BIG SHOW COMING

Grand Theatre To Offer "A Woman's Resurrection" On Friday

Charlie Schram, who runs the Grand Theatre in Oregon City, and who recently put his projection screen back about 30 feet, so that front row seats are just as good as those in the rear of the house, announces that tomorrow, Friday, he will offer, for one day only, "A Woman's Resurrection," which is a film form of Count Leo Tolstol's great novel. Betty Nansen will have the leading role, and others in the cast have been specially chosen for their ability to portray the difficult roles in which the drama abounds.

The scene of this great and gripping play is laid in Russia, and runs through all extremes from the regal splendor of the receptions in the capital to the bleak dreariness of the Siberian wastes. Faithful attention to detail has been given in mounting the drama, and patrons of the Grand will find the film not only absorbingly interesting, but of great educational and historical value as well.

Betty Nansen, the Danish beauty whose acting for the screen in the production of "A Woman's Resurrection" has been one of the sensations of pictureland. Just before the outbreak of war she banked with the Bank of France a considerable sum of money which she had received from moving picture concerns in Paris. With the opening of hostilities the banks in France ceased paying deposits generally. The other day Miss Nansen therefore was surprised to receive a draft from the Bank of France for 180,000 francs. Several fashionable dress-makers along Fifth Avenue, New York City, are also rejoicing in this fact, for Miss Nansen promptly invested most of her check in new and wonderful frocks all of which she wears upon the screen.

Line to go under cut—

NEW STYLE COMES

Canes May Be in Vogue After First of Year, Especially in Oregon

If you see a sudden outbreak of canes in Clackamas county after the first of the year, don't be surprised. There is quite a good chance that canes will become popular with some folk—in fact they are selling them in Portland in some of the stores already. The canes are lovely things, nicely polished, and with silver and gold tops.

However, they are more than canes. The metal tops unscrew and reveal within the cane a long, narrow bottle, that will hold about three pints of any liquid that it may be deemed best to pour into the... It is expected that these canes will prove quite popular with people who expect to need more than the legal 24 quarts of beer and two quarts of booze—in fact it is for that purpose that they have been invented.

When you see a cane after the first of the year don't surmise that the man carrying it is lame—smell his breath instead!

CITROLAX

Best thing for constipation, sour stomach, lazy liver and sluggish bowels. Stops a sick headache almost at once. Gives a most thorough and satisfactory flushing—no pain, no nausea. Keeps your system cleansed, sweet and wholesome.—R. H. Weisheit, Salt Lake City, Utah, writes: "I find Citrolax the best laxative I ever used. Does not gripe—no unpleasant after-effects."—Jones Drug Co.

Child Welfare Talk

At the Congregational church Sunday evening, October 10, Miss Anna Louise Strong, of Seattle, will talk on Child Welfare. Miss Strong will appear under the special auspices of the Burns Society, and her remarks should be vitally interesting to all who are desirous of bettering conditions under which modern children are forced to grow up.

Two Children Had Croup

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant, Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw inflamed throats and loosens phlegm.—Jones Drug Co.

CHURCHMEN TO MEET

Annual Gathering of Congregational Conference Opens Tuesday

The 67th annual meeting of the Congregational Conference of Oregon will be held in Oregon City commencing next Tuesday, October 12, the meetings being held in the local Congregational church. Assisting the First Congregational church in entertaining the delegates will be the Parkplace, Clackamas and Jennings Lodge Congregational churches. A big program has been arranged for the three days of the conference, and many notable ministers and speakers will discuss the questions that will come before the meeting.

The conference will open Tuesday afternoon, at which time general organization will be taken up. Tuesday evening a devotional service will be held, with communion and a sermon by the Rev. A. C. Moses, of Portland.

Wednesday morning a business session will be held and practical problems of the church will be discussed. In the afternoon the general topic for discussion will be "The Ministry of the Church in Modern Society," while in the afternoon "The Ministry of Christian Men" will be the chief subject. Religious education and missionary work will be discussed on the closing day of the conference, while Thursday evening there will be a young people's rally.

