mail brought to the Courier a nicely mimeographed letter, starting off with: "Dear Sir: Many, many thanks for that dandy notice you gave the Voter."

The Courier appreciates this letter, especially as somebody printed C. C. C.'s signature on it in red lead pencil. Personal letters written on a mimeograph and signed by a mailing-list clerk are always welcome here. The only thing we don't understand is how a man of C. C. Chapman's wisdom tried it out on a newspaper.

Maybe C. C. C. is trying the same dodge on the country press that he is on the Oregonian. It used to be said that anybody or anything that the Oregonian was "made," and that anybody or thing that the Oregonian praised was doomed. We've noticed that in two of the three issues of the Oregon voter Mr. Chapman has taken neatly concealed "slams" at the "big men" of the Oregonian. Maybe he was hoping that the Tall Tower would roast him as a consequence and give him some free advertising. So far the Oregonian hasn't done it. The Courier does it, willingly enough, because it strikes us as funny that a man of C. C. C.'s astuteness should try it on in this day and age.

ONE VIEW OF IT That "Weekly Industrial Review" sent out from Salem to the newspapers of the state is principally devoted to knocking. Col. Hofer has his hammer out for anything that looks like progress. He would make a good twin for Ex-speaker Cannon as a reactionary.—(Coquille Sentinel.)

YOUR NERVES CONTROL YOUR HEALTH THE intricate network of nerves which leads to every part of the human body is responsible for the condition of your organs. The nerves lead from the brain, and every disease is immediately communicated by them to your mind. These nerves, or health sustainers, are distributed from the spinal column—as shown in the illustration. If through accidents, blows, unnatural growth or curvature, the spinal column obstructs or interferes with the free passage of the health-giving currents which pass through these nerves, the organ or part of the body dependent upon the particular nerve so obstructed will become diseased, and remain so until the pressure has been removed. Chiropractic, by relieving the pressure on the nerves, removes the cause of ill health. It lifts the obstruction and gives the life currents full power to restore health in Nature's own way—without the use of drugs or surgery. No matter what your ailment may be, or how discouraged you may have become—Give Nature a chance! Chiropractic adjustments will remove the cause and permit Nature to restore you to health and vigor once more. Come in and learn what Chiropractic has done and is doing for others, and let us tell you frankly what it can do for you. DRS.
