word to build additions and make more room while we keep at the business of making more criminals. We encumber our statue-books with a multitude of laws so complex and numerous that even a lawyer cannot avoid breaking them, and for some slight offense we brand and blight the life and hope of the flower of our young manhood. Our penitentiary is filled with men who are, for the most part, very much the same as the population outside of it. Only a small portion of the inmates were criminals at heart or enemies of society when they made their first trip there. Most of these men, when they looked from behind their prison bars for the first time, were little more than boys. In time our courts and prosecutors will come to understand that the sentence of a year in the penitentiary is in reality a sentence for life, and if we are going to stop the penitentiary overflow we must do it when our little folks stand at life's morning and falter between the byways that lead to a criminal career and the highways that lead to success and useful

The committee in charge of the campaign is greatly pleased with its progress and is extending every effort to keep Miss Uptegrove's name as near the top of the list as possible. Yesterday the count gave her 125,420 votes, whereas the next highest candidate had only 119,410. The votes that were purchased wth the proceeds of the button sale carried Miss Uptegrove's name from seventh place on the list to the first place.

A special concession that the committee here will probably take advantage of was granted by the Rose Festival management this week. This concession makes it possible to give 5,000 extra votes for every dollar spent for votes. The dollar itself will ouy one thousand votes, and with the five thousand given free the inducement to purchase votes should be great on the part of those who are interested in seeing the Clackamas county candidate elected. This concession is the last, according to the statement of the Festival management, and will hold good only until May 13.

One cut sifted flour ; scant half tea One cup sifted pour; scant half teaspoonful salt; 2 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; grated rind of 1 lemon; 2 eggs beaten light; 1 cup sugar; 4 cup hot milk; glass of jelly; powdered sugar.

Beat the sugar into the eggs; add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder; and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered dripping pan; turn out on a damp cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with itally and two over and over into with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Dredge the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll en-ables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the eggs and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven,

The Spreading Adder Will Fool You if You Don't Know Him.

He's a siv creature, this snake. When he's discovered and trapped he'll make such a bullabaloo about it, with his hissing and contortions, that if you're not wise to the fact that he's only bluffing you're sure to be frightened. If you're acquainted with him, however, and refuse to run, he'll give one final twist and roll over on his back, Just as though he had made up his mind to die and save you the trouble of killing him. But don't be fooled. He's only playing possum. He's the spreading adder.

His tricks have resulted in all sorts of wild stories about him. Many people believe he's poisonous, because he spreads his head out flat and hisses when he's disturbed. As a matter of fact, he couldn't hurt you if you pickthe weeds as they first appear in the ed him up by the head. He's only bluffing when he hisses.

Then there's another story about the spreading adder to the effect that he will bite himself and fall over dead. This belief comes from his habit of playing possum when he sees he's cornered and can't escape.

The spreading adder is about thirty inches long, a reddish brown and county candidate for queen of the tonds and insects. He's also called

HAS TO SPLIT HIS TIPS.

Not All the Money the Waiter Gets Goes Into His Pocket.

Comes a waiter of twenty years' take and the local candidate's stand- service who says the man who does ng was not recorded as it should have the serving is lucky if he gets 25 per cent of his tip money.

"We wouldn't complain much if we were allowed to keep our tips," he said. "but the waiter is by necessity the best tipper in the world. He has to split his tips at least five ways. The head walter gets his, the captain has his hand out, and the 'scrub' waiter and cook are next in line. "If the waiter keeps all the money the captain will soon get wise to him and he will get no more live ones steered up to his table. If the cook is neglected the waiter might get his or ders cold from the kitchen. If he doesn't cross the paim of the head waiter with rilver once in awhile be will be looking for another job.

"The popular idea that all watters are rich is 'all wrong.' The average walter gets about $6 or $8 a week, and some of them get less. The man that leaves a quarter in the tray is really giving the walter about 6 cents."-Chi cago Tribune.