The committees in charge of the conference are as follows: Program and Business: George N. Edwards, Miss Mary F. Farnham, and James Elvin.

Entertainment—Mrs. Mary E. Norris, Mrs. D. M. Shanks, Mrs. D. W. James and Miss Jean White.

Reception—Rev. H. N. Smith, L. Adams, A. C. Howland, Albert Roake, Misses May Hinchman and Marian White.

Decorations—Miss Florence White, Chairman.

OVERLAND TURNS OVER

Washington County Man and Wife Have Narrow Escape from Death

What might have been a fatal accident occurred last Monday morning, when George McKibbin's new Overland skidded, slipped off the roadway and turned completely over. Mrs. McKibbin received painful injuries, having several ribs broken, and other internal injuries, but at the present time she is getting along nicely, and unless unforeseen complications arise, will recover. She is at the Forest Grove Hospital, under the care of Dr. Kauffman.

Early Monday morning, Mr. McKibbin, with his wife and five children, started for Salem to attend the State Fair. He was going along the road just this side of Gaston, where the Scoggins Valley road turns off, when he ran into a wet place in the road, just at the bridge. He turned slightly to avoid a patch on the bridge, the machine skidded, slipping to one side of the road and against the railing, sliding along the railing to the end of the bridge. Once past the railing the car ran off the four or five foot embankment, and turned completely over-landing on its wheels again. Mrs. McKibbin was with her husband in the front seat, and the children in the rear seat. All remained in the car when it went over except one child, but none received injuries, other than bruises and scratches, except Mrs. McKibbin.—(Washington County News-Times.)

Reports from England announce that the clergymen there are inclined to violate the law. In our own country, in various sections, we note the disposition to fight the prohibition amendment. It gives one a suspension of judgment when it is noted that the very persons whom we hold in total abstinence, are against the opportunity to enact it practically. If it has come to pass that religious worship can not be had without liquor as its accompaniment, we wonder what all the shout has been about.

Why decry the workman's use of liquor, if the church must have it to get your soul into that far off haven of eternal rest? If a church can't run without liquor, why expect the enterprises of mammon to get by without it? Is it up to mammon to teach the clergy the proper moral road for mankind?

GALA DAY PLANNED

Active Boosters of Community Take Up Scheme to Celebrate Water

Preliminary plans for a celebration of the county seat's acquisition of pure mountain water have been formulated along the lines suggested by the Oregon City Courier some two weeks ago. At a luncheon given in the Commercial club rooms this week a committee was named to take up the work of arranging for the celebration, and rapid progress is expected. The committee consists of W. A. Huntley, L. L. Pickens, Dr. Hempstead, E. E. Brodie, E. R. Brown and Chris Schuebel.

Among the features of the celebration that are already practically assured are the throwing open of Oregon City's great industrial plants to visitors on the day when the pure mountain water will be formally welcomed in the city; a grand ball in the evening on Seventh street, between the elevator and Main street, and a civic parade in the morning. Other features will be worked out as rapidly as possible.

LOCAL BEEF HAS CHANCE

Care in Stock Raising All That Is Needed in Western Oregon

"I have often heard it said that good beef cannot be produced anywhere in Western Oregon," says Professor E. L. Potter, of the O. A. C. Animal Husbandry department, "and that feeds are not suitable for making good smooth cattle. After careful investigations I am convinced that this is not true. Just as good beef can be produced in Western Oregon as in any other part of the state. Inferior quality is not due to poor natural conditions or to poor feed and grazing."

"It is due almost entirely to inferior cattle. A very large portion of the steers are of a most miserable breeding, mixed Jerseys and non-descript stuff, resulting in animals that are undersized, without any meat on their backs, and exceedingly rough."