Letters and Postage Stamps. "Strange ideas some people have about postage," said the clerk who opens the mail. "Yes. See this letter here with three one-cent stamps on it and stamped I cent due? That's a case Miss Uptegrove now has the honor in point. The writer of that letter f heading the list of candidates for thought that perhaps it weighed a lit he second time, and with the display tle over an ounce, a little more than of the proper spirit by those who would go for 2 cents, and so he put on would lend the managing committee a little more postage-I cent morethe support that is due it, her name which he thought would cover it, when the fact is that it required an additional two cent stamp. Of course you know that letter postage is not fractional, but that it goes in multiples of two. If a letter weighs ever so little over an ounce it requires an additional two cent stamp. But not everybody seems to know this, and so we some and property values is given as one times get letters like this one with a of the qualifications for office of R. ## WARTIME NURSES

The Great Baitle of Mercy Won by Florence Nightingale.

WORK OF THE GREAT PIONEER.

She Changed the Military Hospital From a Shambles Into a Life Saving Station and Became the Mother of Modern Nursing Methods.

Florence Nightingale, whose death occurred in 1911 at the advanced age of ninety, was a revolutionist in the most splendid sense of that term. She it was who revolutionized nursing to that extent that she may be considered as the mother of that profession. Previous to her entrance into the field the sick were the victims of callous ignorance and grasping in difference, but Florence Nightingale introduced the trained, skilled and gentle hospital nurse, district nurse and mili tary nurse of today. Certainly to few women-and to few men-has it been given to serve their fellows so splendidly and so effective ly. Florence Nightingale found chaos in military hospitals; she created order and all that order implies.

After the battle of Alma, in the Crimean war, the military hospital at Scutari was like a dirty shambles. Wounded men died in hundreds in the midst of squalor and vermin. Crowds of poisonous flies buzzed ceaselessly above the sick; medical supplies were inadequate; proper food could not be had; there were no arrangements for washing or sanitation.

The plight of the wounded soldiers. herded together in this hotbed of pestilence, was worse than if they had been left upon the battlefield. "Are there no devoted women among you," wrote Russell, the famous war correspondent of the London Times, "able and willing to go forth and administer to the sick and suffering soldiers in the east in the hospitals at Scutari? Are none of the daughters of England at this hour of need ready for such a work of mercy?"

This appeal was answered almost in stantly. Sidney Herbert was then at the head of the war office, and when the authorities began to be inundated by letters from women of all classes anxious to respond to the call Mr. Herbert's thoughts at once turned to the lady who was in his opinion the one woman capable of organizing and taking out to the Crimen a staff of nurses The woman was Florence Nightingale,

Miss Nightingale was thirty-four at the time, and from her childhood she had devoted herself to the study of hospital nursing and hospital manage ment. In 1849 she had enrolled herself as a volunteer nurse at the first training school for sick nurses established in modern times-the Deaconess institution at Kaiserworth, on the Rhine, When the war broke out there was no woman in all England better fitted than Florence Nightingale to give to England's soldiers comfort and relief. Mr. Herbert wrote to Miss Nightin gale and asked her if she would go out and supervise the whole thing. His letter crossed one from her, for on the same day Florence Nightingale had written to the war office offering her services in the hospital at Scutari. The offer showed splendid courage.

Within a week of making her resolve. Miss Nightingale had ber first contingent of nurses in marching order. She had selected thirty-eight nurses to accompany her, and they arrived at Scutari on the day before the battle of Inkerman. And without a moment's loss of time that lady in chief and her staff set to work to cleanse the Augean stable which they found waiting for them at the great barrack hospital.

In a short time the place was entirely renovated. Everything was scrubbed, old clothes were bur ed, a kitchen and laundry were establish and the place became a comfortable, well organized hospital. Florence Nightingale superintended everything. She worked as hard at the routine and organizing as at the nursing itself. At all hours of the day and night she would walk silently, lamp in hand, through the wards, giving a word of comfort here or instruction there. She saved the lives literally of hundreds.

Wounded men, so horribly mangled that doctors gave them no hope, and other nurses could not bring themselves to touch them, were saved from death by the tireless care of this one wonderful woman. The men worshiped the very shadow of this "lady with the lamp.

The supreme womanliness of the work of Miss Nightingate made her the idol of the English people. Three monarchs paid their tribute to ber. Remembered by royalty she was not for gotten by the people. On her return shattered in health, from Scutari, $250,000 was presented to her by a grateful nation. She used it all for the founding of the Nightingale Train ing Home For Nurses at St. Thomas' hospital, England, which is practically the parent of modern training bome throughout the world, just as Florence Nightingale was the mother of all pres ent day nurses. - Cleveland Plain