Mrs. Notz Dies

Mrs. Albert Notz, for 17 years a resident of Clackamas Station, died at her home late Thursday afternoon of last week. Mrs. Notz was a native of Switzerland, and came to Oregon 26 years ago, settling first in Portland. Later she moved to Clackamas, where the funeral was held Sunday afternoon. Her husband, one brother and five children survive her.

PROHIBITION COMMENTS

Oregon Law School Journal Offers the Following Observations

In those days of long ago when they changed water into wine, made water leap from barren rocks, when bread fell from the skies and a basket-full of fish fed thousands, one opines that wonders coming so plentifully did not stir the people so much as wonders of the late century do.

The latest wonder of the Twentieth century has occurred. The clergy, generally speaking, are against strict prohibition.

Reports from England announce that the clergymen there are inclined to violate the law. In our own country, in various sections, we note the disposition to fight the prohibition amendment. It gives one a suspension of judgment when it is noted that the very persons whom we hold in total abstinence, are against the opportunity to enact it practically. If it has come to pass that religious worship can not be had without liquor as its accompaniment, we wonder what all the shout has been about.

VETERAN ANSWERS CALL

Faxon Hayford, Hero of Many Engagements, Dies at Gladstone

A member of the famed First Minnesota infantry, which fought in every engagement of the army of the Potomac during the Civil War, Faxon Hayford died last Friday at his home in Gladstone. He had been ill for many months, and little hope had been entertained by his friends of his recovery. Mr. Hayford was 74 years of age, and was an honored member of Meade Post, No. 2, G. A. R.

Mr. Hayford was twice severely wounded, the first time in front of Richmond and the second time at the battle of Gettysburg. At Gettysburg the First Minnesota was ordered to hold Longstreet's entire corps in check until Hancock could get the second corps in line. The regiment was almost annihilated, only 42 surviving the charges of the confederates.

Two sons in Minnesota, a daughter in California and an adopted daughter in Gladstone survive Mr. Hayford. He came to Oregon, Clackamas county many years ago from Minnesota.

FINE FOR THE WEST

Writer in "Science" Discovers that Noted People are Moving Here

A writer in a recent number of "Science" has been interested in the movements of noted people in the United States, and has discovered that there is a steady progress of men of unusual brain power from the east to the west and from the south to the north. The investigations have been made by means of the names of people listed in "Who's Who," a Chicago publication that gives the life stories of people who have gained general prominence in the United States.

Careful analysis of the movement of these people shows that approximately 16 percent of them have migrated to the Pacific Coast states, while a smaller percent has moved from the south to more northern latitudes. In fact the only southern state which has retained its share of notable people is Florida. The New England states have particularly suffered in this movement of genius to the west, none of the New England divisions having been able to hold as many of their notable sons and daughters as have migrated to the west. While the Rocky Mountain states have attracted many of these people of note, it is an interesting and gratifying fact to discover that Washington, Oregon and California have attracted by far the greater number; so that in the matter of brain power this side of the continent is far in the lead of the older section of the country.

New England has led in the production of men of genius, with the Middle Atlantic states running second in productivity; but the Pacific slope has drawn these people away rapidly, and they have made their homes in the western section of the United States. This discovery proves what all of us have long known—that this is the best part of the world, and that wise people appreciate that fact.

GRAND JURY CALLED

Inquisitors To Meet Next Monday To Take Up Important Cases

District Attorney Hedges has issued a call for the hold-over grand jury to convene next Monday, when a number of important matters will be presented to it for consideration. Aside from the cases of a number of men now held in the county jail or released on bonds, there are some matters the nature of which are being closely guarded. It is expected that the report of the grand jury will be of more than usual importance, and when its findings are made public it is believed that considerable surprise will be felt.

BURLESQUERS ARE HIT

Troupe That Showed at Local Theatre Receives Call from Officer

Constable Jack Frost went up to the Star theatre, Oregon City, last Saturday night and "counted up" for the Frank Rich musical burlesque company, which apparently had done mighty poor business, for there was only $2.25 in the box office at the time. This wasn't enough to satisfy Jack, for he had a court order to collect $45 for alleged unpaid salary of a musician that the troupe discarded in Portland.

In lieu of the other $24.75 Constable Frost attached such general belongings and scenery of the company as he could find. This didn't amount to a whole lot, because the company was mostly "traveling on its wardrobe," and the real scenery had been shipped to Aberdeen, where the burlesquers are due to show next. But Jack got some stuff, and the show at Aberdeen will be even less decorated than it was here.

SERIOUS CHARGE MADE

Milwaukee Court Officials and Law Yers Named in Suit

Alleging that Justice of the Peace J. R. Kelso, of Milwaukee; George I. Brooks and Arthur Cotzhauser, attorneys, and their clients, Orella E. and A. Russa all entered into a conspiracy, Mrs. Fern E. Matthews has filed suit against them for $5,000. In her suit Mrs. Matthews also named A. L. Reed, constable at Milwaukee, and accuses him of being drunk and with threatening to do her bodily harm.

The complaint, filed for Mrs. Matthews by O. W. Eastham, sets forth that the defendants deprived her of her furniture without legal action, that Justice Kelso was a party to the plot, and that Constable Reed went to the Matthews house with a wagon, and at the point of a gun, forced Mrs. Matthews to permit the seizure of the furniture.

SLANDER SUIT FILED

Defendant Alleged to have Sought Protection from Outcome

Mrs. Amy A. Nelson, of Boring, has filed suit at Oregon City against John Miller of the same place for slander. She has asked $12,000 as a balm for her lacerated feelings.

It is stated that the Nelsons worked for Miller on his farm and after they left the latter endeavored to have Mrs. Nelson return and become his housekeeper. Upon her refusal he is said to have made derogatory remarks concerning her character.

It is also stated that Miller transferred his land and farming interests to other persons to avoid paying any possible judgment.

MINISTER GIVES TESTIMONY

The Rev. C. M. Knighton, Havana, Fla., writes: "For three months I suffered intense pain in kidneys and back, which at times laid me up entirely. I read of Foley Kidney Pills and after trying various remedies without result I decided to try the Foley treatment. I was relieved almost with the first dose and it is a fact that I used only 1 1/2 bottles when all of the pains disappeared. I am 55 years of age and now feel like a young man again."—Jones Drug Co.

FREAK EGGS DISPLAYED

White Leghorn Hen Lays Large and Small Size Products

Mrs. L. E. Robbins, of Logan, last week brought in to the Courier two eggs, both of which were perfect in shape and quality; but which differed materially in their size. The eggs were later placed on exhibition in the windows of Huntley Brothers' store. The wide range of the hen's taste in the matter of eggs was shown from the fact that one of the omelette makers measured six and a quarter by eight inches; while the other one measured but two and three-eighths by two and seven-eighths inches.

NEWS FROM VERBOORT

Eastern Oregon Town Appears to be Home of "School Lickings"

A correspondent from Verboort complains that in our account last week of the visit of Father Plus Moore to Roy we did not mention that

FATHER MOORE'S VISIT

Father Moore had received most of his early schooling at the Verboort public school. The oversight was unintentional. Says the correspondent in part:

"We naturally expected to read about his school training which was experienced in Verboort when the well known Sister Antonia was the best disciplinarian that the Dutch settlement had ever had and when urchins received the salutary training of the rod when necessary instead of the soft words that in these days fail to turn away the biblical wrath just because the Holy Ghost method is so little or not a tall applied. The false humanity of modern pedagogy has almost driven the once healthy rod out of the school.

"And be it well known henceforth that the Verboort parish is the mother church of about every new existing parish or mission in Washington county, with the exception of Tigardville and Cedar Mill or Beaverton, and the little round top known as Cooper Mountain. Verboort gave life to the surrounding country and still continues to give life with unabated strength."—(Banks Herald.)
